Offender Needs Assessment:

Handbook of Recidivism Risk / Needs Assessment Tools Jay P. Singh, Daryl G. Kroner, J. Stephen Wormith, Sarah L. Desmarais, Zachary Hamilton, 2017-11-27 Provides comprehensive coverage on recidivism risk needs assessment tools. Correctional and healthcare professionals around the world utilize structured instruments referred to as risk needs assessment tools to predict the likelihood that an offender will recidivate. Such tools have been found to provide accurate and reliable evaluations and are widely used to assess, manage and monitor offenders both institutionally as well as in the community. By identifying offenders in need of different levels of intervention, examining causal risk factors and individualizing case management plans, risk needs assessment tools have proven invaluable in addressing the public health issue of recidivism. Recidivism Risk Needs Assessment Tools brings together the developers of the most commonly used risk needs assessment tools to provide a comprehensive overview of their development, peer-reviewed research literature and practical application. Written by the leading professionals in the field of risk needs assessment, the book provides chapters on: Recidivism Risk Assessment in the 21st Century; Performance of Recidivism Risk Assessment Instruments in Correctional Settings; Correctional Offender Management Profiles for Alternative Sanctions (COMPAS); the Federal Post Conviction Risk Assessment Instrument; the Inventory of Offender Risks, Needs and Strengths (IORS); the Level of Service Inventory-Revised (LSI-R); the Ohio Risk Assessment System (ORAS); the Self Appraisal Questionnaire (SAQ); the Service Planning Instrument (SPI); the Static Risk Offender Needs Guide (Revised); the STRONG R Offender Group Reconviction Scale (OGRS); the Forensic Operationalized Therapy Risk Evaluation System (FOTRES); the Risk-Need Assessment (RISCAN) and more. Systematically identifies currently validated recidivism risk needs assessment tools. Reviews research on recidivism risk needs assessment tools used internationally. Each chapter presents sufficient detail to decide whether a given recidivism risk needs assessment tool is right for your practice. Recidivism Risk Needs Assessment Tools is ideal for correctional, probation and parole and behavioral health professionals.

Offender Needs Assessment Carl B. Clements, John M. McKee, Susan E. Jones, National Institute of Corrections (U.S.), 1984

Handbook on Risk and Need Assessment Faye Taxman, 2016-11-10 The Handbook on Risk and Need Assessment: Theory and Practice covers risk assessments for individuals being considered for parole or probation. Evidence-based approaches to such decisions help take the emotion and politics out of community corrections. As the United States begins to back away from ineffective, expensive policies of mass incarceration, this handbook will provide the resources needed to help ensure both public safety and the effective rehabilitation of offenders. The ASC Division on Corrections Sentencing Handbook Series will publish volumes on topics ranging from violence risk assessment to specialty courts for drug users, veterans or the mentally ill. Each thematic volume focuses on a single topical issue that intersects with corrections and sentencing research.

Encyclopedia of Community Corrections Shannon M. Barton-Bellessa, 2012-04-17 In response to recognition in the late 1960s and early 1970s that traditional incarceration was not working alternatives to standard prison settings were sought and developed One of those alternatives community based corrections had been conceived in the 1950s as a system that might prove more progressive humane and effective particularly with people who had committed less serious criminal offenses and for whom incarceration with constant exposure to serious offenders and career criminals might prove more damaging than rehabilitative The alternative of community corrections has evolved to become a substantial part of the criminal justice and correctional system spurred in recent years not so much by a progressive humane philosophy as by dramatically increasing prison populations court orders to fix overextended prison settings and an economic search for cost savings Although community correction programs have been in place for some 40 years now to date no comprehensive reference resource has tackled this topic Accessible and jargon free and available in both print and electronic formats the one volume Encyclopedia of Community Corrections will explore all aspects of community corrections from its philosophical foundation to its current inception Features Benefits 150 signed entries each with Cross References and Further Readings are organized in A to Z fashion to give students easy access to the full range of topics in community corrections A thematic Reader s Guide in the front matter groups entries by broad topical or thematic areas to make it easy for users to find related entries at a glance In the electronic version the Reader s Guide combines with a detailed Index and the Cross References to provide users with convenient search and browse capacities A Chronology in the back matter helps students put individual events into broader historical context A Glossary provides students with concise definitions to key terms in the field A Resource Guide to classic books journals and web sites along with the Further Readings accompanying each entry guides students to further resources in their research journeys An Appendix offers statistics from the Bureau of Justice

Offender Risk and Needs Assessment Construction, Validation and Application Xiaohan Mei, 2018 The days considered Nothing Works in corrections are over Today we have entered a new age of Evidence based Practices EBP focusing on using scientifically validated policies strategies and tools to inform decision making The Risk Needs Responsivity RNR Model Principles emerged as one of the most effective rehabilitation models It has driven recent correctional reforms across the United States The RNR model has enabled correctional agencies to shift the focus from punishment to identifying the most risky individuals and matching offenders with the appropriate interventions and intensity level to promote positive offender changes reduce recidivism and enhance public safety The RNR model is the methodologically improved Risk and Needs Assessment RNA Tools To date there is sufficient empirical evidence to support the overall performance of the RNA tools to predict offenders future offending However the utility of the RNA tools have not been fully appreciated and there are some issues left unresolved One of the issues is that the construct validation did not keep up with predictive validation studies As a result the construct validity for most of the contemporary RNA tools has not been fully established The lack of construct validity severely limits the ability of the RNAs to accurately and reliably assess offenders criminogenic risk and needs factors This in turn limits correctional agencies ability to select the appropriate interventional strategies for mitigating offenders underlying criminal problems Therefore with the intention to optimize the effectiveness of correctional intervention and inform resource allocation this dissertation attempts to establish the construct validity of a fourth generation of RNA tools namely the Static Risk Offender Needs Guide Revised STRONG R By following the well regarded assessment protocol and using industry accepted analytical strategies I have put the construct validity of the STRONG R into rigorous empirical tests with a large sample of offenders under the supervision of the Washington State Department of Corrections WADOC As found the retained items identified an offender Global Risk Needs Factor that could be explained and assessed by five criminal metrics Finally the implications of the findings of the current research for scholarship and correctional practices are discussed
