Golf's #1 Swing Secret: The True Center of your Golf Swing and How to Make it Work: How to Play Golf like Ben Hogan, Jack Nicklaus & Tiger Woods J. Moriarty, Do the Pro s have a Secret Their swings look different yet they all produce fantastic results The answer may be yes because they all do one thing in common From Bobby Jones to Tiger Woods They use the True

Center of their Golf Swings the same way Contrary to some opinion the True Center is not the Spine the Spine is the center of the shoulders but the complete Golf Swing is a much bigger picture The Golf Swing is a chain of many pieces that must occur fluidly and sequentially The True Center is the glue that holds the pieces together It is the thing that provides the power consistency and accuracy in your Golf Swing and it is the one thing you must do the same every time It is simple physics The Golf Swing is a rotational move and it needs a rotation point If the rotation point is consistent the Club Head will be consistent to the ball If the rotation point is inconsistent you will need to make in swing corrections to get the Club Head to the ball Having a consistent Center will allow you to make Tweaks to your swing and this allows you to zone in on what produces the best results This is much different from making up front changes hoping to find results The key is to get the one right part into the right place Every Time This is the 1 thing you should be concerned with in your Golf Swing because If your Center is working properly the rest of your swing will occur more naturally The Good News is This is a simple step process
