Pennsylvania Government For Kids Hc 1996:

Children in Foster Care James Barber, Paul Delfabbro, Robyn Gilbertson, 2004-08-02 Researchers practitioners journalists and politicians increasingly recognise that foster care throughout the world is in a state of crisis There are more and more children needing care and as residential alternatives dry up more of these children are being assigned to foster families This book reports the major findings of a two year longitudinal study of 235 such children who entered the foster care system in Southern Australia between 1998 and 1999 As well as examining the changing policy context of children s services the book documents the psychosocial outcomes for these children their feedback on their experiences of care and the views of their social workers and carers In the process the book examines some cherished beliefs about foster care policy and sheds new light on them The research reveals that while most children do quite well in foster care up to the two year point there is a worrying amount of placement instability at a time when the concentration of emotionally troubled children in care is increasing throughout the western world Although surprisingly placement instability does not appear to produce psychosocial impairment for a period of up to eight months in care it has an extreme effect on children who are moved from placement to placement because no carer will tolerate their behaviour These children are consigned to a life of distribution and emotional upheaval because of the lack of alternative forms of care Another unexpected finding of the research is that increasing the rate of parental contact achieves little or nothing in relation to the likelihood of family reunification As child welfare increasingly enters a world of research based practice Children in Foster Care provides some much needed hard evidence of how foster care policy and practice can be improved Catalog of Selected Documents on the Disadvantaged experiment with various approaches but still confront barriers leading to a general view that there is considerable promise in cross boundary working but that this is often unfulfilled This book explores a variety of topics in order to create a rich survey of the international experience of cross boundary working The book asks fundamental questions such as What do we mean by the notion of crossing boundaries Why has this emerged What does cross boundary working involve What are the critical enablers and barriers By scrutinizing these questions the contributing authors examine the promise the barriers the enablers the enduring tensions and the potential solutions to cross boundary working As such this will be an essential read for all those involved with public administration management and policy Receiving Erin's Children J.
