Of Time And The Enterprise North American Family Farm Management:

Of Time and the Enterprise John William Bennett, Seena B. Kohl, Geraldine Binion, Beneath the Bottom Line, 1990

The Transformation of Rural Life Jane H. Adams, 1994 Jane Adams focuses on the transformation of rural life in Union County Illinois as she explores the ways in which American farming has been experienced and understood in the twentieth century Reconstructing the histories of seven farms she places the Human Ecology as Human Behavior John W.

Bennett, 2017-07-05 Human interaction with the natural environment has a dual character By turning increasing quantities of natural substances into physical resources human beings might be said to have freed themselves from the constraints of low technology survival pressures However the process has generated a new dependence on nature in the form of complex socionatural systems as Bennett calls them in which human society and behavior are so interlocked with the management of the environment that small changes in the systems can lead to disaster Bennett's essays cover a wide range from the philosophy of environmentalism to the ecology of economic development from the human impact on semi arid lands to the ecology of Japanese forest management This expanded paperback edition includes a new chapter on the role of anthropology in economic development Bennett's essays exhibit an underlying pessimism if human behavior toward the physical environment is the distinctive cause of environmental abuse then reform of current management practices offers only temporary relief that is conservationism like democracy must be continually reaffirmed Clearly presented and free of jargon Human Ecology as Human Behavior will be of interest to anthropologists economists and environmentalists Troubled Fields Eric Ramirez-Ferrero, 2005-01-19 In Oklahoma in the 1980s and 1990s suicide not accident as previously assumed was the leading cause of agricultural fatalities among farmers Men were five times more likely to die by suicide than by accident What was causing these men but not women to want to kill themselves Ram rez Ferrero suggests that the root causes lie not in purely economic or personal factors but rather in the processes of modernization He shows how cultural and social changes have a dramatic effect on men's identities as providers stewards and community members Using emotions and gender as modes of analysis he locates these men's stories in the wider context of American history agricultural economics and politics capitalism and Christianity Our Common Country Susan Sessions Rugh, 2001 It features a major political conflict at each stage of market expansion the Mormon troubles the Civil War and the Grange protest to highlight the transformations that took place Jacket

The Rural Richard Munton, 2017-05-15 The rural has long been regarded as an important site of geographical inquiry even if our understanding of it has not always been treated as conceptually different from the urban That said rural research has pursued a number of distinct empirical agendas ranging from the operation and impacts of agribusiness to local resistance to global food supply chains to differing representations of the rural In doing so rural geographers have critically examined the relevance and significance of ideas drawn from numerous traditions including political economy ecological modernization and cultural theory amending them as appropriate in their search to understand the nature and trajectory of rural areas Up until the 1980s attention remained largely focused upon agriculture as the primary land use but increasingly new forms of rural consumption housing recreation nature conservation have taken centre stage as the primacy of local agricultures has been undermined by reduced state protection and new rural populations which have migrated out from the city More recently research has been dominated by the cultural turn with particular emphases upon society nature relations interpretations of landscape marginalised others and analyses of the relations between representation and practice In the last decade a more holistic view of the rural bringing together different aspects of the two previous themes has emerged through more politically oriented studies of rural governance concerned with the functioning of interest groups participation protest and the allocation and management of resources The volume is thus structured into three sections concerned with agriculture and food the rural and rural governance The great majority of the selected papers combine both empirical material often highly informative case studies and important conceptual arguments about change in the rural condition that can be linked to ideas being employed elsewhere in Geography and the Social Sciences more generally These critical reflections have been drawn very largely from research conducted in advanced economies which at least provide some commonality of experience allowing the transfer of ideas between what otherwise might be seen as very differing geographical contexts

New Directions for Agriculture and Agricultural Research Kenneth A. Dahlberg, 1986

Ethical and value issues The global setting resource environmental and socio economic trends The national setting past and present goals and priorities Assessing neglected dimensions Evaluative concepts in agricultural research Emerging alternatives and their implications Where do we go from here

Agriculture: People and Policies Graham Cox, Philip Lowe, Michael Winter, 2019-08-06

The structure and future of Britain's agriculture sector are the central concerns of this volume first published in 1986 It critically examines the mystique surrounding agriculture which has done much to underpin the special support the industry had enjoyed The papers collected here address many of the key questions What is distinctive about the social and economic organisation of agricultural production What are the main factors which have influenced policy formation And how are the policy makers likely to respond to widespread concern about the economic and environmental impact of those policies

Red Earth Bonnie Lynn-Sherow, 2004

Before the great Land Rush of 1889 Oklahoma territory was an island of wildness home to one of the last tracts of biologically diverse prairie In the space of a quarter century the territory had given over to fenced farmsteads with even the racial diversity of its recent past simplified In this book Bonnie Lynn Sherow describes how a thriving ecology was reduced by market agriculture Examining three central Oklahoma counties with distinct populations Kiowas white settlers and black settlers she analyzes the effects of racism economics and politics on prairie landscapes while addressing the broader issues of settlement and agriculture on the environment Drawing on a host of sources oral histories letters and journals and agricultural and census records Lynn Sherow examines Oklahoma history from the Land Rush to statehood to show how each community viewed its land as a resource what its members planted how they cooperated and whether they succeeded Anglo settlers claimed the choice parcels introduced mechanized farming and planted corn and wheat blacks tended to grow cotton on lands unsuited for its cultivation and Kiowas strove to become pastoralists Lynn Sherow shows that as each group vied for control over its environment its members imposed their own cultural views on the uses of nature and on the legitimacy of the other in their own relationship with the red earth Lynn Sherow further reveals that racism both institutionalized and personal was a significant factor in determining how where by whom and to what ends land was used in Oklahoma She particularly assesses the impact of USDA policy on land use and by extension environmental and social change As agricultural agents railroads and local banks encouraged white settlers to plant row crops and convert to market farms they also discriminated against Indians and blacks And as white settlers prospered they in turn altered the relationship of Indians and African Americans with the land The transformation of Oklahoma Territory was a protracted power struggle with one people's relationship to the land rising to prominence while banishing the others from history Red Earth provides a perceptive look at how Oklahoma quickly became homogenized mirroring events throughout the West to show how culture itself can be a major agent of ecological change

Local Food Systems in Old Industrial Regions Jay D. Gatrell, Paula S. Ross, 2016-05-06 In recent years there has been an explosion of interest in local food systems among policy makers planners and public health professionals as well as environmentalists community developers academics farmers and ordinary citizens While most local food systems share common characteristics the chapters in this book explore the unique challenges and opportunities of local food systems located within mature and or declining industrial regions Local food systems have the potential to provide residents with a supply of safe and nutritious food such systems also have the potential to create much needed employment opportunities However challenges are numerous and include developing local markets of a sufficient scale adequately matching supply and demand and meeting the environmental challenges of finding safe growing locations Interrogating the scale scope and economic context of local food systems in aging industrialized cities this book provides a foundation for the development of new sub fields in economic urban and agricultural geographies that focus on local food systems The book represents a first attempt to provide a systematic picture of the opportunities and challenges facing the development of local food systems in old industrial regions

American Medicine As Culture Howard F. Stein, 2019-03-01 This book situates biomedicine within American culture and argues that the very organization and practice of medicine are themselves cultural It demonstrates the symbolic construction of clinical reality within American biomedicine and shows how biomedicine never leaves the realm of the personal

Caring for Place E N Anderson, 2016-07 Marshalling decades of research on cultures across several continents E N Anderson a leading writer and scholar in human ecology and anthropology shows how practicing environmental sustainability depends primarily on social and emotional engagements

Development in Place José C. M. van Santen, 2008 In humanity's struggle to find timely solutions to environmental problems it is easily forgotten that access to our shared spaces has never been equal This collection deals with the landscapes and places of rural urban and wilderness areas in relation development Contributions examine the complex relationship that human beings maintain with their rural and urban environments and with other species in various places and spaces Nothing is taken for granted colonial history globalization localization hybrid relationships colonial or shared architecture religious backgrounds and claims to equal access all fuse with policy strategies This volume discusses these issues within the framework of developmental discourse while asserting the rights of access to the global commons for all world citizens as well as other species

Networking the Farm Randy Ziegenhorn, 2018-12-20 Published in 1999 this book presents the results of an ethnographic study of the emergence of co operative production networks among hog farm workers in Iowa In it the author assesses both the internal organizational requirements for the successful network formation and the potential for networks to give farmers a competitive edge in the swine industry Departing from the traditional emphasis on individual decision making in agricultural economies and economic anthropology this book emphasizes instead the institutional setting in which such networks are formed The author argues that networks succeed when they are closely tied to and reflective of local social structure Those networks that attempt to employ a master plan designed by experts often fail Although many successful networks exist networking has yet to achieve the economic clout enjoyed by large scale corporate swine producers The author describes the availability of credit for new swine production ventures in Iowa and shows the extent to which large scale producers have developed network like connections with banks packers and contract producers

Entrepreneurship

Thierry Burger-Helmchen, 2012-03-14 Entrepreneurship is a main driver of economic growth and of social dynamics However some basic characteristics like the gender of the entrepreneur the geographical location or the social context may have a tremendous impact on the possibility to become an entrepreneur to create a firm and to prosper This book is a collection of papers written by an array of international authors interested in the question of entrepreneurship from a gender point of view male vs female entrepreneurship a geographical point of view Africa Europe America and Latin America Asia or a specific social context point of view agricultural economy farming or family business etc

Re-Thinking Organic Food and Farming in a Changing World Bernhard Freyer, Jim Bingen, 2014-10-17 This book is based on the assumption that organic has lost its way Paradoxically it comes at a time when we witness the continuing of growth in organic food production and markets around the world Yet the book claims that organic has lost sight of its first or fundamental philosophical principles and ontological assumptions The collection offers empirically grounded discussions that address the principles and fundamental assumptions of organic farming and marketing practices The book draws attention to the core principles of organic and offers different clearly articulated and well defined conceptual frameworks that offer new insights into organic practices Divided into five parts the book presents new perspectives on enduring issues examines standards and certification gives insights into much discussed and additional market and consumer issues and reviews the interplay of organic and conventional farming The book concludes with a framework for rethinking ethics in the organic movement and reflections on the positioning of organic ethics Folklife Annual ,1985 Farm Families and Change in 20th-Century America

Mark Friedberger,2021-10-21 The farm family is a unique institution perhaps the last remnant in an increasingly complex world of a simpler social order in which economic and domestic activities were inextricably bound together In the past few years however American agriculture has suffered huge losses and family farmers have seen their way of life threatened by economic forces beyond their control At a time when agriculture is at a crossroads this study provides a needed historical perspective on the problems family farmers have faced since the turn of the century For analysis Mark Friedberger has chosen two areas where agriculture retains major importance in the local economy Iowa and California s Central Valley Within these two geographic areas he examines farm families with regard to their farming methods land tenure inheritance practices use of credit and community relations These aspects are then compared to assess change in rural society and to discern trends in the future of family farming Despite the shocks endured by family farmers at various times in this century Friedberger finds that some families have remained remarkably resilient These families evinced a strong commitment to their way of life They sought to own their land they maintained inheritance from one generation to the next they were generally conservative in using credit and they preferred to diversify their enterprises These practices served them well in good times and in bad Innovative in its use of a combination of documentary sources quantitative methods and direct observation this study makes an important contribution to the history of American agriculture and of American society

Women And Farming Wava G Haney,2021-11-28 Originally published in 1988 as part of the Rural Studies Series of the Rural Sociological Society this is a collection of papers from the Second National Conference on American Farm Women in Historical Perspective held in Madison Wisconsin on October 16 18 1986 Includes the subjects of the impact of social and economic change on farm women perspectives on the work of ethnic minorities and the Native American experience
