Alternate Reality Games Stephanie Janes, 2019-08-06 Using textual analysis interviews with game designers audience surveys and close analysis of player forum discussion this book examines the unique nature of the producer consumer relationship within promotional Alternate Reality Games ARGs Historically ARGs are rooted in advertising as much as they are in narrative storytelling As designers often have to respond to player actions as the game progresses players can have an impact on the storyline on character behaviour and potentially on the final resolution of the narrative This book explores how both media consumers and producers are responding to this new reconfiguration of the producer consumer prosumer dynamic in order to better understand the diverse advertising experiences available to media audiences today With a focus on participatory culture and the political economy of promotional communications this in depth analysis of ARGs will appeal to academics and researchers in the fields of games film advertising and media and cultural studies Encyclopedia of Video Games Mark J. P. Wolf, 2012-08-16 This encyclopedia collects and organizes theoretical and historical content on the topic of video games covering the people systems technologies and theoretical concepts as well as the games themselves This two volume encyclopedia addresses the key people companies regions games systems institutions technologies and theoretical concepts in the world of video games serving as a unique resource for students The work comprises over 300 entries from 97 contributors including Ralph Baer and Nolan Bushnell founders of the video game industry and some of its earliest games and systems Contributing authors also include founders of institutions academics with doctoral degrees in relevant fields and experts in the field of video games Organized alphabetically by topic and cross referenced across subject areas Encyclopedia of Video Games The Culture Technology and Art of Gaming will serve the needs of students and other researchers as well as provide fascinating information for game enthusiasts and general readers Television, Aesthetics and Reality Anthony Barker, 2009-03-26 This new collection of essays seeks to focus on three areas where television has recently been in an intriguing state of flux Taking as our background the emergence of multimedia conglomerates and cash rich cable channels we look at the way old national terrestrial channels and the brash new internationally commercialized ones have innovated in the domain of television programming In all there are fourteen original essays an introduction to the book's theme by the editor and a foreword by Professor Annette Hill Section one Realizing the Real looks at contemporary patterns of television consumption and the presentational styles which package the real in news current affairs and other live television formats Essays on rhetorical strategies in the news coverage of the war in Iraq on national and international inflections of Sky News in Europe and coverage of the recent EURO2004 football tournament as well the multi channel reporting of a prominent paedophilia scandal are presented in this section They all analyse the extent to which the grounded and the local are threatened and distorted by hegemonic forces in media today The findings of a comprehensive new study of Portuguese social practices and viewing habits are also featured in this section Section Two Realizing Performance addresses the way new trends in reality programming and other documentary practices have impacted on fiction and entertainment television There are essays on the recent wave of British television comedy heavily influenced by TV newsmagazine and fly on the wall documentary styles and two pieces on new American series 24 and CSI which have revolutionized the narrative parameters and evidential base for thrillers and cop shows respectively coming up with new ways to perform space time and science Finally there is an essay on Nigel Kneale's The Year of the Sex Olympics 1968 a survivor from the era of the single play who seems to anticipate the future of television in reality based gameshow style entertainment Each of these essays shows that the success of these programmes is dependent on a fresh restylization of the conventions and formulas which govern mainstream television programming They therefore see the representation of the real in fiction as primarily an aesthetic reappraisal

Section Three Performing the Real looks at the explosion in reality television programming itself It focuses on the coming to pass of 70s and 80s theorists' visions of both a passive voyeuristic society and one increasingly at peace with the notion of surveillance We have been progressively acculturated to watching and being watched Orwellian anxiety has given way to Baudrillardian acceptance of the message and the medium fused in a new order of mediated reality or hyperreality Essays refer specifically to the globalization of shows and formats and their local inflections and to coverage of reality shows in print media and on the net There are essays on The Bachelor and gender stereotyping Joe Millionaire and the conventions of melodrama and two on Big Brother one on the problems of communication within a sealed environment and another on its reception in Portugal Concerns about the self and its authenticity are consistency raised in all the essays of this section
