Mind, Body, Soul and Spirit in Transactional Analysis Gordon Law, 2006 Relationships may be understood as the contact that emerges from observable social roles underpinned by inter personal attitudes Using transactional analysis and other approaches this book presents a series of models based on an analysis of the relationships that are created when contact between people links images and roles to confirm existential life positions Because the models provide a meta level framework for understanding and influencing any sequence of interaction irrespective of setting or TA specialism they give ample scope for practitioners to exercise widely differing preferences techniques and strategies for interacting with clients in ways that encompass a transpersonal or a spiritual view of relationships The Primal Wound John Firman, Ann Gila, 1997-01-01 Argues that a primal wounding of the human spirit occurs in earliest human life that disrupts fundamental relationships and leads to anxiety loneliness and alienation and shows how this wounding can be redeemed through therapy and through living one's life differently

A Field-Centred Approach to Gestalt Therapy Lothar Gutjahr, 2024-05-07 In Gestalt therapy sociological political and economic research is often neglected or ignored Drawing on analyses about current societal conditions this book considers that there is no such thing as a postmodern therapy and offers a new approach to Gestalt therapy Gestalt therapy is still currently based on the Cartesian worldview even if relational approaches are in search for an in between The author's approach of Gestalt therapy is based on an idea by the founders Contact is the first reality so the field coemerges and coexists with individuals' perceptions providing specific conditions demands limitations and opportunities An individual's field is not an afterthought established by the perspective of the first person singular i.e. individuals but a conditio sine qua non Gutjahr reflects on both theoretical and practical aspects of the field's many processes of resonance Putting the field consistently at the centre of his approach the author describes the main tenets expanding on previous versions of Gestalt therapy This important new book is at the cutting edge of the current discussion of relational and field oriented approaches to Gestalt therapy and will be of particular interest to practitioners of Gestalt therapy psychotherapists phenomenologists as well as theorists of philosophy sociology and therapy
