Official Financing For Developing Countries World Economic And Financial Surveys:

Official Financing for Developing Countries International Monetary Fund, 2001-08-02 This paper reports an updated assessment of movements in official financing for developing countries during 1997-1999. The composition of official financing flows changed too as a result of the Asian crisis. Member states of the Development Assistance Committee (DAC) increased official development financing from 73 billion in 1996 to 85 billion in 1999. At the same time, however, new commitments by export credit agencies, a resource not included in the DAC figures, declined during this period, reflecting a slowing down in large scale projects as governments affected by the Asian financial crisis suspended or postponed a number of public sector projects. The debt relief and its orientation toward poverty reduction is an important contribution to international efforts to help raise the living standards of the poorest in the world. Its success, however, will crucially depend on the willingness of donor countries to increase resources for development aid and link them to the recipient countries' poverty reduction strategies.

1994 World Economic & Financial Surveys; Official Financing for Dev. Countries

Official Financing for Developing Countries, 1994-01-01 This paper focuses mainly on official bilateral and multilateral financing for countries that have rescheduled their debts to official bilateral creditors. In contrast to the approaches taken by private lenders, official creditors have continued to provide new financing on a large scale to countries with debt servicing difficulties that implement adjustment and reform programs. Financial support has been provided through a wide variety of instruments and channels. For the low income rescheduling countries as a group, total financial assistance has been about as large as these countries' own export earnings in every year since 1986. The recent trends in official financing have important ramifications for developing countries. Access to external financing from official sources is likely to remain high for those countries whose adjustment and reform efforts provide assurances that resources will be used efficiently. Conversely, countries with uneven records of policy implementation, particularly as regards payments arrears, are likely to find difficulty in attracting financial support.

Private Market Financing for Developing Countries International Monetary Fund, 1995-09-01 This study surveys recent trends in private market financing for developing countries. In addition to examining developments in flows to developing countries through banking and securities markets, it analyzes the institutional and regulatory framework for developing country finance, institutional investor behavior, and pricing of developing country stocks, management of public sector debt, and implications of private external borrowing for macroeconomic policy management and progress in commercial bank debt restructuring in low income countries.

Official Financing International Monetary Fund,2004-03-05 This study provides information on official financing and the debt situation of developing countries It discusses issues related to trade finance in financial crises and the challenge of maintaining external debt sustainability in debtor countries It updates the 2001 edition of Official Financing for Developing Countries Official Financing for Developing Countries M. Cortes, 1993 World Economic and Financial Surveys International Monetary Fund,1993-01-01 This paper discusses systematic issues in international finance explained in the International Capital Markets report The paper describes that the nature and extent of recent banking problems in several industrial countries along with the policy responses to those problems It is observed that balance sheet problems in banking are widespread among the major industrial countries The paper also analyses recent activity in the European currency unit bond and exchange markets and reviews developments in the private financing of developing countries and discusses several issues raised by the recent experience including the broadening of the investor base for developing country securities the special role played by regional financial centers in East and Southeast Asia and the systemic implications of the evolving pattern of developing country financing A key influence on international capital movements in recent years was the rising international diversification of investment portfolios which is generally believed to have increased in response to the liberalization of exchange and capital controls in many industrial countries in the 1970s and 1980s

Regional Economic Outlook, October 2005: Sub-Saharan Africa - Supplement International Monetary Fund. African Dept.,2005-09-23 The five Regional Economic Outlooks published biannually by the IMF cover Asia and Pacific Europe the Middle East and Central Asia Sub Saharan Africa and the Western Hemisphere In each volume recent economic developments and prospects for the region are discussed as a whole as well as for specific countries The reports include key data for countries in the region Each report focuses on policy developments that have affected economic performance in the region and discusses key challenges faced by policymakers The near term outlook key risks and their related policy challenges are analyzed throughout the reports and current issues are explored such as when and how to withdraw public interventions in financial systems globally while maintaining a still fragile economic recovery These indispensable surveys are the product of comprehensive intradepartmental reviews of economic developments that draw primarily on information the IMF staff gathers through consultation with member countries

Officially Supported Export Credits in a Changing World Mr.Mario

Mansilla,Mr.Yo Kikuchi,Mr.Sidhartha Choudhury,Mr.Jian-Ye Wang,2005-07-01 This paper assesses the issues of government involvement in international trade finance stemming from the recent changes in global financial markets This study is based on discussions with representatives of export credit agencies during the period from October 2003 to May 2004 A survey of 27 agencies provided valuable insights Financial flows facilitated by official export credit agencies are large in comparison with official development assistance and gross lending by international financial institutions to developing countries However the importance of officially supported trade finance has been declining relative to the rapid expansion of world trade and total capital flows to developing countries The study highlights the key challenges facing official export credit agencies including complementing the private sector facilitating financing to low income countries while helping maintain these countries debt sustainability and playing a positive role in the area of trade finance in international efforts to address emerging market financial crises

The Handbook of Global Companies John Mikler,2013-03-25 The Handbook of Global Companies brings together original research addressing the latest theories and empirical analysis surrounding the role of global companies in local national and international governance Offers new insights into the role of global companies in relation to policy and governance at local national and international levels Brings together newly commissioned research by a global team of established and up and coming scholars from the fields of international relations political science public policy and beyond Considers the environmental and societal responsibilities of global corporations Covers topics including the spatial locations of global companies debate about the power they wield and their role as catalysts in new forms of governance and the ways in which global companies share authority with the state and international organizations to drive policy processes Speculates on the broader potential and limitations of global governance Annual Report of the Executive Directors for the Fiscal Year International Monetary Fund,1993

Private Market Financing International Monetary Fund,1995-01-01 This paper reports the growing number of low income countries that are making efforts to resolve their debt problems often aided by the resources of the debt reduction facility for countries of the International Development Association IDA Progress for most however remains slow With the backing of IDA resources and assistance from official bilateral sources debt buy backs have been concluded by Bolivia Guyana Mozambique Niger Sao Tome and Principe Uganda and Zambia Preliminary discussions on similar operations are under way with several other countries Although most of the major baric debt cases have been resolved attention still needs to be focused on the problems of low income countries In many of these countries the process of debt restructuring has been delayed owing to economic and political difficulties To maintain market access on reasonable terms countries need consistently to implement strong macroeconomic and structural policy programs Maintenance of such programs is likely to be particularly important in the period ahead given the high degree of uncertainty with regard to interest rate movements in the industrial countries International Trade Policies

paper analyzes the achievements of the Uruguay Round and issues with the post Uruguay Round agenda The paper highlights that the conclusion of the Uruguay Round is a major achievement in international trade relations and a crucial element in promoting world trade and growth in the medium term It arrested the deterioration in the trading environment and created a strengthened framework for future trade relations thereby boosting business and investment confidence It also provides positive outcomes in several areas including market liberalization and strengthening of rules and institutional structures

International Capital Markets International Monetary Fund, 1996-09-17 Provides a comprehensive survey of recent developments in international financial markets including developments in emerging capital markets bond markets major currency markets and derivative markets The report focuses on efforts by the major industrial countries to strengthen the management of financial risk and prudential oversight over the international banking system It also critically evaluates existing mechanisms for international cooperation of financial supervision and regulation and proposes the development of international banking standards

Estimating Egypt's Equilibrium Real Exchange Rate Mr. Joannes Mongardini, 1998-01-01 In light of the real appreciation of the Egyptian pound over the last six years and Egypt's lackluster export growth questions of external competitiveness and exchange rate policy have arisen This paper sheds light on these issues by estimating empirically Egypt's equilibrium real exchange rate that is the rate that is consistent with fundamentals The results show that while the real exchange rate was substantially overvalued before 1993 today it is only moderately above the equilibrium rate Moreover the analysis shows that the recent appreciation of the pound does not indicate a worsening misalignment

A Review of the Fund's External Communications Strategy International Monetary Fund. External Relations Dept., 2003-02-13 This paper reviews implementation of the Fund's external communications strategy and suggests issues that the Board may wish to discuss at its third meeting since 1998 on the subject The strategy has been shaped by the previous Board discussions and more recent decisions and discussions on transparency conditionality PRSP PRGF the Independent Evaluation Office and other issues This paper represents more of a stocktaking than a fundamental reconsideration of the Fund's approach to external communications It examines the progress made in recent years and steps that might be taken with current resources to increase the effectiveness of the strategy

Research Activities of the IMF, January 1991-December 1999 International Monetary Fund, 2000-01-01 Research activity in the IMF emphasizes the links between the organization's policy and operational concerns The main objectives of research is IMF staff understanding of policy and operational issues relevant to the institution and to improve the analytical quality of the work prepared for management and the Executive Board and the advice provided to member countries The scope of research in the IMF is defined by the purposes and functions of the institution In order to foster innovation and ensure quality control the IMF makes much of its research available outside the institution and encourages staff to interact with academia and other research organizations through conferences seminars and occasional joint research projects The visiting scholar's program has also enhanced the quality of research done in the IMF This program brings in leading members of the economics profession from around the world to assist in the preparation of papers for the Executive Board and to conduct research on IMF related issues

Recent Export Credit Market Developments International Monetary Fund, 1997-03-01 Export credit agencies ECAs have played a critical role in financing for developing countries in recent years and officially supported export credits have been growing in volume The current export credit exposure to developing countries and economies in transition has reached almost half a trillion dollars This paper reviews developments in export credit markets affecting exposure new commitments and cover policy for developing countries and economies in transition and discusses three key issues affecting export credit markets a more widespread involvement of ECAs in project financing transactions a strong presence of ECAs in the market for investment insurance and a deepening of the forfeiting market
