In Pursuit of the Great Peace Zhao Lu, 2019-05-31 Through an examination of the Great Peace taiping one of the first utopian visions in Chinese history Zhao Lu describes the transformation of literati culture that occurred during the Han Dynasty Driven by anxiety over losing the mandate of Heaven the imperial court encouraged classicism in order to establish the Great Peace and follow Heaven s will But instead of treating the literati as puppets of competing and imagined lineages Zhao uses sociological methods to reconstruct their daily lives and to show how they created their own thought by adopting modifying and opposing the work of their contemporaries and predecessors The literati who served as bureaucrats in the first century BCE gradually became classicists who depended on social networking as they traveled to study the classics By the second century CE classicism had dissolved in this traveling culture and the literati began to expand the corpus of knowledge beyond the accepted canon Thus far from being static classicism in Han China was full of innovation and ultimately gave birth to both literary writing and religious Daoism

Theosophical Path ,1916 An American Commentary on the Old Testament: The book of Proverbs [1904] ,1904 The Middle East in Search of Peace Cathryn J. Long,1996

Discusses conflicts between the Israelis and Palestinians in the Middle East focusing on events started in 1948 when Israel declared itself a nation to 1993 with the signing of a peace agreement

Pariah Politics Shamit Saggari,2010-12-02

Pariah Politics breaks new ground in examining the issue of western Islamist extremism from the perspective of government It links underlying causes to the capacity of governments to respond directly and to influence others The book contains four main messages Focusing on causes not symptoms The book identifies four big causal drivers settled disadvantage social isolation grievance and oppositional cultures and the volatile dynamics of global Islam Governments can hope to influence the first two using existing and innovative policy levers The scope to make big changes in the latter two is severely limited The circle of tacit support Action by government to counter terrorism has relied too heavily on security policy measures to intercept or disrupt men of violence This emphasis is misplaced Though important this fails to address the moral oxygen for violence and confrontation that exists within Muslim communities Better focus and better levers Ministers and officials need to think and act smart They need to push ahead with social inclusion policies to broaden opportunity They need to make more use of community based strategies to isolate extremism They need to promote civil society actions so that affected communities can take control of their own reputational future And they desperately need to avoid making things worse Reputations matter The pariah status of western Muslims has worsened by the fallout from terrorism Few have anything good to say about western Muslims still fewer can imagine an optimistic future Yet earlier demonised groups such as Jews or Asian refugees have overcome significant hurdles moving from pariahs to paragons A credible willingness to tackle extremism is the most important first step to a reputational turnaround

Confrontation, Strategy and War Termination Christopher Tuck, 2016-05-23 At the heart of this book is the problem of war termination Britain won an almost unbroken string of tactical military victories during an undeclared war against the Republic of Indonesia in the 1960s yet it proved difficult to translate this into strategic success Using conflict termination theories this book argues that British strategy during Confrontation was both exemplary and flawed both of which need not be mutually exclusive The British experience in Indonesia represents an illuminating case study of the difficulties associated with strategy and the successful termination of conflicts The value of this book lies in two areas as a contribution to the literature on British counter insurgency operations and as a contribution to the debates on the problems of war termination in the context of strategic thought

The Aryan Path, 1956 The Dark Path Williamson Murray, 2024-10-22 From an esteemed military historian a sweeping history of the revolutions in war fighting that have shaped the modern world Heraclitus wrote that war is the father of all and it has formed much of the modern world Although the fundamental nature of war has not altered over the centuries constant change innovation and adaptation have repeatedly reshaped how wars are fought in the West Revolutions in military practice cannot be separated from larger social developments in areas like logistics finance and economics and the culture of military organizations In The Dark Path Williamson Murray argues that the history of warfare in the West hinged on five revolutions which both reflected the social political and economic conditions that produced them and in turn influenced how those conditions evolved These five key turning points are the advent of the modern state which formed bureaucracies and professional militaries the Industrial Revolution which produced the financial and industrial means to sustain and equip large armies the French Revolution which provided the ideological basis needed to sustain armies through continent sized wars the merging of the Industrial and French Revolutions in the U S Civil War and the accelerating integration of technological advancement financial capacity ideology and government that unleashed the modern capacity for total warfare An ambitious work of synthesis this book shows how the world continually re creates war and how war in turn continually re creates the world The Path to the Berlin Wall Manfred Wilke,2014-04-01 The long path to the Berlin Wall began in 1945 when Josef Stalin instructed the Communist Party to take power in the Soviet occupation zone while the three Western allies secured their areas of influence When Germany was split into separate states in 1949 Berlin remained divided into four sectors with West Berlin surrounded by the GDR but lingering as a captivating showcase for Western values and goods Following a failed Soviet attempt to expel the allies from West Berlin with a blockade in 1948 49 a second crisis ensued from 1958 61 during which the Soviet Union demanded once and for all the withdrawal of the Western powers and the transition of West Berlin to a Free City Ultimately Nikita Khrushchev decided to close the border in hopes of halting the overwhelming exodus of East Germans into the West Tracing this path from a German perspective Manfred Wilke draws on recently published conversations between Khrushchev and Walter Ulbricht head of the East German state in order to reconstruct the coordination process between these two leaders and the events that led to building the Berlin Wall Ethnography and Education in the South Diana Milstein,Regina Coeli Machado e Silva,Sofia Marques da Silva,2025-03-28 This book presents results of educational ethnographies carried out in non hegemonic academies situated in the South The chapters bring out methodological and theoretical contributions and offer the possibility to discuss tensions between universalizable and local ways of knowing and the emergence of alternative schools of ethnographic thinking The term South transcends geographical location to refer allegorically to the generation of situated knowledge and experience and to original ways of producing knowledge that show how social theories about the modern world from non hegemonic academies are equal in intellectual rigour and often of greater political relevance to our changing world The chapters take education in an ample sense considering that educational processes extrapolate the school context and transcend institutionalised forms The various singularities of the educational ethnographies exposed here try to make explicit aspects of this tension between universalizable and local ways of knowing They reach issues of the relationship of collective knowledge with learning cognition socialization transmission of culture languages and corporeality They also analyse local educational practices in scenarios of intense political conflict where issues such as poverty migration gender ethnicity memory territory and academic training intersect The book brings to light the range of contributions that emerged since the last decade of the twentieth century and stimulates the understanding of the breadth and extension of Ethnography and Education It was originally published as a special issue of the journal Ethnography and Education THOUGHTS OF PEACE ZEBEDEE KING,LINDA KING,2019-02-05 Every Season is the Season for Peace Thoughts of Peace assures the reader that peace is God s plan for everyone who will simply pursue it It then explains practical ways of pursuing God s peace and the enormous blessings resulting from finding a place of peace If you desire an abiding peace not just a fleeting or momentary peace but one which is an anchor to the soul steadying you and safely guiding you through every storm in life then Thoughts of Peace should be the next book on your reading list The
