A Counter-History of Composition Byron Hawk, 2007-11-25 A Counter History of Composition contests the foundational disciplinary assumption that vitalism and contemporary rhetoric represent opposing disconnected poles in the writing tradition Vitalism has been historically linked to expressivism and concurrently dismissed as innate intuitive and unteachable whereas rhetoric is seen as a rational teachable method for producing argumentative texts Counter to this Byron Hawk identifies vitalism as the ground for producing rhetorical texts the product of complex material relations rather than the product of chance Through insightful historical analysis ranging from classical Greek rhetoric to contemporary complexity theory Hawk defines three forms of vitalism oppositional investigative and complex and argues for their application in the environments where students write and think today Hawk proposes that complex vitalism will prove a useful tool in formulating post dialectical pedagogies most notably in the context of emerging digital media He relates two specific examples of applying complex vitalism in the classroom and calls for the reexamination and reinvention of current self limiting pedagogies to incorporate vitalism and complexity theory
