Quality Management Implementation in Higher Education: Practices, Models, and Case Studies Sony, Michael, Karingada, Kochu Therisa, Baporikar, Neeta, 2019-08-02 Although initially utilized in business and industrial environments quality management systems can be adapted into higher education to assess and improve an institution's standards. These strategies are now playing a vital role in educational areas such as teaching learning and institutional level practices. However, quality management tools and models must be adapted to fit with the culture of higher education. Quality Management Implementation in Higher Education Practices Models and Case Studies is a pivotal reference source that explores the challenges and solutions of designing quality management models in the current educational culture. Featuring research on topics such as Lean Six Sigma distance education and student supervision, this book is ideally designed for school board members, administrators, deans, policymakers, stakeholders, professors, graduate students, education professionals, and researchers seeking current research on the applications and success factors of quality management systems in various facets of higher education. Quality and Communication for Improvement, 1992-01-01

Plan nacional de evaluación de la calidad de las universidades. Indicadores en la universidad: información y decisiones Ministerio de Educación, 2000-06 Recoge informaciones y experiencias que pueden ser de utilidad para el establecimiento de un sistema de indicadores de la enseñanza universitaria. Improvement and Accountability A. I. Vroeijenstijn, 1995 Whilst quality assessment is now very much a hot issue, it is only within the last few years that such assessment within institutions of Higher Education has become the concern of outside organisations. This book is a practical manual for the design and development of systems of external quality assessment. The author highlights the dual function of EQA: quality improvement and greater accountability. It demonstrates the importance of striking a good balance between these two elements in order to develop an effective EQA system. He also stresses the need for individual institutions to develop systems suited to their particular needs and bases his arguments on over five years' experience of working on EQA schemes in universities and colleges in the Netherlands, one of the first countries to develop such a system. Quality Assurance In Higher Education Alma Craft, 2003-09-02 First Published in 1992. This is a collection of the Proceedings of an International Conference Hong Kong July 1991. The Hong Kong Council for Academic Accreditation (HKCAA) hosted an invitation conference on Quality Assurance in Higher Education. Over 100 senior representatives from accreditation bodies and from higher education attended and spent three days in discussion of quality assurance issues. Delegates came from Australia, Belgium, Canada, China, France, Germany, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Ireland, Kenya, Korea, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nigeria, Puerto Rico, Philippines, Singapore, South Africa, Sweden, Taiwan, the United Kingdom, and the United States of America. Edited versions of the formal presentations appear in this publication; together they offer a review of international developments in quality assurance in higher education. Revue Canadienne de L'enseignement Supérieur, 1992
