The Penguin Concise Columbia Encyclopedia Judith S. Levey, Agnes Greenhall, 1987 Culture Bumps Ritva Leppihalme, 1997 This work focuses on translators and readers as participants in the communicative process where the use of allusions is one type of problem to be solved Reader response tests and interviews with professional translators highlight the difficulty in conveying the function and meaning of allusive passages to readers in another culture The many examples discussed also provide materials for translation teachers wanting to address the translation of allusions in their courses A

History of Cooks and Cooking Michael Symons, 2004 Never has there been so little need to cook Yet Michael Symons maintains that to be truly human we need to become better cooks practical and generous sharers of food Fueled by James Boswell's definition of humans as cooking animals for no beast can cook Symons sets out to explore the civilizing role of cooks in history His wanderings take us to the clay ovens of the prehistoric eastern Mediterranean and the bronze cauldrons of ancient China to fabulous banquets in the temples and courts of Mesopotamia Egypt and Persia to medieval English cookshops and southeast Asian street markets to palace kitchens diners and modern fast food eateries Symons samples conceptions and perceptions of cooks and cooking from Plato and Descartes to Marx and Virginia Woolf asking why cooks despite their vital and central role in sustaining life have remained in the shadows unheralded unregarded and underappreciated People think of meals as occasions where you share food he notes they rarely think of cooks as sharers of food Considering such notions as the physical and political consequences of sauce connections between food and love and cooking as a regulator of clock and calendar Symons provides a spirited and diverting defense of a cook centered view of the world Know it All, Find it Fast Robert John Duckett, Bob Duckett, Peter Walker, Christine Donnelly, 2008 There is a queue the phone is ringing the photocopier has jammed and your enquirer is waiting for a response You are stressed and you can feel the panic rising Where do you go to find the information you need to answer the question promptly and accurately Answering queries from users is one of the most important services undertaken by library and information staff Yet it is also one of the most difficult least understood subjects There are still very few materials available to help frontline staff often paraprofessional develop their reader enquiry skills This award winning sourcebook is an essential guide to where to look to find the answers quickly It is designed as a first point of reference for library and information practitioners to be depended upon if they are unfamiliar with the subject of an enquiry or wish to find out more It is arranged in an easily searchable fully cross referenced A Z list of around 150 of the subject areas most frequently handled at enquiry desks Each subject entry lists the most important information sources and where to locate them including printed and electronic sources relevant websites and useful contacts for referral purposes The authors use their extensive experience in reference work to offer useful tips warn of potential pitfalls and spotlight typical queries and how to tackle them This new edition has been brought right up to date with all sources checked for currency and many new ones added The searchability is enhanced by a comprehensive index to make those essential sources even easier to find saving you valuable minutes Readership Offering quick and easy pointers to a multitude of information sources this is an invaluable reference deskbook for all library and information staff in need of a speedy answer in reference libraries subject departments and other information units

Economics and the Social Sciences Stavros Ioannides,Klaus Nielsen,2007-01-01 This book is based on the premise that mainstream economics has become excessively specialized and formalized entering a state of de facto withdrawal from the study of the economy in favour of exercises in applied mathematics The editors believe that there is much scope for synergies by engaging in an encounter with economics and the other social sciences The chapters in this book offer important new contributions to such a development A select group of highly regarded contributors illustrate the potentially enlightening relationship between economics and a wide range of social science disciplines In addition some important concepts for economic analysis for example the notion of routines of social capital and of flexibility are explored from the vantage point of several social sciences Postgraduate students in most social science disciplines and in economic sociology will find much to interest them in this book as will students of psychology and economics
