,1996 Standardization: A Business Approach to the Role of National Standardization Organizations Henk J. de Vries,2013-06-29 This study fills a gap in standardization literature It is the first academic analysis of national standardization organizations These organizations exist in every country and may be private or governmental organizations The first national standardization th organizations were founded in the early decades of the 20 century and were aimed at rationalizing industrial production Their mode of operation reflects the sense of co operation at the national level and in the telecommunications and electrotechnical field at the intemationallevel as well Now however the scene has changed with companies operating internationally Standards for products processes and services are crucial factors in determining success or failure on a fiercely competitive market especially when functional compatibility is a prerequisite as is the case in computer and telecommunications technologies As a consequence rather homogeneous needs of participants in standardization have given way to conflicting interests This prompts a discussion about the traditional role of national standardization organizations They increasingly depend on their exclusive links to the international standardization organizations ISO and IEC and in the case of Europe the regional organizations CEN and CENELEC In many cases formal standardization organizations are not the obvious bodies for developing standards to meet business needs Is this inevitable or could they improve performance and regain their market share Henk de Vries answers this question against the background of current developments in standardization at the international European and national levels Intelligent Buildings: An Introduction Derek Clements-Croome,2013-10-08 This book introduces the concept of Intelligent Buildings to the wider construction community Edited by the Father of Intelligent Buildings Derek Clements Croome the book explains that intelligent buildings should be sustainable healthy technologically aware meet the needs of occupants and business and should be flexible and adaptable to deal with change This means the processes of planning design construction commissioning and facilities management including post occupancy evaluation are all important Buildings comprise many systems devised by many people and yet the relationship between buildings and people can only work satisfactorily if there is an integrated team with a holistic vision Quality in the Food Analysis Laboratory Roger Wood,Harriet Wallin,Anders Nilsson,2007-10-31 Fit for purpose is a phrase familiar to all users of analytical data who need to be assured that data provided by laboratories is both appropriate and of the required quality Quality in the Food Analysis Laboratory surveys the procedures that a food analysis laboratory must consider to meet such requirements The need to introduce quality assurance the different quality models that are available and the legislative requirements are considered Specific aspects of laboratory practice and particular areas of accreditation which may cause problems for analytical laboratories are also discussed Covering for the first time those areas of direct importance to food analysis laboratories this unique book will serve as an aid to those laboratories when introducing new measures and justifying those chosen
