School author of Fusion for Profit      Cliché and Organization Luc Peters, 2016-02-29 Organizations are caught in clichés. This means that they do not think for themselves anymore but rather simply copy pre-existing ideas. This is giving rise to a world which pretends to be knowable, predictable and mouldable, one in which clichés like efficiency, transparency, means ends, rationality and the strong leader are used without further thought or critique. This is the reason why organizations come into conflict with themselves and which causes a seemingly unresolvable crisis. Film, however, can show us a totally different world. It has a subversive potency that can wake up the viewer, making them think again, allowing them to see a world which cannot be perceived anymore. It can show the world as it really is again and can enable us to break through clichés. This book adopts a unique viewpoint on organizations through its use of film. With the help of philosophers like Deleuze, Heidegger and Sloterdijk, filmmakers like the Coen Brothers, Cronenberg, Antonioni and Tarkovsky and films like The Big Lebowski, Existenz, Stalker and Playtime, a world is revealed and explored. It shows the decisive role played by architecture and why managers are manipulative and impotent at the same time.

Water Policy in the Netherlands Stijn Reinhard, 2010-09-30 As a low-lying delta region with a high population density, the Netherlands has long focused on the prevention of flooding catastrophes and the reclamation of valuable land. The evolution of Dutch water governance, beginning with the creation of local water boards in the Middle Ages and growing into a complex infrastructure of polders, dams and controlled waterways, offers a compelling study of pitfalls and successes within one of the world's most challenging regions for water management. Water Policy in the Netherlands traces the arc of water governance in the country from technological innovations to prevent wide-scale flooding to strategies focused primarily on improving water quality to an integral water management approach which brings together perspectives from economics, hydrology, ecology, water law and water technology. The contributions in this book demonstrate how both the technical and social sciences must play key roles in crafting policy in the face of serious environmental challenges including climate change, sea level rise and increasing soil subsidence. Innovative themes explored in the work include how economic models and pricing structures might improve efficiency in the distribution of water resources; how the competing uses for water, including for recreation, arable agriculture, fisheries and natural preservation, create demands on both the quantity and quality of water resources; and how public participation, cogovernance and the balance of public and private interests will be necessary to meet the goals of the EU's Water Framework Directive. This resource serves as both an invaluable case study and as a text to develop the analytical tool of integral water management for students, policy makers and NGO professionals in developed and developing regions.
