Mobilities in Remote Places Phillip Vannini, 2023-07-21 Mobilities in Remote Places explores the meanings challenges and opportunities of remoteness as practiced and experienced by those who live and work in some of the world's most remote communities As mobilities around the world proliferate in countless forms the meanings of remoteness undergo significant change Places once considered impossibly distant have appeared to become closer more accessible and less distinct from global centers of geopolitical power But instead of disappearing altogether configurations of remoteness evolve

manifesting themselves through new possibilities new challenges and new insecurities Drawing from a variety of case studies from around the globe the contributors of the book examine remoteness as an outcome of evolving mobility constellations Rather than defining remoteness as an absolute or objective time distance condition the book shows how remoteness is a practice experience and representation that is situated relational and emergent This collection of original and thought provoking chapters will be of interest to students and researchers in the humanities and social sciences with an interest in mobilities place and human geography Chapter 10 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Coding Places Yuri Takhteyev, 2012-09-21 An examination of software practice in Brazil that reveals both the globalization and the localization of software development Software development would seem to be a quintessential example of today's Internet enabled knowledge work a global profession not bound by the constraints of geography In Coding Places Yuri Takhteyev looks at the work of software developers who inhabit two contexts a geographical area in this case greater Rio de Janeiro and a world of practice a global system of activities linked by shared meanings and joint practice The work of the Brazilian developers Takhteyev discovers reveals a paradox of the world of software it is both diffuse and sharply centralized The world of software revolves around a handful of places in particular the San Francisco Bay area that exercise substantial control over both the material and cultural elements of software production Takhteyev shows how in this context Brazilian software developers work to find their place in the world of software and to bring its benefits to their city Takhteyev's study closely examines Lua an open source programming language developed in Rio but used in such internationally popular products as World of Warcraft and Angry Birds He shows that Lua had to be separated from its local origins on the periphery in order to achieve success abroad The developers Portuguese speakers used English in much of their work on Lua By bringing to light the work that peripheral practitioners must do to give software its seeming universality Takhteyev offers a revealing perspective on the not so flat world of globalization

Locating the Mediterranean Carl Rommel, Joseph John Viscomi, 2022-07-06 Until today anthropological studies of locality have taken primary interest in local subjects leading local lives in local communities Through a shift of conceptual emphasis from locality to location the present volume departs from previous preoccupations with identity and belonging Instead Locating the Mediterranean brings together ethnographic examinations of processes that make locations and render them meaningful In doing so it stimulates debates on the interplay between location and region making in history as well as anthropology The volume's deeply empirical contributions illustrate how historical material legal religious economic political and social connections and separations shape the experience of being located in the geographical space commonly known as the Mediterranean region Drawing from research in Melilla Lampedusa Istanbul Neapaktos Lepanto Tunisia Beirut Marseille and elsewhere the volume articulates location through the overlapping and incorporation of multiple social and historical processes Individual contributions are linked by the pursuit to rethink the conceptual frames deployed to study the Mediterranean region Together the volume s chapters challenge strict geopolitical renderings of Europe the Middle East and North Africa and suggest how the Mediterranean can function as a meaningful anthropological and historical category if the notion of location is reinvigorated and conceptualised anew
