Foner, Josephin Pacheco, 1984-03-27 Against a pre Civil War backdrop of violence and antagonism three courageous women in different parts of the country undertook to teach black children Prudence Crandall Margaret Douglass and Myrtilla Miner lived respectively in Connecticut Virginia and Washington D C they each found that racial prejudice is not limited by geography and that people will go to great lengths to prevent the teaching of blacks Of the three schools they established only one in the nation's capitol proved more or less permanent but all three had a significant impact on American life Because they chose to teach black children Miner Douglass and Crandall all endured persecution and hardship Foner and Pacheco's important biographical study portrays three women of unusual courage who deserve to take their places with the many brave women of nineteenth century America Prudence Crandall, 2003-05-01 This series introduces young readers to biographies Rather than focusing on the subject's entire life these biographies focus on important episodes that show what kind of person the subject was and how he or she came to be famous Although written in story format these books are nonfiction accounts of the subject A chronology of major events follows the story as does a brief summary of the subject's life To All on Equal Terms Diana McCain, 2004-01-01 Prudence Crandall a Woman of Courage Elizabeth Yates, 2016-09-21 The story of the young Prudence Crandall's stout hearted resistance to danger and violence inspires us in the same way There really was a patriotic Prudence Crandall who fought bravely against heavy odds for what we now love as one of the bases of our American heritage She is no imaginary heroine She was a slender young woman with bright blue eyes soft blond hair and a special way of speaking quiet controlled lady like as people said in the early part of the 1800's but firm as granite The author of this book has searched letters memoirs documents of all kinds and has found out so much about her that we can actually see her as she stood brave as a lion in her decorous long spreading skirts her well brushed golden hair gleaming her bonnet strings tied neatly under her firm chin Quaker Biographies, 1916 Prudence Crandall Jenny Phillips, 2019-03 The Forbidden Schoolhouse Suzanne Jurmain, 2018-01-02 Describes the circumstances surrounding the 1833 opening of a school for African American girls in Canterbury Connecticut and discusses the attitudes of the townspeople who persecuted the teacher and burned down the school The Pioneer's Way Jennifer Hayden Epperson, 2020-10-20 Senseless school shootings cure defying epidemics threats of environmental disaster these are the
