Materials for Learning Janet Jenkins, 2023-12-22 Materials for Learning 1981 examines the ability of books and broadcasts to change lives The combination of print radio television and group meetings distance teaching can transform education in developing countries Effective distance teaching requires effective teaching materials and up to now there has been a lack of guidance about how to produce such materials and how to do so for different cultures Materials for Learning aims to supply this need by suggesting guidelines for action and where evidence is mixed or lacking defining questions that still require answers It is a practical book aimed at people actively involved in nonformal education and will be particularly useful for the developing world educators The book looks first at how distance teaching can help with educational problems considers how adults learn and surveys problems of language and culture It then considers the planning of distance teaching and looks in detail at the use of different media There were also chapters on teaching numeracy and science at a distance and a discussion of the kind of support that can be provided for people studying at a distance Cultural Approaches To Parenting Marc H. Bornstein,2013-02-01 This volume is concerned with elucidating similarities and differences in enculturation processes that help to account for the ways in which individuals in different cultures develop Each chapter reviews a substantive parenting topic describes the relevant cultures in psychological ethnography rather than from an anthropological stance reports on the parenting in culture results and discusses the significance of cross cultural investigation for understanding the parenting issue of interest Specific areas of study include environment and interactive style responsiveness activity patterns distributions of social involvement with children structural patterns of interaction and development of the social self Through exposure to a wide range of diverse research methods readers will gain a deeper appreciation of the problems procedures possibilities and profits associated with a truly comparative approach to understanding human growth and development Thinking in Perspective Andrew Burton,John Radford,2022-12-15 Originally published in 1978 the main task of this book was to consider the psychology of thinking in relation to the various perspectives from which thought processes were studied at the time It provided an up to date and critical evaluation of current experimental studies of thinking organized within a framework which reflects the separate theoretical orientations and methodologies through which these investigations are carried out This approach will help the reader to become aware of the complex relationship between the theoretical orientations the problems selected for investigation and the methods used for studying them An important underlying theme of the book concerns the relationship between the activities of the thinker and the demands of his environment As far as is known this was the only textbook on thinking to deal with the subject matter specifically in terms of theoretical approaches and methods of investigation at the time Handbook of Perception Edward C. Behavioral Management Accounting Ahmed Riahi-Belkaoui,2001-10-30 Producers and users of management accounting information are confronted with crucial behavioral phenomena factors that can affect the communication of this information and its use Riahi Belkaoui shows what these factors and phenomena are and how to understand and cope with them In doing so he shows how producers and users together can improve the efficiency of management accounting itself He explains the judgment process in management accounting identifies and explains the major behavioral phenomena and then provides ways to use them for the firm's benefit. Thoughtful and comprehensive, his book is important reading for executive decision makers in almost all organizations throughout the public and private sectors. Journal of Cross-cultural Psychology, 1974

The Anthropology of Learning in Childhood David F. Lancy, John Bock, Suzanne Gaskins, 2010 The Anthropology of Learning in Childhood offers a large mural-like portrait of childhood across time, culture, species, and environment. Even a casual reading of the literature on childhood will persuade one that learning is a very important topic that commands the attention of tens of thousands of scholars and practitioners. Yet anthropological research on children has exerted relatively little influence on this community. This book will change that. The book demonstrates that anthropologists studying childhood can offer a description and theoretically sophisticated account of children's learning and its role in their development, socialization, and enculturation. Further, it demonstrates the particular contribution that children's learning makes to the construction of society and culture, as well as the role that culture-acquiring children play in human evolution. Chapters have been contributed in archaeology, primatology, biological and cultural anthropology, and cross-cultural psychology.
