Penny An Acre Empire In The West:

Penny-an-Acre Empire in the West Edgar Irving Stewart, 1968 Penny-An-Acre Empire in the West, Collected and Edited by Edgar I. Stewart, 1968 Phil Sheridan and His Army Paul Andrew Hutton, 2013-07-10 Paul Hutton's study of Phil Sheridan in the West is authoritative, readable, and an important contribution to the literature of westward expansion. Although headquartered in Chicago, Sheridan played a crucial role in the opening of the West. His command stretched from the Missouri to the Rockies and from Mexico to Canada, and all the Indian Wars of the Great Plains fell under his direction. Hutton ably narrates and interprets Sheridan's western career from the perspective of the top command rather than the battlefield leader. His book is good history and good reading. Robert M. Utley The Frontier Army in the Settlement of the West Michael L. Tate, 2001-10-01 A reassessment of the military's role in developing the Western territories moves beyond combat stories and stereotypes to focus on more non-martial accomplishments such as exploration, gathering scientific data, and building towns. Idle Threats Andrew Lyndon Knighton, 2023-11-21 The 19th century witnessed an explosion of writing about unproductivity with the exploits of various idlers, loafers, and gentlemen of refinement capturing the imagination of a country that was deeply ambivalent about its work ethic. Idle Threats documents this American obsession with unproductivity and its potentials while offering an explanation of the profound significance of idle practices for literary and cultural production. While this fascination with unproductivity memorably defined literary characters from Rip Van Winkle to Bartleby to George Hurstwood, it also reverberated deeply through the entire culture, both as a seductive ideal and as a potentially corrosive threat to upright, industrious American men. Drawing on an impressive array of archival material and multifaceted literary and cultural sources, Idle Threats connects the question of unproductivity to other discourses concerning manhood, the value of art, the allure of the frontier, the usefulness of knowledge, the meaning of individuality, and the experience of time, space, and history. Andrew Lyndon Knighton offers a new way of thinking about the largely unacknowledged productivity of the unproductive, revealing the incalculable and sometimes surprising ways in which American modernity transformed the relationship between subjects and that which is most intimate to them: their own activity. Regionalism and the Humanities Timothy R. Mahoney, Wendy J. Katz, 2008-12-01 Although the framework of regionalist studies may seem to be crumbling under the weight of increasing globalization, this collection of seventeen essays makes clear that cultivating regionalism lies at the center of the humanist endeavor. With interdisciplinary contributions from poets and fiction writers, literary historians, musicologists, and historians of architecture, agriculture, and women, this volume implements some of the most innovative and intriguing approaches to the history and value of regionalism as a category for investigation in the humanities. In the volume's inaugural essay, Annie Proulx discusses landscapes in American fiction, comments on how she constructs characters, and interprets current literary trends. Edward Watts offers a theory of region that argues for comparisons of the United States to other former colonies of Great Britain, including New Zealand and Australia.

and Canada Whether considering a writer's connection to region or the idea of place in exploring what is meant by regionalism these essays uncover an enduring and evolving concept Although the approaches and disciplines vary all are framed within the fundamental premise of the humanities the search to understand what it means to be human Images of the Plains Brian W. Blouet, Merlin P. Lawson, 1975-01-01 Sixteen papers by foremost American Canadian and English historical geographers examine the sources of Imagery of the American and Canadian Great Plains the processes of image formation and the behavioral implications of various kinds of images The papers deal with exploratory images of the Plains resource evaluation in the prefrontier West governmental appraisal of the western frontier real and imagined climatic hazards the desert and garden myths and adaptations to reality The Money Manias Robert Sobel, 2000 Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1971 Dominion from Sea to Sea Bruce Cumings, 2009-11-17 America is the first world power to inhabit an immense land mass open at both ends to the world's two largest oceans the Atlantic and the Pacific This gives America a great competitive advantage often overlooked by Atlanticists whose focus remains overwhelmingly fixed on America's relationship with Europe Bruce Cumings challenges the Atlanticist perspective in this innovative new history arguing that relations with Asia influenced our history greatly Cumings chronicles how the movement westward from the Middle West to the Pacific has shaped America's industrial technological military and global rise to power He unites domestic and international history international relations and political economy to demonstrate how technological change and sharp economic growth have created a truly bicoastal national economy that has led the world for more than a century Cumings emphasizes the importance of American encounters with Mexico the Philippines and the nations of East Asia The result is a wonderfully integrative history that advances a strong argument for a dual approach to American history incorporating both Atlanticist and Pacificist perspectives After Custer Paul L. Hedren, 2012-09-04 Between 1876 and 1877 the U S Army battled Lakota Sioux and Northern Cheyenne Indians in a series of vicious conflicts known today as the Great Sioux War After the defeat of Custer at the Little Big Horn in June 1876 the army responded to its stunning loss by pouring fresh troops and resources into the war effort In the end the U S Army prevailed but at a significant cost In this unique contribution to American western history Paul L Hedren examines the war's effects on the culture environment and geography of the northern Great Plains their Native inhabitants and the Anglo American invaders As Hedren explains U S military control of the northern plains following the Great Sioux War permitted the Northern Pacific Railroad to extend westward from the Missouri River The new transcontinental line brought hide hunters who targeted the great northern buffalo herds and ultimately destroyed them A de buffaloes prairie lured cattlemen who in turn spawned their own culture Through forced surrender of their lands and lifeways Lakotas and Northern Cheyennes now experienced even more stress and calamity than they had endured during the war itself The victors meanwhile faced a different set of challenges among them providing security for the railroad crews hide hunters and cattlemen Hedren is the first scholar to examine the events of 1876-77 and their aftermath as a whole taking into account relationships among military leaders the building of forts and the army's efforts to memorialize the war and its victims Woven into his narrative are the voices of those who witnessed such events as the burial of Custer the laying of railroad track or the sudden surround of a buffalo herd Their personal testimonies lend both vibrancy and pathos to this story of irreversible change in Sioux Country Women on the Plains, 1985 Troopers West: Military & Indian Affairs on the American Frontier Ray Brandes, 1970 An anthology by Western America history writers concerning the 19th century conflicts between the U S military and the Indians An Economic Survey of the Colonial Territories Great Britain. Colonial Office, 1935 The American West, 1969 Great Plains Quarterly, 1985 Adult Catalog: Title Los Angeles County Public Library, 1970 The Penny Cyclopaedia of the Society for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge, 1841 Agricultural Department Appropriation Bill for 1932 United States. Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations, 1930 The penny cyclopædia [ed. by G. Long]. Society for the diffusion of useful knowledge, 1835
