Renaissance Fables Aesopic Prose Medieval Renaissance Texts Studies Series V 26:

Humanism and the Urban World Caspar Pearson, 2015-10-20 In Humanism and the Urban World Caspar Pearson offers a profoundly revisionist account of Leon Battista Alberti's approach to the urban environment as exemplified in the extensive theoretical treatise De re aedificatoria On the Art of Building in Ten Books brought mostly to completion in the 1450s as well as in his larger body of written work. Past scholars have generally characterized the Italian Renaissance architect and theorist as an enthusiast of the city who envisioned it as a rational Renaissance ideal. Pearson argues however that Alberti's approach to urbanism was far more complex than he was even essentially hostile to the city at times. Rather than proposing the ideal city, Pearson maintains, Alberti presented a variety of possible cities, each one different from another. This book explores the ways in which Alberti sought to remedy urban problems, tracing key themes that manifest in De re aedificatoria. Chapters address Alberti's consideration of the city's possible destruction and the city's capacity to provide order despite its intrinsic instability; his assessment of a variety of political solutions to that instability; his affinity for the countryside and discussions of the virtues of the active versus the contemplative life; and his theories of aesthetics and beauty, in particular the belief that beauty may affect the soul of an enemy and thus preserve buildings from attack. American Book
