Romantic Love And Sexual Behavior Perspectives From The Social Sciences:

Romantic Love and Sexual Behavior Victor C. de Munck,1998-04-16 Westerners believe that love makes life worth living that sex is a natural desire different in kind from love and that only cynics reduce our love life to a calculation of economic or genetic factors In this volume essays explore these and other assumptions about the relationship between romantic love and sex This represents the first interdisciplinary social science study of love and sex Contributors ask and answer questions such as Is love just sex idealized or is it a transcendent and divine emotion Is love a cultural construct that is shared by members of the same culture or is it a matter of personal taste What keeps promiscuous people from using condoms even when they know they are at risk Are black professional men so rare that their conceptions of love and sex differ from those of white professional men Are brutal sexual fantasies an exclusively male domain and are they always excluded from love fantasies among normal adolescents Is divorce a culturally induced response to evolutionary reproductive strategies that compel individuals to maximize their genetic legacy Are marriages or relationships less satisfying or stable when an actual mate falls short of the fantasy of the ideal mate Is there a universal core to love and sex that is camouflaged by other cultural norms such as modesty and sexual segregation Is rape perceived as more acceptable when the rapist says he was motivated by love What do cult movements and romantic love have in common As they attempt to answer these and other questions the authors extend our understanding of the variety of ways that love and sex are conceptualized connected or separated
