Francia, John C. Green, Paul S. Herrnson, Lynda W. Powell, Clyde Wilcox, 2003-11-26 Individual donors play a critical role in financing congressional elections accounting for more than half of all money raised in House campaigns But significant donors defined here as those contributing more than 200 are the least understood participants in the system Defenders assert that contributing money to campaigns is part of a broader pattern of civic involvement and is free speech that gives a voice to various interests Detractors argue that these contributions are undemocratic enabling wealthy citizens to overwhelm the voices of the many and to promote narrow business and policy interests These divergent assessments were raised in connection with the Bipartisan Campaign Finance Reform Act of 2002 and continue to characterize the debate over campaign finance reform So who really contributes and why How much and to how many candidates What are the strategies used by political campaigns to elicit contributions and how do the views of significant donors impact the campaign finance system What do donors think about campaign finance reform This book investigates these vital questions describing the influence of congressional financiers in American politics Financing the 2000 Election David B. Magleby, 2004-05-13 Since the 1960 national election the nonpartisan Citizens Research Foundation CRF has published a series of Financing the Election volumes compiling reliable data on the costs and trends of campaign finance For the 2000 edition CRF and the Center for the Study of Elections and Democracy at Brigham Young University assembled leading political science scholars to analyze this historic election season where campaign finance was critically important Candice J Nelson of American University compares spending estimates in 2000 with previous election cycles and discusses the implications of increased spending John C Green and Nathan S Bigelow of the Roy Bliss Institute at the University of Akron look at the presidential nomination campaigns while Anthony Corrado of Colby College explores the financing of the general election including the unprecedented Florida recount battle Paul S Herrnson of the University of Maryland and Kelly D Patterson of Brigham Young University review the close party balance in the House and Senate and its effect on the financing of congressional elections Diana Dwyre of California State University Chico and Robin Kolodny of Temple University put the role of political parties and their use of soft money in perspective Alan J Cigler of the University of Kansas investigates the ways interest groups attempt to influence elections Anthony Gierzynski of the University of Vermont analyzes the impact of redistricting on gubernatorial and state legislative elections while Roy A Schotland of Georgetown University Law School examines the recent history and rising costs of judicial campaigns Finally Thomas Mann of the Brookings Institution discusses lessons the 2000 elections should teach us about the realities of financing elections and the implications for reform that emerged from this remarkable election In setting forth the contours of American political finance Financing the 2000 Election provides a unique reso

Finance in the U.S. Diana Dwyre, Robin Kolodny, 2024-07-23 Before the U S campaign finance system can be fixed we first have to understand why it has developed into the system as it exists today The nature of democracy itself the American capitalist economic system the content of the U S Constitution and how it is interpreted the structure of our governmental institutions the competition for governmental power and the behavior of campaign finance actors have all played a role in shaping the system The Fundamentals of Campaign Finance in the U S takes care to situate the campaign finance system in the context of the broader U S political and economic system Dwyre and Kolodny offer readers a brief tour through the development of the campaign finance regulatory structure highlighting the Supreme Court s commitment to free speech over political equality from Buckley v Valeo 1976 through the passage of the Bipartisan Campaign Reform Act BCRA 2002 They also examine the driving force behind campaign finance reform corruption through historical transactional and institutional perspectives While diving into the insufficiency of the disclosure and enforcement of campaign finance laws and calling attention to multiple federal agencies including the Securities and Exchange Commission the Federal Communications Commission the Internal Revenue Service and principally the Federal Election Commission the authors show how a narrow view on campaign finance makes change difficult and why reforms often have limited success By examining the fundamentals Dwyre and Kolodny show the difficulties of changing a political system whose candidates have always relied on private funding of campaigns to one that guarantees free speech rights while minimizing concerns of corruption Parties and Elections in America Louis Sandy Maisel, Mark D. Brewer, 2010 This book covers all elements of parties and the electoral process including local state and national party organizations American party history and party systems state and local nominations state and local elections presidential nominations and presidential elections Separate chapters are devoted to the important subjects of the media in the electoral process and campaign finance The role of political parties in representative democracy and their contributions to it are examined critically This post election update includes complete data from 2008 and an updated chapter on campaign finance
