The New Environmentalism? Davide Torsello, 2016-03-03 Drawing on rich ethnographic work in both Eastern and Western Europe The New Environmentalism presents a range of case studies to explore the impact of corruption in EU funded structural development projects With detailed analyses of the forms and contexts of environmentalism the book reveals the manner in which corruption is generated by the planning and implementation procedures of the projects demonstrating in each case that environmental movements emerge as by products of these processes using corruption as part of a discourse employed in support of their action against political regional and state institutions as well as to communicate their goals to local citizens Shedding light on the ways in which revelations about corruption are adopted as a means to fostering civic participation in environmental movements and influencing institutional trust this book contributes to our understanding of the loss of legitimacy and trust in local and global political institutions Comparative in approach The New Environmentalism provides new insights into the emergence of strong civic movements at local and trans local levels in resistance to citizens sense of increasing alienation from political participation and decision making As such it will be of interest to anthropologists
