Richardson Ph.D., 2013-07-16 As I think back my life had gone full circle from the Midwest to Germany and back to the Midwest to California In summing up my experiences both in Germany and in the United States I can say that as a youngster I was anti Bolshevik in Germany in my service in the Counterintelligence Corp and I was anti Bolshevik in the United States Throughout it all there was one constant that I can claim to be mine and that was my involvement with youth be it in the Hitler Youth be it in the Jung Volk be it in the schools that I was attending be it with horses and later with dogs and on sailboats I have only met wonderful people If people should turn out to be not so wonderful I would quickly disengage myself from their presence In my teaching I followed the Confucius dictum I will teach one third and hope that those I am teaching will make clear unto themselves the remaining two thirds or I will not teach them again In public education there was no way one could carry that out In the Equestrian field I can say that I had two outstanding students Carol Hancock and Kay Switzer who won the California State Equestrian Championships in different years at the Cow Palace in San Francisco Carol was a walk trot i.e. a gaited rider and Kay Switzer was a Hunter Jumper It was a fantastic experience working with young people I have also told the young people not to worry about people not knowing them but that they should worry about whether or not they are worth knowing Another dictum that I repeated again based on the Chinese scholar is If you have made a mistake and do not set about to correct it you have already made another mistake It is amazing how much kids remember those little quips Two
