Rooted Against The Wind Personal Essays:

Rooted Against the Wind Gloria Jean Wade-Gayles, 1997-10-31 In these beautifully written essays Gloria Wade Gayles is at times painfully candid as she confronts such controversial subjects as rape homophobia interracial relationships and even looking and acting too young for her age Yet what emerges from each piece is a powerful connection to her community which serves as her well spring of strength sheltering her faith

African American Autobiographers Emmanuel S. Nelson, 2002-03-30 There is growing popular and scholarly interest in autobiography along with increasing regard for the achievements of African American writers The first reference of its kind this volume chronicles the autobiographical tradition in African American literature Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 66 African American authors who present autobiographical material in their works The volume profiles major figures such as Frederick Douglass Zora Neale Hurston Richard Wright Maya Angelou James Baldwin and Malcolm X along with many lesser known autobiographers who deserve greater attention While some are known primarily for their literary accomplishments others have gained acclaim for their diverse contributions to society The entries are written by expert contributors and provide authoritative information about their subjects Each begins with a concise biography which summarizes the life and achievements of the autobiographer This is followed by a discussion of major autobiographical works and themes along with an overview of the autobiographer s critical reception The entries close with primary and secondary bibliographies and a selected general bibliography concludes the volume Together the entries provide a detailed portrait of the African American autobiographical tradition from the 18th century to the present

Traps Rudolph P. Byrd, Beverly Guy-Sheftall, 2001 Traps is the first anthology that historicizes the writings by African American men who have examined the meanings of the overlapping categories of race gender and sexuality and who have theorized these categories in the most expansive and progressive terms Traps contains the landmark speeches essays letters and a manifesto by nineteenth and twentieth century African American men who have examined the complex terrain of gender and sexuality within the historical and cultural matrix of the United States

Women's Studies Linda Krikos, Cindy Ingold, 2004-08-30 This truly monumental work maps the literature of women s studies covering thousands of titles and Web sites in 19 subject areas published between 1985 and 1999 Intended as a reference and collection development tool this bibliography provides a guide for women s studies information for each title along with a detailed often evaluative review The annotations summarize each work s content its importance or contribution to women s studies and its relationship to other titles on the subject Core titles and titles that are out of print are noted and reviews indicate which titles are appropriate as texts or supplemental texts This definitive guide to the literature of women s studies is a must purchase for academic libraries that support women s studies programs and it is a useful addition to any academic or public library that endeavors to represent the field A team of subject specialists has taken on the immense task of documenting publications in the area of women s studies in the last decades of the 20th century The result is this truly monumental work which maps the field covering thousands of titles and Web sites in 19 subject areas published between 1985 and 1999. Intended as a reference and collection development tool, this bibliography provides a guide for women's studies information for each title along with a detailed, often evaluative review. The annotations summarize each work's content, its importance or contribution to women's studies, and its relationship to other titles on the subject. Most reviews cite and describe similar and contrasting titles, substantially extending the coverage. Core titles and titles that are out of print are noted, and reviews indicate which titles are appropriate as texts or supplemental texts. Taking up where the previous volume by Loeb Searing and Stineman left off, this is the definitive guide to the literature of women's studies. It is a must purchase for academic libraries that support women's studies programs and a welcome addition to any academic or public library that endeavors to represent the field.

The Trouble Between Us Wini Breines, 2006. Focusing on white and black women, this book examines the feminist movement to ask why, given the roots of second wave feminism in the civil rights movement, a racially integrated women's liberation movement didn't develop in the 1960s and 70s in the United States.

Navigating Interracial Borders Erica Chito Childs, 2005-05-24. One of the best books written about interracial relationships to date, Childs offers a sophisticated and insightful analysis of the social and ideological context of black-white interracial relationships. Heather Dalmage, author of Tripping on the Color Line, a pioneering project that thoroughly analyzes interracial marriage in contemporary America; Eduardo Bonilla-Silva, author of Racism without Racists: Color Blind Racism and the Persistence of Racial Inequality in the United States. Is love color blind, or at least becoming increasingly so? Today's popular rhetoric and evidence of more interracial couples than ever might suggest that it is. But is it the idea of racially mixed relationships that we are growing to accept, or is it the reality? What is the actual experience of individuals in these partnerships as they navigate their way through public spheres and intermingle in small, close-knit communities?

In Navigating Interracial Borders, Erica Chito Childs explores the social worlds of black-white interracial couples and examines the ways that collective attitudes shape private relationships. Drawing on personal accounts, in-depth interviews, focus group responses, and cultural analysis of media sources, she provides compelling evidence that sizable opposition still exists toward black-white unions. Disapproval is merely being expressed in more subtle, color-blind terms. Childs reveals that frequently the same individuals who attest in surveys that they approve of interracial dating will also list various reasons why they and their families wouldn't, shouldn't, and couldn't marry someone of another race. Even college students who are heralded as racially tolerant and open-minded do not view interracial couples as acceptable when those partnerships move beyond the point of casual dating. Popular films, Internet images, and pornography also continue to reinforce the idea that sexual relations between blacks and whites are deviant. Well researched, candidly written, and enriched with personal narratives, Navigating Interracial Borders offers important new insights into the still-fraught racial hierarchies of contemporary society in the United States.

Undaunted by the Fight Harry G. Lefever, 2005. Undaunted by the Fight is a study of small but dedicated group of Spelman College students and faculty who between 1957 and 1967 risked their lives compromised their grades and jeopardized their careers to make Atlanta and the South a more just and open society Lefever argues that the participation of Spelman's students and faculty in the Civil Rights Movement represented both a continuity and a break with the institution's earlier history On the one hand their actions were consistent with Spelman's long history of liberal arts and community service yet on the other hand as his research documents their actions represented a break with Spelman's traditional non political stance and challenged the assumption that social changes should occur only gradually and within established legal institutions For the first time in the eighty plus years of Spelman's existence the students and faculty who participated in the Movement took actions that directly challenged the injustices of the social and political status quo Too often in the past the Movement literature including the literature on the Atlanta Movement focused disproportionately on the males involved to the exclusion of the women who were equally involved and who in many instances initiated actions and provided leadership for the Movement Lefever concludes his study by saying that Spelman's activist students and faculty succeeded to the extent they did because they kept their eyes on the prize They endured the struggle he says and in so doing eventually won many prizes some personal others social Undaunted they liberated themselves but at the same time they liberated their school their city and the larger society
