Gazda, Anne E. Haackl, 1991 This is a stimulating book and should be compulsory reading for all students of Roman art Classical Review For all the authors attention to the ensemble a sense of the relation between the formal and the iconographic and the desire to historicize their material contribute to making this anthology unusual in its rigorous and creative attention to the way that art and architecture participate in the construction of the image of the Roman elite Art Bulletin Roman Art in the Private Sphere presents an impressive case for the social and art historical importance of the paintings mosaics and sculptures that filled the private houses of the Roman elite The six essays in this volume range from the first century B C E to the fourth century C E and from the Italian peninsula to the Eastern Empire and North African provinces The essays treat works of art that belonged to every major Roman housing type the single family atrium houses and the insula apartment blocks in Italian cities the dramatically sited villas of the Campanian coast and countryside and the palatial mansions of late antique provincial aristocrats In a complementary fashion the essays consider domestic art in relation to questions of decorum status wealth social privilege and obligation Patrons emerge as actively interested in the character of their surroundings artists appear as responsive to the desire of their patrons The evidence in private art of homosexual conduct in high society is also set forth Originality of subject matter sophisticated appreciation of stylistic and compositional nuance and philosophical perceptions of the relationship of humanity and nature are among the themes that the essays explore Together they demonstrate that Roman domestic art must be viewed on its own terms Elaine K Gazda is Professor of the History of Art and Curator of Hellenistic and Roman Antiquities at the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology University of Michigan Modern Perspectives in Western Art History W. Roman Architecture Janet DeLaine,2024-05-09 Roman Architecture casts new light not only on many familiar monuments of the city of Rome but also on less well known examples from across the Roman empire Rome and its empire were fundamental to the development of western architecture and its forms and motifs remain significant elements of our own built environments Roman Architecture places the varied architecture of ancient Rome from its humble apartment blocks to its grand public structures within the broader context of Roman society It takes as its starting point the writings of the Roman architect Vitruvius as one voice in a broader contemporary debate about the nature and value of architecture What did the Romans themselves think architecture was for What was built by whom and why How was architecture represented in text and image The interplay of type and variation that are the hallmark Roman architecture are here traced back to the human actions and choices from which they originated Janet DeLaine explores how the desires of patrons for novelty and individuality were met by architects and builders working within the practical constraints of available materials and the moral prescriptions of religious and social norms to create new forms Ranging from early Rome to the late empire this volume casts new light on many familiar monuments of the city of Rome but also on less well known examples from across the empire Through an examination of the key types of buildings at the heart of Roman society and their decoration it reveals the symbolic meaning of architecture in terms of competitive power displays and commemoration and it explores how architecture helped to define being Roman at different times and in different places of the empire Looking at Art Peter V.
