Chisholm,1966 Perceiving Karl Raimund Popper,1957 The Metaphysics of Perception Paul Coates,2007-09-12 This book is an important study in the philosophy of the mind drawing on the work of philosopher Wilfrid Sellars and the theory of critical realism to develop a novel argument for understanding perception and metaphysics Perceiving, Sensing, and Knowing Robert J. Swartz,2023-11-15 This title is part of UC Press s Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1965 A Critical Introduction to the Epistemology of Perception Ali Hasan,2017-02-23 We ordinarily take it as obvious that we acquire knowledge of our world on the basis of sensory perception and that such knowledge plays a central cognitive and practical role in our lives Upon reflection however it is far from obvious what perception involves and how exactly it contributes to our knowledge Indeed skeptical arguments have led some to question whether we have any knowledge or even rational or justified belief regarding the world outside our minds Investigating the nature and scope of our perceptual knowledge and perceptually justified belief A Critical Introduction to the Epistemology of Perception provides an accessible and engaging introduction to a flourishing area of philosophy Before introducing and evaluating the main theories in the epistemology of perception Ali Hasan sets the stage with a discussion of skepticism realism and idealism in early modern philosophy theories of perceptual experience sense datum theory adverbialism intentionalism and metaphysical disjunctivism and central controversies in general epistemology Hasan then surveys the main theories in the contemporary debate including coherentism abductivism phenomenal conservatism or dogmatism reliabilism and epistemological disjunctivism presenting the motivations and primary objections to each Hasan also shows how to avoid confusing metaphysical issues with epistemological ones and identifies interesting connections between the epistemology and metaphysics of perception For students in epistemology or the philosophy of perception looking to better understand the central questions concepts and debates shaping contemporary epistemology A Critical Introduction to the Epistemology of Perception is essential reading

Berkeley's analysis of perception George J. Stack,2011-12-07 No detailed description available for Berkeley s analysis of perception The Philosophy of Perception Christoph Limbeck-Lilienau,Friedrich Stadler,2019-07-22 In this volume the philosophy of perception and observation is discussed by leading philosophers with implications in the philosophy of mind in epistemology and in philosophy of science In the last years the philosophy of perception underwent substantial changes and new views appeared the intentionality of perception has been contested by relational theories of perception direct realism a richer view of perceptual content has emerged new theories of intentionality have been defended against naturalistic theories of representation e.g. phenomenal intentionality. These theoretical changes reflect also new insights coming from psychological theories of perception. These changes have substantial consequences for the epistemic role of perception and for its role in scientific observation. In the present volume leading philosophers of perception discuss these new views and show their implications in the philosophy of mind, in epistemology and in philosophy of science. A special focus is laid on Franz Brentano and Ludwig Wittgenstein. A reference volume for all scholars and students of the history, psychology and philosophy of perception and cognitive science.

Skepticism and the Veil of Perception Michael Huemer, 2001-07-17. Since Descartes one of the central questions of Western philosophy has been that of how we know that the objects we seem to perceive are real. Philosophical skeptics claim that we know no such thing. Representationalists claim that we can gain such knowledge only by inference, by showing that the hypothesis of a real world is the best explanation for the kind of sensations and mental images we experience. Both accept the doctrine of a veil of perception, that perception can only give us direct awareness of images or representations of objects, not the external objects themselves. In contrast, Huemer develops a theory of perceptual awareness in which perception gives us direct awareness of real objects, not mental representations, and we have non-inferential knowledge of the properties of these objects. Further, Huemer confronts the four main arguments for philosophical skepticism, showing that they are powerless against this kind of theory of perceptual knowledge.

Berit Brogaard, 2014-09-05 Within the contemporary philosophical debates over the nature of perception the question of whether perception has content in the first place recently has become a focus of discussion The most common view is that it does but a number of philosophers have questioned this claim The issue immediately raises a number of related questions What does it mean to say that perception has content Does perception have more than one kind of content Does perceptual content derive from the content of beliefs or judgments Should perceptual content be understood in terms of accuracy conditions Is naive realism compatible with holding that perception has content This volume brings together philosophers representing many different perspectives to address these and other central questions in the philosophy of perception A Pluralist Theory of

Perception Neil Mehta, 2024-08-06 A new theory of perception that posits that conscious perception consists not of a single kind of awareness but of two radically different kinds deployed in concert Most contemporary theories of perception including leading forms of representationalism and naive realism are monistic they assume that to consciously perceive is to deploy only one kind of sensory awareness In A Pluralist Theory of Perception Neil Mehta instead argues for pluralism which says that to consciously perceive is to deploy two very different kinds of sensory awareness in concert Mehta argues that pluralism can simultaneously explain what is common to all forms of consciousness and what is distinctive about conscious perception Mehta's preferred version of pluralism which he calls rich pluralism says that conscious perception is constituted by successful sensory representation and deep awareness Successful sensory representation is a representational form of awareness whose targets include particulars It is found in perceptions whether conscious or unconscious but not in hallucinations By contrast deep awareness is a nonrepresentational form of sensory awareness whose targets are certain universals the sensory qualities Deep awareness constitutes one kind of consciousness it is common to conscious perceptions and hallucinations and it reveals part of the essences of its targets Mehta argues that although rich pluralism appears to be less parsimonious than monism it is not All monistic theories that are explanatorily adequate end up being even more complex than rich pluralism Thus rich pluralism is the most spartan theory that can shoulder the explanatory load
