almost all the others since but few of them can be practiced without it The courage of our forefathers has created the greatest empire in the world around a small and in itself insignificant island if this empire is ever lost it will be by the cowardice of their descendants At no period of her history did England stand so high in the eyes of Europe as in the time whose events are recorded in this volume A chivalrous king and an even more chivalrous prince had infected the whole people with their martial spirit and the result was that their armies were for a time invincible and the most astonishing successes were gained against numbers which would appear overwhelming The victories of Cressy and Poitiers may be to some extent accounted for by superior generalship and discipline on the part of the conquerors but this will not account for the great naval victory over the Spanish fleet off the coast of Sussex a victory even more surprising and won against greater odds than was that gained in the same waters centuries later over the Spanish Armada The historical facts of the story are all drawn from Froissart and other contemporary historians as collated and compared by Mr James in his carefully written history They may therefore be relied upon as accurate in every important particular      The Humorous Speaker Oliver Oldham,1858

spoke two horsemen rode down the opposite side of the valley and halted at the water's edge. The prospect was not a pleasant one. The river was sixty or seventy feet wide and in the centre the water swept along in a raging current. You cannot cross here, the boy shouted at the top of his voice. You must go higher up where the water's deeper. The wind swept his words away but his gestures were understood. The boy is telling us to go higher up, said one of the horsemen. I suppose he is the other replied but here is the ford. You see the road we have travelled ends here and I can see it again on the other side. It is getting dark and were we to cross higher up we might lose our way and get bogged. It is years since I was here. What's the boy going to do now? Show us a place for crossing. The lad on seeing the hesitation of the horsemen had run along the bank up the stream and to their surprise when he had gone a little more than a hundred yards he dashed into the water. For a time the water was shallow and he waded out until he reached the edge of the regular bank of the river and then swam out into the current. Go back, the horseman shouted but his voice did not reach the swimmer who in a few strokes was in the full force of the stream and was soon lost to the sight of the horsemen among the short foaming waves of the torrent. The boy will be drowned, one of the horsemen said, spurring his horse up the valley but in another minute the lad was seen breasting the calmer water just above the ford. You cannot cross here, Captain Hume he said as he approached the horsemen. You must go nigh a mile up the river. Why, who are you, lad, the horseman asked and how do you know my name? I'm the nephew of Nigel Grahame. Seeing how deep the floods were I came out to show you the way for the best horse in the world could not swim the Nith here now. But this is the ford, Captain Hume said. Yes, this is the ford in dry weather. The bottom here is hard rock and easy to ride over when the river is but waist deep but below and above this place it is covered with great boulders. The water is six feet deep here now and the horses would be carried down among the rocks and would never get across. A mile up the river is always deep and though the current is strong there is nothing to prevent a bold horseman from swimming across. I thank you heartily, young sir, Captain Hume said. I can see how broken is the surface of the water and doubt not that it would have fared hard with us had we attempted to swim across here. In faith, Munro, we have had a narrow escape. Ay, indeed, the other agreed. It would have been hard if you and I after going through all the battlefields of the Low Countries should have been drowned here together in a Scottish burn. Your young friend is a gallant lad and a good swimmer for in truth it was no light task to swim that torrent with the water almost as cold as ice. Now sirs, will you please to ride on, the boy said. It is getting dark fast and the sooner we are across the better. So saying he went off at a fast run, the horses trotting behind him. A mile above he reached the spot he had spoken of. The river was narrower here and the stream was running with great rapidity swirling and heaving as it went but with a smooth even surface. Two hundred yards farther up the boy said is the beginning of the deep. If you take the water there you will get across so as to climb up by that sloping bank just opposite. He led the way to the spot he indicated and then plunged into the stream swimming quietly and steadily across and allowing the stream to drift him down. The horsemen followed his example. They had swum many a swollen river and although their horses snorted and plunged at first they soon quieted down and swam steadily over They just struck the spot which the boy had indicated He had already arrived there and without a word trotted forward It was soon dark and the horsemen were obliged to keep close to his heels to see his figure It was as much as they could do to keep up with him for the ground was rough and broken sometimes swampy sometimes strewn with boulders It is well we have a guide Colonel Munro said to his companion for assuredly even had we got safely across the stream we should never have found our way across such a country as this Scotland is a fine country Hume a grand country and we are all proud of it you know but for campaigning give me the plains of Germany while as for your weather here it is only fit for a water rat      Deceived Nicola Cornick,2009-05-01 Princess Isabella never imagined it could come to this Bad enough she faces imprisonment for debts not her own Even worse that she must make a hasty marriage of convenience with Marcus the Earl of Stockhaven the man she d loved and lost so long ago But that he now wants revenge by demanding she be his in more than name only well that is simply intolerable As the London gossips eagerly gather to watch the fun Isabella struggles to maintain a polite distance in her marriage But the more Isabella challenges Marcus s iron determination the hotter their passion burns This time will it consume them both or fuel a love greater than they dare dream
