Poor Labouring Men Rural Radicalism In Norfolk 1870 1923:

Rural Society and the Anglican Clergy, 1815-1914 Robert Lee, 2006 A vivid and accessible reappraisal of the frequently uneasy relationship between the Victorian clergyman and his congregation The conduct of divine service was only one item on the agenda of the nineteenth century clergyman He might have to sit on the magistrates bench or concern himself with business as a farmer or landowner or attend a meeting of the Poor Law guardians He would in all probability be closely involved with the day to day running of the local school and he would almost certainly be the principle administrator of the parochial charities While some of these roles were clearly predestined to bring him into conflict with certain members of his flock others seem ostensibly designed to operate in their interests None however seem to have earned him much in the way of devotion and respect instead each of them at one time or another attracted the direct hostility of parishioners most particularly those attached to dissenting and or radical groups This book is a detailed exploration of the relationship between Anglican clergymen and the inhabitants of rural parishes in the nineteenth century Taking Norfolk as a focus the author examines the many and profound ways in which the Victorian Church affected the daily lives and political destinies of local communities

Rural Women Workers in Nineteenth-century England Nicola Verdon, 2002 The range of women's work and its contribution to the family economy studied here for the first time Despite the growth of women's history and rural social history in the past thirty years the work performed by women who lived in the nineteenth century English countryside is still an under researched issue Verdon directly addresses this gap in the historiography placing the rural female labourer centre stage for the first time The involvement of women in the rural labour market as farm servants as day labourers in agriculture and as domestic workers are all examined using a wide range of printed and unpublished sources from across England The roles village women performed in the informal rural economy household labour gathering resources and exploiting systems of barter and exchange are also assessed Changes in women's economic opportunities are explored alongside the implications of region age marital status number of children in the family and local custom women's economic contribution to the rural labouring household is established as a critical part of family subsistence despite criticism of such work and the rise in male wages after 1850 NICOLA VERDON is a Research Fellow in the Rural History Centre University of Reading

Cultivating Fields of Progress Amalia Ribi Forclaz, 2025-02-03

After the First World War the improvement of working and living conditions in agriculture became an international issue for the first time. Led by the International Labour Organization and related organizations as well as overlapping expert networks, agrarian interest groups, trade unionists and farmer representatives, the immediate interwar and post-war years were a fertile time for international debates, knowledge production and policy making. Cultivating Fields of Progress traces the thematic, temporal and geographical scope of these debates for the first time from the plight of landless farmworkers in Europe in the early 1920s to the conditions of plantation workers in the 1950s. By using the archives of international organizations, the book considers how and to what ends questions of rural poverty and problematic labour conditions both in Europe and overseas made their way to the world stage against a backdrop of broader discourses on social progress, decolonization and economic development. Bringing the tools of social history to the study of economic and political history allows for a better understanding of the international development and circulation of ideas and theories of agriculture as well as broader insights into the nature of power, policy and knowledge production across a period of global change.

Dictionary of Labour Biography Keith Gildart, David Howell, 2018-02-04. The Dictionary of Labour Biography has an outstanding reputation as a reference work for the study of nineteenth and twentieth century British history. Volume XIV maintains this standard of original and thorough scholarship. Each entry is written by a specialist drawing on an array of primary and secondary sources. The biographical essays engage with recent historiographical developments in the field of labour history. The scope of the volume emphasises the ethnic and national diversity of the British labour movement and neglected political traditions.

The English Rural Community Brian Short, 1992-06-04. This book examines the English rural community past and present in its variety and dynamism. The distinguished team of contributors brings a variety of disciplinary perspectives to bear upon the central issues of movement and migration, the farm family and rural labour force, the development of contrasting rural communities, the portrayal of rural labour in both high and popular culture, the changing nature of religious practice in the English countryside, the rural-urban fringe and the spread of notions of a rural English arcadia within a predominantly urban society. Fully illustrated with accompanying maps, paintings and photographs, The English Rural Community provides an important and innovative overview of a subject where history, myth and debate are inseparably entwined. A full bibliography will assist a broad range of general readers and students of social history, historical geography and development studies approaching the subject for the first time, and the whole should establish itself as the central analytical account in an area where image and reality are notoriously hard to unravel.

Social Orders and Social Classes in Europe Since 1500 M. L. Bush, 2014-07-15. This pioneering survey evaluates the notions of class and order throughout European history since 1500. After a general theoretical section on the concept of orders and class, the book provides discussions and case studies of the nobility, the clergy, the middle classes and the rural and urban proletariat. The studies are drawn from all over Europe from early modern Castile to late Tsarist Russia. Contributors include Peter Burke, Stuart Woolf, A. A. Thompson and Joseph Bergin.
