Abstract: HIV diagnosis and management have often caused disruption to the everyday life and imagined futures of people living with HIV, both at individual and social levels. This disruption has been conceptualised, in a rather dystopian way, as ‘biographical disruption’. This paper explores whether or not biographical disruption of living with HIV encourages men living with HIV (MLHIV; $n = 40$) in Yogyakarta and Belu, Indonesia, to reinvent their sense of self and future over time using internal and external assets. Our analysis uses the concepts of additive and subtractive resilience strategies, and we show how, rather than having a purely disrupted biography, participants talked about their experiences of ‘biographical reinvention’. Study participants were recruited using the snowball sampling technique, beginning with two HIV clinics as the settings. Data were collected using one-on-one in-depth interviews, and a qualitative framework analysis was used to guide step-by-step data analysis. The findings showed that, despite the disruptions in their everyday lives (i.e., mental health condition, work, activities, social relationships, etc.) following the HIV diagnosis and management, MLHIV in our study managed to utilise their internal assets or traits (i.e., hope, optimism, resilience) and mobilised external resources (i.e., support from families, friends and healthcare professionals) to cope with the disruptions. An interweaving of these internal assets and external resources enabled them to take on new activities and roles (additive resilience strategies) and give up health compromising behaviours (subtractive resilience strategies). These were effective for most MLHIV in our study, not only to cope with the HIV repercussions and improve their physical and mental health conditions, but to think or work on a ‘reinvented’ biography which encompassed resilience, hope and optimism for better health, life and future. The findings indicate the need for HIV interventions and healthcare systems that provide appropriate support for the development and maintenance of internal assets of PLHIV to enable them to cope with the repercussions of HIV and work on a ‘reinvented’ biography.

1. Introduction

HIV diagnosis and management have often caused disruption to the everyday life and future of people living with HIV (PLHIV), both at the individual [1–4] and social levels [3,5], which Bury conceptualised as biographical disruption [6]. The concept of biographical disruption was initially introduced to describe a fundamental rupture in the fabric of everyday life of people living with chronic illness and how the illness experience disrupted their perception and understanding of themselves or life and the future [6–8]. The disruption could affect people’s habitual behaviours and patterns or routines that govern or structure their daily lives, which Bury called ‘the disruption of taken-for-granted

People And Society In Indonesia A Biographical Approach:

A Grammar of Makasar Anthony Jukes, 2019-12-02 The book is a grammar of the Makasar language spoken by about 2 million people in South Sulawesi Indonesia. Makasarese is a head marking language which marks arguments on the predicate with a system of pronominal clitics following an ergative absolutive pattern. Full noun phrases are relatively free in order while pre predicate focus position which is widely used. The phonology is notable for the large number of geminate and pre glottalised consonant sequences while the morphology is characterised by highly productive affixation and pervasive encliticisation of pronominal and aspectual elements. The work draws heavily on literary sources reaching back more than three centuries; this tradition includes two Indic based scripts, a system based on Arabic and various Romanised conventions.

Chinese Indonesians Tim Lindsey, Helen Pausacker, 2005 This volume honours and reflects on the life and work of the Australian Indonesianist Charles A. Coppel. His interests reflected in this volume are broad, ranging from history, politics, legal issues and violence against the Chinese through to culture and religion. The chapters in the volume contributed by scholars from Australia, Indonesia, Europe and Singapore also all reflect a theme inspired by Charles Coppel's expression 'remembering, distorting, forgetting' by which he drew attention to misrepresentations of the Chinese seeking to locate the realities behind the myths that form the basis for the racism and xenophobia the Chinese have often experienced in Indonesia.

Bibliography of the Indonesian Revolution H.A.J. Klooster, 2024-12-09 Interest in the Indonesian Revolution, a period of crucial importance in the history of modern Indonesia, continues unabated as reflected in this bibliography. The bibliography lists more than 6 000 titles related to the Indonesian Revolution, 1945-1949, the West Irian issue, 1950-1962, and the South Moluccan question, 1950-1951, and its aftermath. It is the first bibliography of such depth and scope and purports to offer a complete listing of scholarly works, including unpublished theses as well as journalistic accounts, pamphlets, memoirs and fictional works. Most of the works listed are in Indonesian, Dutch or English, but relevant works in French, German, Russian, Japanese and other languages have also been included. An introduction allows a first acquaintance with the mass of publications listed. The titles are arranged by period and subdivided by language. Indexes of authors, subjects, persons and of geographical names make it possible to access the titles in more detail.

The Heritage of Arung Palakka Leonard Y. Andaya, 2014-10-22 With the entrance of the European Union into the field of International Investment Law and Arbitration, a new specialist field of law, namely European Investment Law and Arbitration, is in the making. This new field of law draws on EU Law, Public International Law, International Investment Law, International Arbitration Law and Practice, and International Economic Law, while other fields of law such as Energy Law are also relevant. The European Investment Law and Arbitration Review is the first law periodical specifically dedicated to the field of European Investment Law and Arbitration. The timing could not be better. The first EU integrated investment treaties with Canada (CETA), US (TTIP) and Singapore (EU-SING) are either negotiated or about to be signed and ratified by the EU and its Member States. These are integrated investment treaties in that they combine free trade agreement provisions with international investment agreement norms Moreover the Court of Justice of the EU CJEU is about to deliver its first judgments and Opinions directly relating to intra EU BITs and the EU SING FTA More generally the public debate and discussions within academic and practitioner circles about the pros and cons of investor state dispute settlement ISDS and investment treaties in general is intensifying almost on a daily basis The Review will cover all these issues but also goes beyond that by offering space for more innovative approaches and themes

Indonesian Political Biography Angus McIntyre,1993 From Jail to Jail Tan Malaka,2020-03-10 From Jail to Jail is the political autobiography of Sutan Ibrahim gelar Tan Malaka an enigmatic and colorful political thinker of twentieth century Asia who was one of the most influential figures of the Indonesian Revolution Variouslly labeled a communist Trotskyite and nationalist Tan Malaka managed to run afoul of nearly every political group and faction involved in the Indonesian struggle for independence During his decades of political activity he spent periods of exile and hiding in nearly every country in Southeast Asia As a Marxist who was expelled from and became a bitter enemy of his country s Communist Party and as a nationalist who was imprisoned and murdered by his own government s forces as a danger to its anticolonial struggle Tan Malaka was and continues to be soaked in contradiction and controversy Translated by Helen Jarvis and with a new introduction from Harry A Poeze this edition of From Jail to Jail contextualizes the life and political accomplishments of Tan Malaka in one of the few known autobiographies by a Marxist of this political era and region Paths and Rivers Rosana Waterson,2009-01-01 Fieldwork extending over a thirty year period provided materials for this book Paths and Rivers offers an unusually deep and broad picture of the Sa dan Toraja as a society in dynamic transition over the course of the past century The Toraja inhabit the mountainous highlands of South Sulawesi Indonesia and are well known for their dramatic architecture their unusual cliff burials and their flamboyant ceremonial life which places extraordinary economic demands on individuals and families The analysis is informed firstly by a comparative perspective which sets Toraja social structure in the context of the Austronesian world Secondly the author delves deeply into Toraja social memory to show how people think about the past She examines the usefulness of history and myth in the present as a source of identity a template for action or a resource by means of which to claim precedence The book gives a clear picture of the structure and ethos of the indigenous Toraja religion the Aluk To Dolo or Way of the Ancestors with its complex cycle of rituals The book concludes with an analysis of the ceremonial economy which draws upon both domestic subsistence production and the global market economy Paths and Rivers draws together a fascinating picture of one society s journey into modernity People and Society in Indonesia Leonard Y.
