Scale Matters Thomas Widlok, M. Dores Cruz, 2022-06-07 Scale matters When conducting research and writing scholars upscale and downscale So do the subjects of their work we scale they scale Although scaling is an integral part of research we rarely reflect on scaling as a practice and what happens when we engage with it in scholarly work The contributors aim to change this they explore the pitfalls and potentials of scaling in an interdisciplinary dialogue The volume brings together scholars from diverse fields working on different geographical areas and time periods to engage with scale conscious questions regarding human sociality culture and evolution With contributions by Nurit Bird David Robert L Kelly Charlotte Damm Andreas Maier Brian Coddling Elspeth Ready Bram Tucker Graeme Warren and others

Designing Human-machine Cooperation Systems Patrick Millot, 2014-07-09 This book on the ergonomics of human machine systems is aimed at engineers specializing in informatics automation production or robotics who are faced with a significant dilemma during the conception of human machine systems On the one hand the human operator guarantees the reliability of the system and has been known to salvage numerous critical situations through an ability to reason in unplanned imprecise and uncertain situations on the other hand the human operator can be unpredictable and create disturbances in the automated system The first part of the book is dedicated to the methods of human centered design from three different points of view the various chapters focusing on models developed by human engineers and functional models to explain human behavior in their environment models of cognitive psychology and models in the domain of automobile driving Part 2 develops the methods of evaluation of the human machine systems looking at the evaluation of the activity of the human operator at work and human error analysis methods Finally Part 3 is dedicated to human machine cooperation where the authors show that a cooperative agent comprises a know how and a so called know how to cooperate and show the way to design and evaluate that cooperation in real industrial contexts
