

THE ROMANTIC AGE

Britain and America

1760: George II's grandson, George III (one of the longest reigns in English history, 60 years). To reduce the public debt he introduced new duties on corn, paper and tea, which caused fierce opposition in the American colonies → repealed some of them, but the tax on imported tea remained. By the 1770s many colonists had become resentful of British rule.

At the Boston Tea Party in 1773, some rebels threw the British tea into the harbour. 'No taxation without representation': the taxes were unjust.

The Americans divided into:

- Patriots: wanted the independence
- Loyalists: wanted to remain part of Britain

→ 1775: War of Independence (the Americans set up an army under the command of George Washington)

→ 4th July 1776: Declaration of Independence (a statement that claimed that all men had a natural right to 'life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness' and 'the consent of the governed'), by Thomas Jefferson (Congress in Philadelphia, made by 13 colonies)

→ 1781: Battle of Yorktown, the British army was defeated

→ 1783: Treaty of Versailles, Britain recognised the independence

William Pitt the Younger became Prime Minister for 18 years, and he tried to simplify the financial system and reduce the national debt, promoting profitable trade and finance and supporting the philosopher of economic liberalism Adam Smith's theory (division of labour)

→ 1787: The new republic adopted a federal constitution

→ 1789: G. Washington became the first president ('new start' for America)

→ 1791: In Ireland, a group of Catholics and Protestants founded the Society of United Irishmen who aimed at forming their own republic.

→ 1798: they organised an uprising that was crushed by the British troops.

→ 1801: Act of Union, introducing Irish representatives at Westminster (Ireland + Britain = United Kingdom, Union Jack)

The Industrial Revolution

Economic change

18th century: agricultural → industrial nation

The origins of the economic transformation can be traced back to the Black Death and the rise in living standards that followed it.

→ 1500s: the population increased

→ 1600s: agriculture was intensified

- open fields were enclosed
- the soil was drained and made more fertile
- animals were bred selectively
- people began acquiring more goods for the house and for pleasure
