Finkelstein,Glen A. Jones,2019-05-21 What makes a professor The answer depends on where in the world you are Winner of the CIHE Award for Significant Research on International Higher Education by the Association for the Study of Higher Education In the twenty first century universities worldwide have found themselves thrust into a great brain race as nations both developed and developing seek to enhance their place in the global knowledge economy As the concept of the de localized university one that has radically expanded perhaps even beyond national borders grows competing nations have begun reshaping aspects of their national systems to accommodate global standards and metrics In Professorial Pathways Martin J Finkelstein and Glen A Jones consider how academic careers vary in countries that are fundamentally different in their organization and dynamics Building on 25 years of scholarship the book confronts major questions What can we learn from the experience of other nations as they seek to balance the seemingly contradictory imperatives of expanding access and ensuring global competitiveness What are the implications of this rapidly changing policy environment for the health of the academic professions on which university teaching and scholarship depends And how can we advance the comparative study of higher education and in particular of the academic profession The volume brings together detailed case studies of the latest and ever changing educational developments in ten countries across Europe France Germany United Kingdom Russia Asia China India Japan North America United States Canada and South America Brazil Essays written by respected scholars in the field identify the major structural features of national higher education systems and academic markets that directly shape academic work and careers Professorial Pathways will be of interest to anyone who toils in the vineyards of comparative and international higher education Contributors Elizabeth Balbachevsky Martin J Finkelstein N Jayaram Glen A Jones Barbara M Kehm Dan Mao Christine Musselin Peter Scott Fengqiao Yan Akiyoshi Yonezawa Maria Yudkevich Success in Academic Surgery: Innovation and Entrepreneurship Mark S. Cohen, Lillian Kao, 2019-07-29

This book provides a guide to innovation and entrepreneurship within academic surgery and details how these approaches can develop new technologies and programs that advance healthcare The pathways barriers and opportunities for commercialization and entrepreneurship are identified and discussed in relation to licenses start ups and obtaining funding The book aims to help create a culture of innovation and entrepreneurship across academic medical centres around the world with the belief that this can improve patient care This book is relevant to surgeons of all disciplines as well as medical students and researchers Managing care pathways for patients with complex care needs Magdalena Smeds, 2019-05-15

One of the central challenges for the healthcare system today is how to manage care for patients with complex needs This patient group is not well defined but covers patients with serious diseases and comorbidities or with a limited ability to perform basic daily functions due to physical mental or psychosocial challenges This group has a high service and resource utilisation resulting in high costs for the healthcare system and typically poor health outcomes To improve care for these patients it is necessary to implement strategies to manage the differentiated care needs the additional support needs the uncertainty in care delivery and the coordination needs of the involved providers and the patient Care pathways are increasingly used internationally to make care more patient centred and to structure and design care processes for individual patient groups Important elements in care pathways include structuring care activities by defining their content and sequence coordinating between providers and professionals and involving patients in their care process In this thesis care pathways are proposed as the overall strategy for managing care for patients with complex care needs The purpose of this thesis is thus to contribute with knowledge on how care pathways can be managed for patients with complex care needs This is achieved by analysing how the practices coordination standardisation customisation and personalisation can support management of care pathways and by discussing how these practices influence quality of care The quality of care dimensions discussed are accessible timely equitable and patient centred care The empirical context in this thesis is the Standardised

Cancer Care Pathways CCPs which were implemented in Sweden from 2015 to 2018 CCPs is the umbrella term for the national initiative to shorten waiting times decrease regional differences and reduce fragmentation in care processes CCPs include elements such as diagnosis specific pathways and guidelines introduction of CPP coordinators and mandatory reporting of waiting times Focus has been on implementing care pathways for 31 cancer diagnoses in all Swedish healthcare regions Both qualitative and quantitative research methods have been used A case study was conducted to examine standardised and customised care pathways and coordination and multidisciplinary work in care pathways A document study of regional reports on CCPs was analysed to study effects of care pathways on accessibility timeliness and equitability Finally a national survey was conducted to deepen the understanding of the role of coordination as performed by coordinators in care pathways This thesis argues that standardised and customised care pathways should be combined to manage care for patients with complex care needs The customised pathway in particular benefits patients with serious unspecific symptoms unknown primary tumour or more complex care needs while patients with care needs that can be treated independently of the main diagnosis benefit from following a standardised care pathway Coordinators are an important means to manage coordination customisation and personalisation in the care pathway The coordinators role is twofold the first role is to manage care pathways by customising the care pathway and coordinating involved providers the second role is to support and guide patients through the care pathway This can be achieved by adapting interpersonal communication with patients through personalisation This thesis further argues that care pathways have most potential to positively influence accessibility timeliness equitability and patient centredness Accessibility has been positively influenced especially for patients with ambiguous symptoms where symptoms indicating cancer have improved their chances of accessing cancer diagnostics A negative aspect of prioritising patients who follow CCPs has been the potentially longer waiting times for other patient groups in equal need of urgent care Notwithstanding prioritised access to care is perceived to positively influence timeliness for patients following CCPs Care pathways are perceived to have positively influenced patient centredness by shifting the focus from what to deliver to how to deliver it

Supply Chain Management Dilek Onkal,2011-08-01 Challenges faced by supply chains appear to be growing exponentially under the demands of increasingly complex business environments confronting the decision makers The world we live in now operates under interconnected economies that put extra pressure on supply chains to fulfil ever demanding customer preferences Relative attractiveness of manufacturing as well as consumption locations changes very rapidly which in consequence alters the economies of large scale production Coupled with the recent economic swings supply chains in every country are obliged to survive with substantially squeezed margins In this book we tried to compile a selection of papers focusing on a wide range of problems in the supply chain domain Each chapter offers important insights into understanding these problems as well as approaches to attaining effective solutions Alternative Pathways to the Baccalaureate Nancy Remington, Ronald Remington, 2023-07-03 This book does an excellent job of tracing the history of the movement and where it stands today It discusses the political context when these discussions happen in states and the education implications when institutions take on this additional mission This book may or may not convert those who are concerned about mission creep of community colleges but it sure will give them something to think about Clearly we cannot continue to do business as we have always done and expect to meet the growing demand for college educated citizens This book provides some thoughts on how to create a new model going forward and it deserves serious consideration from the Foreword by Carol D Amico The premise of this book is that in a globalized economy dependent on innovation and knowledge higher education must provide greater more affordable access to the acquisition of higher level skills and knowledge for a greater proportion of the population The purpose of this book is to open up a debate about the status quo Should four year institutions remain the near exclusive conferrers of the baccalaureate Or is there a legitimate role for community colleges who already educate over half the undergraduate population of the United States at lower cost with few barriers to access The contributors examine the capacities of four year colleges to deliver training for technical occupations the ability of community colleges to deliver rigorous high quality courses and issues of access affordability faculty development and responsiveness to changing needs A chapter devoted to student voices provides the critical perspective of this constituency The book concludes by describing examples of implementation across the United States reviewing different models of articulation as well as promising practices that include eliminating the need for transfer altogether Alternative Pathways to the Baccalaureate provides vital information and new research for policymakers community college leaders and scholars of higher education to provoke much needed debate Published in association with the Community College Baccalaureate Association The Death of Rehabilitation, or Lighting New Pathways to an Inclusive Working Life Don

Lavin, 2025-03-17 This book is a clarion call for national state and local transformational change The goal is to substantially increase the employment participation rates of working age youth and adults with disabilities so they can successfully contribute their unique skills and talents The book advances the case that disability policymakers organizational leaders educators people with disabilities family members disability service professionals business leaders and community members must work together to reimagine how future supports will be delivered The chapter content identifies innovative researched practices known to increase competitive employment and social inclusion outcomes of people with complex disabilities in their labor force and communities The Death of Rehabilitation is not about an end to services It is about a rebirth It is about adopting decentralizing and delivering services in new ways where they are needed and in the right measure so people once considered unemployable can live their best lives
