

The background of the book cover is a detailed blue-toned illustration of a street scene in Cambridge. On the left, a large Gothic church with a tall spire is visible. The street is filled with people in 19th-century attire, some walking and others standing. Buildings of various architectural styles line the street, and a horse-drawn carriage is visible on the right. The entire scene is framed by a thin white border.

Romillys Cambridge Diary 1832 4:

Romilly's Cambridge Diary 1832-42 Joseph Romilly, 1967 Romilly's Cambridge Diary, 1832-42: Selected Passages from the Diary of the Rev. Joseph Romilly, Fellow of Trinity College and Registry of the University of Cambridge Joseph Romilly, 1967 Robert Willis (1800-1875) and the Foundation of Architectural History Alexandrina Buchanan, 2013 The first full scale biography of Robert Willis the founding father of architectural history WINNER of the Cambridge Association for Local History book award 2016 Robert Willis was the archetypal nineteenth century polymath Officially as Jacksonian Professor of Natural and Experimental Philosophy at the University of Cambridge he specialized in the study of mechanism which he also taught at the Royal School of Mines in London In the field of science he was an experimentalist inventor and educational innovator Meanwhile in his spare time he pursued his passion pioneering the serious study of architectural history Initially his work was aimed at architects his role in providing an intellectual underpinning to the contemporary Gothic Revival was acknowledged by the award of the gold medal of the Royal Institute of British Architects in 1862 However his main contribution was more historical Starting with Canterbury in 1844 over the course of his career he investigated almost every English cathedral and developed an approach combining documentary and archaeological research which remains in use today His studies culminated in the monumental Architectural History of the University of Cambridge still the definitive account of its subject In this fascinating and lavishly illustrated intellectual biography drawn from extensive archival and architectural research the author sheds new light on the interconnections between Willis s varied fields of interest and his fundamental role in the creation of a discipline ALEXANDRINA BUCHANAN is both an architectural historian and an archivist her introduction to archives came through cataloguing the papers of Robert Willis at the Cambridge University Library She is now Lecturer in Archive Studies at the University of Liverpool A History of the University of Cambridge: Volume 4, 1870-1990 Christopher Brooke, Christopher N. L. Brooke, Damian Riehl Leader, Victor Morgan, Peter Searby, 1988 This is the fourth volume of A History of the University of Cambridge and explores the extraordinary growth in size and academic stature of the University between 1870 and 1990 Though the University has made great advances since the 1870s when it was viewed as a provincial seminary it is also the home of tradition a federation of colleges one over 700 years old one of the 1970s This book seeks to penetrate the nature of the colleges and of the federation and to show the way in which university faculties and departments have come to vie with the colleges for this predominant role It attempts to unravel a fascinating institutional story of the society of the University and its place in the world It explores in depth the themes of religion and learning and of the entry of women into a once male environment There are portraits of seminal and characteristic figures of the Cambridge scene and there is a sketch inevitably selective but wide ranging of many disciplines an extensive study in intellectual and academic history The Correspondence of Charles Darwin: Volume 2, 1837-1843 Charles Darwin, Frederick Burkhardt, 1985 This is the second volume of the complete edition of The Correspondence of

Charles Darwin For the first time full authoritative texts of Darwin's letters are available edited according to modern textual editorial principles and practice The letters in this volume were written during the seven years following Darwin's return to England from the Beagle voyage It was a period of extraordinary activity and productivity in which he became recognised as a naturalist of outstanding ability as an author and editor and as a professional man with official responsibilities in several scientific organisations During these years he published two books and fifteen papers and also organised and superintended the publication of the Zoology of the Voyage of HMS Beagle for which he described the locations of the fossils and the habitats and behaviour of the living species he had collected Busy as he was with scientific activities Darwin found time to re-establish family ties and friendships and to make new friends among the naturalists with whom his work brought him into close contact In November 1838 two years after his return Darwin became engaged to his cousin Emma Wedgwood whom he subsequently married

William Whewell Lukas M. Verburgt,2024-10-08 William Whewell the famous master of Trinity College in Cambridge was a central figure in nineteenth century British scientific culture and one of the last great polymaths His influential work ranged from history and philosophy of science education architecture mineralogy and political economy to mathematics engineering natural theology metaphysics and moral philosophy Among his many gifts to science was his role as cofounder and president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science and his wordsmithing he coined the terms scientist physicist linguistics and electrode While he was himself an opponent of evolution through natural selection Whewell's most famous works including his Bridgewater Treatise 1833 and Philosophy of the Inductive Sciences 1840 played a formative role in Charles Darwin's creation of the theory of evolution William Whewell Victorian Polymath reexamines the whole of Whewell's oeuvre as well as the wide range and internal unity of his many polymathic endeavors placing him within the early Victorian intellectual landscape and highlighting his exchanges with other important figures of the period such as John Herschel Charles Lyell and Robert Peel Bringing together a group of eminent and emergent scholars the volume explores all major aspects of Whewell's reform project and its legacy both in the sciences and the humanities in the Victorian era and beyond

Thompson, 2017-03-02 Many books have been written about nineteenth century Oxford theology but what was happening in Cambridge This book provides the first continuous account of what might be called the Cambridge theological tradition by discussing its leading figures from Richard Watson and William Paley through Herbert Marsh and Julius Hare to the trio of Lightfoot Westcott and Hort It also includes a chapter on nonconformists such as Robertson Smith P T Forsyth and T R Glover The analysis is organised around the defences that were offered for the credibility of Christianity in response to hostile and friendly critics In this period the study of theology was not yet divided into its modern self contained areas A critical approach to scripture was taken for granted and its implications for ecclesiology the understanding of salvation and the social implications of the Gospel were teased out in Hort s phrase through enquiry and controversy as a way to discover truth Cambridge both engaged with German theology and responded positively to the nineteenth century crisis of faith
