Joseph Sirgy,Don Rahtz,David Swain,2007-07-07 This book is the second in a series covering best practices in community quality of life QOL indicators The first volume is a compilation of cases of best work in community indicators research This volume builds on the goal of the series and includes eleven cases describing communities that have launched their own community indicators programs Elements included are the history of the community indicators work within the target region and the planning of community indicators State of the World's Cities 2012/2013 Un Habitat,2013-10-23 The city is the home of prosperity It is the place where human beings find satisfaction of basic needs and access to essential public goods The city is also where ambitions aspirations and other material and immaterial aspects of life are realized providing contentment and happiness It is a locus at which the prospects of prosperity and individual and collective well being can be increased However when prosperity is restricted to some groups when it is used to pursue specific interests or when it is a justification for financial gains for the few to the detriment of the majority the city becomes the arena where the right to shared prosperity is claimed and fought for As people in the latter part of 2011 gathered in Cairo s Tahrir Square in Madrid s Puerta del Sol in front of London s St Paul s cathedral or in New York s Zuccotti Park they were not only demanding more equality and inclusion they were also expressing the need for prosperity to be shared across all segments of society What this new edition of State of the World s Cities shows is that prosperity for all has been compromised by a narrow focus on economic growth UN Habitat suggests a fresh approach to prosperity beyond the solely economic emphasis including other vital dimensions such as quality of life adequate infrastructures equity and environmental sustainability The Report proposes a new tool the City Prosperity Index together with a conceptual matrix the Wheel of Prosperity both of which are meant to assist decision makers to design clear policy interventions The Report advocates for the need of cities to enhance the public realm expand public goods and consolidate rights to the commons for all as a way to expand prosperity This comes in response to the observed trend of enclosing or restricting these goods and commons in enclaves of prosperity or depleting them through unsustainable use The Report maps out major policy steps to promote a new type of city the city of the twenty first century that is a good people centred city One that is capable of integrating the tangible and more intangible aspects of prosperity and in the process shedding off the inefficient unsustainable forms and functionalities of the city of the previous century By doing this UN Habitat plays a pivotal role in ensuring that urban planning legal regulatory and institutional frameworks become instruments of prosperity and well being

A composite index of quality of life for the Gauteng city-region: a principal component analysis approach

Talita Greyling, The improvement of the quality of life of all South Africans is high on the agenda at national The National Planning Commission 2012 and regional levels of government The Gauteng Planning Commission 2012 and it is therefore important to develop an instrument that can measure this multi dimensional concept The need therefore exists for a composite index of quality of life with the ability to both track the quality of life of people over time and compare it across different demographic and socio economic groups Such a measure could identify those demographic and socio economic groups with low levels of quality of life and also highlight dimensions that need to be prioritised in order to improve the wellbeing of people In South Africa there are a limited number of quality of life indices and measures of wellbeing Indices that measure wellbeing nationally include the Quality of Life Index of Moller and Schlemmer 1983 the Living Standard Measure LSM Index produced by the South African Audience Research Foundation SAARF 2013 the South African Development Index of the South African Institute of Race Relations 2011 and the Everyday Quality of Life Index Higgs 2007 The following indices measure wellbeing at a regional level the Quality of Metropolitan City Life in South Africa Index Naude et al 2009 the Non Economic Quality of Life Index at Sub National Levels Rossouw Naude 2008 and the Quality of Life Index of the Gauteng City Region Observatory GCRO 2011 Although these quality of life indices make distinctive contributions to the study field the focus of these studies is often to measure only objective or subjective quality of life or only economic or non economic quality of life rather than all of the above Furthermore many of the indices use equal weighting which does not necessarily reflect the priorities of the communities

Quality of Life IV Survey (2015/16): City Benchmarking Report Christina Culwick, 2018-09-25 South Africa's post apartheid government has been successful in raising the standard of living for millions of people It has provided them with access to housing and basic services improved health and education and developed social services and urban amenities where none existed before However there remain many thorny development challenges that government is at least at present poorly equipped to address. Consequently there remains deep dissatisfaction among many residents which at various times and in certain contexts has led to widespread community protests. This report stems from the premise that data and analysis thereof are critical for local and provincial governments in Gauteng to understand where progress has been made and where intervention is required. The City Benchmarking Report presents some key findings from the Quality of Life IV 2015/16 survey at the municipal and provincial levels. The results provide insight into a range of objective indicators such as access to basic services, travel patterns and economic activity as well as respondents' subjective opinions, perceptions and levels of satisfaction. This combination allows us to gain a multi-dimensional understanding of quality of life in the province as well as some of the drivers that improve or worsen it. While there are many aspects of quality of life measured by the survey, this report focuses on specific issues related to municipal service access, satisfaction with services received, satisfaction with the municipality providing those services and the relationship between access, satisfaction and overall quality of life. Although this report allows government residents and stakeholders to compare municipalities with one another, its benchmarking analysis should not be read as a competitive scoring of cities which in turn becomes a basis for municipalities to market themselves as having the highest quality of life or to vie with one another over who has the best performance. Some municipalities do better on some variables but worse on others. The point of this report is to help each municipality understand its own strengths and weaknesses in relation to others and to the broader Gauteng context.

Happy City - How to Plan and Create the Best Livable Area for the People Anna Brdulak, Halina Brdulak, 2017-03-04. This book presents multi-sector practical cases based on the author's own research. It also includes the best practice which could serve as a benchmark for the creation of smart cities. The global urbanisation index, i.e. the ratio of city dwellers to the total population, has been steadily increasing in recent years. It is highest in the Americas, followed by Europe, Asia and Africa. The city of the future will combine the intelligent use of IT systems with the potential of institutions, companies and committed creative inhabitants. The administrative boundaries of today's cities put certain constraints on their further growth, but in the future these boundaries will no longer be as relevant. Cities in Europe face the challenge of reconciling sustainable urban development and competitiveness, a challenge that will likely influence issues of urban quality such as the economy, culture, social and environmental conditions, changing a given city's profile as well as urban quality in terms of its composition and characteristics.

Joseph Sirgy, Rhonda Phillips, Don Rahtz, 2009-08-21 Community quality of life QOL indicators continue to gain attention and interest in their use as many communities and regions design and apply them. Evolving from early use as data systems indicators are increasingly being integrated into overall planning and other public policy activities. Their use is found not only in monitoring and evaluation applications but also in the context of increasing citizen participation in guiding communities towards achieving desired goals. Indeed the emphasis in many indicator applications now includes linking actions to outcomes making sure that the indicators are integrated useful and effective in helping communities address QOL issues.
