Romancing The Past:

Romancing the Past Gabrielle M. Spiegel, 1993 Reading Spiegel's book is like seeing the scattered pieces of a jigsaw puzzle of history and literature suddenly assembled in a dazzling new image a picture that could not have been made without the master piece the manuscript that Professor Spiegel was the first person in almost 800 years to read and interpret Her effort is a tour de force of no mean proportion Stephen G Nichols Jr author of Romanesque Signs

The Past as Text Gabrielle M. Spiegel, 1999-11-08 This study of familiar medieval histories and chronicles argues that the historian should be aware of the discursive nature literary modes and ideological investments of such texts as well as the social circumstances to which they were applied and by which they were generated Postmodernism has challenged historians to look at historical texts in a new way and to be skeptical of the claim that one can confidently retrieve fact from historical writings In The Past as Text historian Gabrielle M Spiegel sets out to read medieval histories and chronicles in light of the critical theoretical problems raised by postmodernism At the same time she urges a method of analysis that enables the reader to recognize these texts simultaneously as artifice and as works deeply embedded in a historically determinate knowable social world Beginning with a theoretical basis for the study of medieval historiography Spiegel demonstrates her theory in practice offering readings of medieval histories and chronicles as literary social and political constructions The study insightfully concludes that historians should be equally aware of the discursive nature literary modes and ideological investments of such texts and the social circumstances to which they were applied and by which they were generated Arguing for the social logic of the text Spiegel provides historians with a way to retrieve the social significance and conceptual claims produced by these medieval or any historical writings

Creating the Monastic Past in Medieval Flanders Karine Ugé, 2005 Examination of the self produced histories of a number of religious communities tracing out the complex reasons for their composition The creation of a past for themselves was of pressing importance to religious communities enabling them to increase their status and legitimise their existence This book examines the process in a group of communities from the southern part of Flanders the monks of Saint Bertin at Saint Omer the community of Saint Riquier at Marchiennes and the canons of Saint Am at Douai over a period running from the ninth to the end of the eleventh century The central contention is that the communities produced their narratives history hagiography charter materials for a specific time and purpose frequently as a response to or intended resolution of internal or external crises The book also discusses how the circumstances which triggered narrative production had an impact not only on the content but also on the form of the texts

A Lover's Quarrel with the Past Ranjan Ghosh, 2012 Although not a professional historian the author raises several issues pertinent to the state of history today Qualifying the non historian as an able interventionist in historical studies the author explores the relationship between history and theory within the current epistemological configurations and reconfigurations He asks how history transcends the obsessive linguistic turn which has been hegemonizing literary discourse analysis and focuses greater attention on historical experience and where history stands in relation to our understanding of ethics religion and the current state of global politics that underlines the manipulation and abuse of history Henry James and the Past Ian F. A. Bell, 1991-06-18 An examination of the work of Henry James Topics covered range from commodity and style in Washington Square to the peculiarity of social life in The Bostonians Other works by the author include Ezra Pound Tactics for Reading and Henry James's Fiction as History Representing the Past in the Art of the Long Nineteenth Century Matthew C.

Potter, 2021-09-30 This edited collection explores the intersection of historical studies and the artistic representation of the past in the long nineteenth century The case studies provide not just an account of the pursuit of history in art within Western Europe but also examples from beyond that sphere These cover canonical and conventional examples of history painting as well as more inclusive popular and vernacular visual cultural phenomena General themes explored include the problematics internal to the theory and practice of academic history painting and historical genre painting including compositional devices and the authenticity of artefacts depicted relationships of power and purpose in historical art the use of historical art for alternative Liberal and authoritarian ideals the international cross fertilisation of ideas about historical art and exploration of the diverse influences of socioeconomic and geopolitical factors This book will be of particular interest to scholars of the histories of nineteenth century art and culture History of the Dukes of Normandy and the Kings of

England by the Anonymous of Béthune Paul Webster, 2021-02-23 In the first quarter of the thirteenth century an anonymous Flemish writer set in writing in Old French a chronicle of Normandy England Flanders and northern France It ranged from the arrival of the Vikings in Normandy to the early years of the reign of King Henry III of England ending with an account of the translation of the relics of St Thomas Becket to their magnificent new shrine in Canterbury Cathedral in 1220 Along the way it adopted and formed part of a tradition of writing of the history of the dukes of Normandy and kings of England a tradition which had developed in Latin in the eleventh and twelfth centuries and then continued in Old French The work is famous for vibrant and informed description of the reign of King John in particular the period of baronial reaction Magna Carta ensuing civil war and the nearly successful invasion of England by Louis heir to the kingdom of France Flanders supplied troops to both sides and this Flemish author sees these events in close detail and from the Flemish not the French or English point of view He may himself have been an eyewitness directly involved but if not he would have known many who had fought and died in this conflict Janet Shirley's translation of this chronicle the first into English brings the work of the Anonymous of Béthune to a new audience in this volume accompanied by an introduction and historical notes by Paul Webster

Images of the Medieval Peasant Paul H. Freedman, 1999 The medieval clergy aristocracy and commercial classes tended to regard peasants as objects of contempt and derision In religious writings satires sermons chronicles and artistic representations peasants often appeared as dirty foolish dishonest even as subhuman or bestial Their lowliness was commonly regarded as a natural corollary of the drudgery of their agricultural toil Yet at the same time the peasantry was not viewed as other in the manner of other condemned groups such as Jews lepers Muslims or the imagined monstrous races of the East Several crucial characteristics of the peasantry rendered it less clearly alien from the elite perspective peasants were not a minority their work in the fields nourished all other social orders and most important they were Christians In other respects peasants could be regarded as meritorious by virtue of their simple life productive work and unjust suffering at the hands of their exploitive social superiors Their unrewarded sacrifice and piety were also sometimes thought to place them closest to God and more likely to win salvation This book examines these conflicting images of peasants from the post Carolingian period to the German Peasants War It relates the representation of peasants to debates about how society should be organized specifically to how human equality at Creation led to subordination how slavery and serfdom could be assailed or defended and how peasants themselves structured and justified their demands Though it was argued that peasants were legitimately subjugated by reason of nature or some primordial curse such as that of Noah against his son Ham there was also considerable unease about how the exploitation of those who were not completely alien who were after all Christians could be explained Laments over peasant suffering as expressed in the literature might have a stylized quality but this book shows how they were appropriated and shaped by peasants themselves especially in the large scale rebellions that characterized the late Middle Ages

Vernacular Translation in Dante's Italy Alison Cornish, 2010-12-23 Translation and commentary are often associated with institutions and patronage but in Italy around the time of Dante widespread vernacular translation was mostly on the spontaneous initiative of individuals While Dante is usually the starting point for histories of vernacular translation in Europe this book demonstrates that The Divine Comedy places itself in opposition to a vast vernacular literature already in circulation among its readers Alison Cornish explores the anxiety of vernacularization as expressed by translators and contemporary authors the prevalence of translation in religious experience the role of scribal mediation the influence of the Italian reception of French literature on that literature and how translating into the vernacular became a project of nation building only after its virtual demise during the Humanist period Vernacular translation was a phenomenon with which all authors in thirteenth and fourteenth century Europe from Brunetto Latini to Giovanni Boccaccio had to contend

Romantic Medievalism E. Fay, 2001-12-17 Nineteenth century medievalism is usually associated with Scott's world of Ivanhoe but Romantic Medievalism argues that Scott's is a conservative use of the past and that radical poets such as the young Coleridge Keats and Shelley used the medieval to critique and change rather than validate the present These poets identified with the troubadour of courtly love a disempowered figure often politically at odds with the establishment figure of the knight
