Putting Power In Its Place Create Community Control:

Violence Explained John Wear Burton, 1997 Burton argues that the sources of conflict and violence are on the one hand the denial to many of their personal needs for development social recognition and identity and on the other the social expectation of compliance and the means used to enforce it Social protest terrorism revolution self appointed leaderships ethnic conflicts industrial strife street gangs of unemployed youth and even some family violence can be explained within this frame of structural violence He examines the adversarial institutions of society leadership legislatures the work place the legal system and the international relations system and considers what each would be like if designed to solve basic problems rather than to contain them This provocative and challenging book will be of interest to students lecturers and practitioners of politics administration and management industry law and law enforcement education and social work

State of the World 1985, 1984 At the Edge Ann Dale, 2007-10-01 At the Edge is a rich and evocative call to action at a time when new ideas are urgently needed Mandatory reading for policy analysts and decision makers in the public private and volunteer sectors it will be equally useful to scholars teachers students and others interested in creating sustainable societies Throughout the world biophysical evidence is mounting that human growth and activity patterns are slowly destroying the earth This ecological deterioration is accompanied by similar social and economic decline with potentially grave consequences for the continued existence of human societies Yet as Ann Dale compassionately argues it is not too late to take action Hope lies in sustainable development the fundamental human imperative of the 21st century Sustainable development in Dale's view is the process of reconciling three imperatives the ecological the social and the economic Equitable access to resources in all three spheres is fundamental to the global realization of sustainable development This will not be realized without strong leadership by governments at all levels Ultimately needed is a new framework for governance based on human responsibility and a recognition of the interconnectedness of human and natural systems

Commons, Citizenship and Power Filippo Barbera,Emma

Bell, 2025-01-10 Since the 2010s populism and illiberal politics have been on the rise Demagogue leaders preach simplified rhetoric to vilify the powerless polarising city and rural areas and sparking such shocking events as the US insurrection on 6th January 2021 This interdisciplinary book argues for a politics of representativity and accountability to help transform people's experiences showing that where they live matters and therefore so do they This book demonstrates how place based politics can draw on and benefit from collective local knowledge rather than deferring to a nameless central government Analysing democratic theory and using rich case studies from protest movements to citizens assemblies it shows how it can return a sense of control to the people

Public Space/Contested Space Kevin Murphy, Sally O'Driscoll, 2021-02-15 It is not possible to be alive today in the United States without feeling the influence of the political climate on the spaces where people live work and form communities Public Space Contested Space illustrates the ways in which creative interventions in public space have constituted a significant dimension of contemporary political action and how this space can both reflect and spur economic and cultural change Drawing insight from a range of disciplines and fields the essays in this volume assess the effectiveness of protest movements that deploy bodies in urban space and social projects that build communities while also exposing inequalities and presenting new political narratives With sections exploring the built environment artists and activists and public space the book brings together the diverse voices to reveal the complexities and politicization of public space within the United States Public Space Contested Space provides a significant contribution to an understudied dimension of contemporary political action and will be a resource to students of urban studies and planning architecture sociology art history and human geography

Reclaiming Local Control through Superintendents, School Boards, and Community Activism Meredith Mountford, Leigh Ellen Wallace, 2022-09-01 In 1987 Jacqueline Danzberger described school boards as the forgotten players However things have changed drastically for school boards over the past few years No longer are school boards the forgotten players in school governance Instead school boards often find themselves in the center of controversies stemming from the intrusion of political partisanship into local governance structures which historically and for the purposes of sustained democratic educational governance were intentionally intended to be non partisan elected boards However this is where many school boards find themselves today The chapters in this volume address several key questions school board members are currently facing as they struggle to protect some of our country's earliest guardrails of democracy local control of schools To be sure school boards are no longer the forgotten players Implications of this may be wide reaching and therefore deserve room in the current literature on educational governance Volume II of the Research on the Superintendency series highlights recent research on school boards local control governance and the superintendency Each chapter is briefly described and the chapters are in a particular order that readers may wish to pay attention to as they enjoy the book The first three chapters deal with local control in both rural and urban settings The next two chapters are studies focused mainly on school boards and how their roles have shifted over the years followed by a chapter on the relationship between school boards and their superintendents within a regulatory environment and the level of stress it can bring to board members and superintendents The final five chapters describe recent superintendent research that is closely linked to school governance or school board policies We ask readers to juxtapose lessons learned in those five chapters to the role of school boards within the context of those chapters
