Religion and Architecture in Premodern Indonesia G. Domenig, 2014-04-03 In his richly illustrated Religion and Architecture in Premodern Indonesia Gaudenz Domenig investigates the nature of Indonesian ethnic religions by focusing on land opening rituals sacred groves and architectural responses to the custom of presenting offerings Since deities and spirits were supposed to taste offerings on the spot it was a task of architecture to attract them and to guide them into houses where offerings were presented Domenig quotes numerous sources to show that certain material elements of the house were viewed as spirit attractors spirit ladders or spirit pathways Various exotic features of Indonesian vernacular architecture thus become understandable as relics from times when architecture was still responding to indigenous religions practised in the archipelago

The Politics of Indonesia-Malaysia Relations Joseph Chinyong Liow,2005 This book provides a comprehensive overview of the relationship between Indonesia and Malaysia focusing especially on how the relationship has developed in the last fifty years It argues that the political relationship between the two countries has been largely defined by rivalry despite the fact that the processes of national self determination began by emphasising Indo Malay fraternity It shows how the two countries have different contested interpretations of Indo Malay history and how the continuing suspicion of Javanese hegemony which defined much of the history of the Indo Malay world is also a key factor in the relationship

The Pastoral Continuum Paul Spencer,1998-01-29 Paul Spencer presents the definitive study of the ways of life of the cattle herding peoples of East Africa drawing on many years of research This region has offered a prime example of a traditional culture resisting the inevitability of change it provides the best known and most extensive instance both of cattle pastoralist society and of social organization based primarily on age Pastoral peoples were once dominant in the East African interior but development of the market economy has progressively polarized the region and forced them into the most marginal drought ridden areas in this ecological trap they have become a peripheral underclass The Pastoral Continuum examines the richness and resilience of their cultures and illuminates the role of indigenous practices and institutions in adaptation and survival The pastoralists systems of age organization in particular are notable for their resilience it is demonstrated that these are bound up with problems of growth and succession in family enterprises and that marriage is a critical link in the web of alliance that governs the problematic relations between old and young Spencer s exploration of the development of the pastoralist phenomenon yields a unique view of its place in the modern world and its prospects for the future This landmark work by a leading authority will be of lasting value to any reader interested in traditional social systems of this kind
