Religious Experience The End Of Metaph:

Religious Experience, Justification, and History Matthew C. Bagger, 1999-11-13 Many philosophers of religion have sought to defend the rationality of religious belief by shifting the burden of proof onto the critic of religious belief Some have appealed to extraordinary religious experience in making their case Religious Experience Justification and History restores neglected explanatory and historical considerations to the debate Through a study of William James it contests the accounts of religious experience offered in recent works Through reflection on the history of philosophy it also unravels the philosophical use of the term justification Matthew Bagger argues that the commitment to supernatural explanations implicit in the religious experiences employed to justify religious belief contradicts the modern ideal of human flourishing For contrast and to demonstrate the indispensability of history he includes a study of Teresa of Avila's mystical theology The controversial supernatural explanations implicit in extraordinary religious experience places the burden of proof on the believer

Pain and Its Ending Carol Anderson, 2013-10-11 Demonstrates how the four noble truths are used throughout the Pali canon as a symbol of Buddha's enlightenment and as a doctrine within a larger network of Buddha's teachings Their unique nature rests in their function as a proposition and as a symbol in the Theravada canon

Religious Experience Amber L. Griffioen, 2021-12-23 This Element looks at religious experience and the role it has played in philosophy of religion It critically explores the history of the intertwined discourses on mysticism and religious experience before turning to a few specific discussions within contemporary philosophy of religion One debate concerns the question of perennialism vs constructivism and whether there is a common core to all religious or mystical experience independent of interpretation or socio-historical background Another central discussion concerns the epistemology of purportedly theophanic experience and whether a perceptual model of religious experience can provide evidence or justification for theistic belief The Element concludes with a discussion of how philosophy of religion can productively widen its treatment of religious experience in the service of creating a more inclusive and welcoming discipline

Understanding Religious

Experiences J. Harold Ellens, 2007-11-30 Today most people feel less interested in religion and more interested in spirituality. If you ask what they mean they will tell you that organized religion tends to turn them off but nonetheless they feel a hunger in the heart that they cannot seem to fill. They do not mean that they would rather have disorganized religion; they mean that institutional religion does not seem to satisfy their spirits and feel there must be something more, some better way of experiencing whatever that is for which they are hungry. Much new experimentation is going on as a result. Some of it is a search for the meaning to fill the soul and satisfy the spirit; much of it is a search for meaning on the spiritual level itself. Spirituality reaches always toward the question about the meaning of God, the meaning of relationships with others, the meaning of intimacy and the meaning of soul-gratifying insights into truth. Here Ellens carefully and sensitively explores the full range of our spiritual natures and the variety of spiritual experiences of which we are capable, describing the way our souls and psyches work in our hunger and thirst for meaning. He explains in an enlightening and unconventional way why and how every human desires to reflect upon, learn and share a heartfelt experience of God and of others. Readers will find in this book a description of the meaning of the biblical stories about spiritual experiences in addition to descriptions of the kinds of spiritual experiences that ordinary people are having, how they are achieving them and the ways in which they are filling their lives with meaning that goes beyond the horizons of material life. The author paints this picture in such a way as to let us in on what biblically based authentic spirituality and spiritual experience really is and why it may or may not necessarily have anything to do with traditional institutionalized religion. He carefully and vividly explains the notion of spirituality as it is illustrated in the Bible and discusses spiritual experiences such as prayer, epiphany, visions and other experiences. He considers whether spirituality is mainly a connection with God, with others or with both. Readers hoping to get a better sense of what it means to be spiritual will have many of their questions answered in these pages.

Acute Religious Experiences

Richard Saville-Smith, 2023-02-09 This book engages the problem of how in the 21st century we are to speak about experiences of the extraordinary, anomalous, extreme which occur on a transhistorical and transcultural basis. Critical readings of seminal texts show how 20th century theoreticians in the humanities sought to erase madness from their irrational subjects. This propensity to sanitize madness in the study of religions was mirrored by the instinct of psychiatrists to degrade religious experiences by reducing mad consciousness to psychosis or dissociation. Richard Saville Smith introduces explanatory pluralism as a way of recognizing these disciplinary biases and mad studies as a way of negotiating this understanding. The disproportionate significance of madness in shaping the fabric of the human story can then be recovered from both erasure and dismissal to be given the recognition previously denied as acute religious experiences. Acute Religious Experiences divides into three sections beginning with re-readings of William James's pathological programme, Rudolf Otto's numinous, T. K. Oesterreich's possession, Mircea Eliade's shamanism, Walter Stace's mysticism, Walter Pahnke's psychedelic experience and Abraham Maslow's peak experiences. These ideas are shown to constitute the beginnings of a fractured discourse on the irrational In part two contemporary psychiatry s Diagnostic and Statistical Manual DSM and Foucault s History of Madness are re read to reposition madness as not necessarily pathological This opens the way for the identification of acute religious experiences as a new holistic and post colonial approach through which religious data can be organized and addressed on a comparative basis In part three The Gospel of Mark is re read as a case study to demonstrate the novel insights which flow from the identification of acute religious experiences Richard Saville Smith draws on his own experiences of madness and his PhD from the School of Divinity at The University of Edinburgh to elucidate his research
