Essays on lone trips, mountain-craft and other hill topics Adam Watson, 2016-05-04. This book begins with a thought-provoking article, now reprinted, criticising the increasing influence of politically correct organisations and politicians who desire to control freewill and mountaineering. Then comes a chapter with a critique of several writers on the Cairngorms in comparison with the original Seton Gordon. After the author published a review in 1977 on the wildlife potential of the Cairngorms region, he came under unwarranted attack by two influential private landowners who misrepresented what he wrote and even included a threat. A wider public should be aware of this. There follows an essay on biologist Professor Vero C Wynne Edwards and another on the history of the research station near Banchory established for studying at first red grouse and then ecological problems of mountain moorland, woodland and fresh water. The last chapter, the most important one and occupying a third of the book, gives the author's lifetime view of the value of lone trips in climbing, ski mountaineering and mountain craft.
