Recent Dynamics Of Mediterranean Vegetation And Landscape:

Recent Dynamics of the Mediterranean Vegetation and Landscape Stefano Mazzoleni, Gaetano di Pasquale, Mark Mulligan, Paolo di Martino, Francisco Rego, 2004-10-22 The Mediterranean region has been shaped by human activity and maintained by traditional practices of land use for centuries This has affected the distribution of plants and the landscape which can be considered as part of the European cultural landscape This book details the rapid changes that have taken place in the vegetation of the Mediterranean in the last half century a period in which major socio economic development greatly affected the cultural and physical landscape

Mediterranean Mountain Environments Ioannis Vogiatzakis, 2012-09-04 Mediterranean mountains exhibit many similarities in their biotic ecological physical and environmental characteristics There are also many differences in terms of their human colonization pattern historic land uses and current anthropogenic pressures This book provides an introduction to these environments of mountainous areas in the Mediterranean and their changes in time and space in relation to both natural and cultural factors Mediterranean Mountain Environments places its emphasis on physical geography while adopting an integrated approach to the whole subject area The book draws examples from a wide range of environments demonstrating the interaction between human and physical processes responsible for shaping mountain areas Risks and conflicts as well as methods and tools for the conservation and management of both the natural and cultural environment are covered in the light of future challenges for the sustainable development of the Mediterranean mountains Emphasis on both mainland and island mountain ranges Combines natural and cultural approach in the topic Integrated approach facing future challenges based on the study and understanding of the historical processes that have shaped the Mediterranean mountains Key references at the end of each chapter

Recent Advances in Remote Sensing and Geoinformation Processing for Land Degradation Assessment Achim Roeder, Joachim Hill, 2009-04-23 Land degradation and desertification are amongst the most severe threats to human welfare and the environment as they affect the livelihoods of some 2 billion people in the worlds drylands and they are directly connected to pressing global environmental problems such as the loss of biological diversity or global climate change Strategies to co

Mediterranean Island Landscapes Ioannis N. Vogiatzakis, Gloria Pungetti, A.M. Mannion, 2008-02-26 Mediterranean islands exhibit many similarities in their biotic ecological physical and environmental characteristics There are also many differences in terms of their human colonization and current anthropogenic pressures This book addresses in three sections these characteristics and examines the major environmental changes that the islands experienced during the Quaternary period The first section provides details on natural and cultural factors which have shaped island landscapes It describes the environmental and cultural changes of the Holocene and their effects on biota as well as on the current human pressures that are now threats to the sustainability of the island communities The second section focuses on the landscapes of the largest islands namely Sicily Sardinia Corsica Cyprus Crete Malta and the Balearics Each island chapter includes a special topic reflecting a particular characteristic of the island Part three presents strategies for action towards sustainability in Mediterranean islands and concludes with a comparison between the largest islands Despite several published books on Mediterranean ecosystems landscapes there is no existing book dealing with Mediterranean islands in a collective manner Students researchers and university lecturers in environmental science geography biology and ecology will find this work invaluable as a cross disciplinary text while planners and politicians will welcome the succinct summaries as background material to planning decisions

The Archaeology of Mediterranean Landscapes Kevin Walsh, 2014 Reviews the palaeoenvironmental evidence and its incorporation with landscape archaeology across the Mediterranean from the Early Neolithic to the end of the Roman period

Landscapes in the Eastern Mediterranean between the Future and the Past Ioannis N. Vogiatzakis, Theano S. Terkenli, Maria Gabriella Trovato, Nizar Abu-Jaber, 2020-05-15 Landscapes have long been viewed as multifunctional integrating ecological economic sociocultural historical and aesthetic dimensions Landscape science and public awareness in Europe have been progressing in leaps and bounds The challenges involved in landscape related issues and fields however are multiple and refer to landscape stewardship and protection as well as to the development of comprehensive theoretical and methodological approaches in tandem with public sensitization and participatory governance and in coordination with appropriate top down planning and policy instruments Landscape scale approaches are fundamental to the understanding of past and present cultural evolution and are now considered to be an appropriate spatial framework for the analysis of sustainability Methods and tools of landscape analysis and intervention have also gone a long way since their early development in Europe and the United States Although significant progress has been made there remain many issues which are understudied or not investigated at all at least in a Mediterranean context This Special Issue addresses the application of landscape theory and practice in the Eastern Mediterranean and mainly but not exclusively reports on the outcomes of an international conference held in Jordan in December 2015 with the title Landscapes of Eastern Mediterranean Challenges Opportunities Prospects and Accomplishments The focus of this Special Issue landscapes of the Eastern Mediterranean region thus constitutes a timely area of research interest not only because these landscapes have so far been understudied but also as a rich site of strikingly variegated long standing multicultural human environmental interactions These interactions resting on and taking shape through millennia of continuity in tradition have been striving to adapt to technological advances while currently juggling with manifold and multilayered socioeconomic and climate environmental crises

Plant Evolution in the Mediterranean John D. Thompson, 2020 Plant evolution in the Mediterranean is an account of plant evolutionary ecology The central theme is differentiation both among and within species in the flora of the Mediterranean basin Provided by publisher

The Physical Geography of the Mediterranean Jamie C. Woodward, 2009-05-07 This volume explores the climates landscapes ecosystems and hazards that comprise the Mediterranean world It traces the development of the Mediterranean landscape over very long timescales and examines modern processes and key environmental issues in a wide range of settings The Mediterranean is the only region on Earth where three continents meet and this interaction has produced a very distinctive Physical Geography This book examines the landscapes and processes at the margins of these continents and the distinctive marine environment between them Catastrophic earthquakes explosive volcanic eruptions and devastating storms and floods are intimately bound up within the history and mythology of the Mediterranean world This is a key region for the study of natural hazards because it offers unrivalled access to long records of hazard occurrence and impact through documentary archaeological and geological archives The Mediterranean is also a biodiversity hotspot it has been a meeting place for plants animals and humans from three continents throughout much of its history The Quaternary records of these interactions are more varied and better preserved than in any other part of the world These records have provided important new insights into the tempo of climate landscape and ecosystem change in the Mediterranean region and beyond The region is unique because of the very early and widespread impact of humans in landscape and ecosystem change and the richness of the archaeological and geological archives that chronicle this impact This book examines this history and these interactions and places current environmental issues in long term context Contributors Ramadan Husain Abu Zied Harriet Allen Jacques Blondel Maria Carmen Llasat James Casford Marc Castellnou Andrew Goudie Andrew Harding Angela Hayes Tom Holt Babette Hoogakker Philip Hughes Jos Lelieveld John Lewin Francisco Lloret Francisco Lopez Bermudez Mark Macklin Jean Margat Anne Mather Francis M. Starrs, Mario Diaz, Richard B. Standiford, Gregorio Montero, 2013-06-18 The oak tree was a boon companion as humans expanded their presence across much of the globe While oak woodlands Quercus spp come today in stunningly diverse forms the stately dehesas of Spain and the dramatic oak dominated ranchlands of California are working landscapes where cultivation and manipulation for a couple of millennia have shaped Mediterranean type ecosystems into a profoundly modified yet productive environment that is sought after by every manner of species The grazing of wildlife and livestock in oak woodlands yields a remarkable plant and animal biodiversity creating a mosaic of habitats and visually pleasing savannas Added products unique to Spain such as Iberian pigs and cork and in California multiple landowner benefits include valued ecosystem services that allow owners visitors and conservation supporters to experience the benefits of woodland life With its 15 chapters a decade in the making this handsomely illustrated book covers key topics in oak woodland policy ecology and management in Spain and California presenting new research results and reviewing an existing expert literature Applied Landscape Ecology Francisco Castro Rego, Stephen C. Bunting, Eva Kristina Strand, Paulo Godinho-Ferreira, 2019-02-04 An insightful guide to the concepts and practices of modern landscape ecology Elements of geography conservation biology soil science and other disciplines factor into landscape ecology's rich analyses of the ecological and environmental forces at play across different terrains. With its unique organism-oriented approach to the subject, Applied Landscape Ecology considers the effects of ecological processes upon particular species and places its findings within the context of larger-scale concerns. Students, researchers, and practitioners alike will find this a rewarding and instructive read that offers practical and detailed information on the latest methods and technologies used in the field today. This essential resource takes an interdisciplinary approach to landscape ecology. Examines the subject within the contexts of specific organisms. Covers cutting-edge technologies and methods. Represents a collaboration between an international team of landscape ecology experts. Comes with 25 exercises that are freely available from the book companion site. Whether new to the practice or an established ecologist, anyone with an interest in this exciting and developing field should have a copy of Applied Landscape Ecology at their disposal.

Geography in Britain after World War II Max Martin, Vinita Damodaran, Rohan D'Souza, 2019-12-13 Contemporary anxieties about climate change have fueled a growing interest in how landscapes are formed and transformed across spans of time from decades to millennia. While the discipline of geography has had much to say about how such environmental transformations occur, few studies have focused on the lives of geographers themselves, their ideologies, and how they understand their field. This edited collection illuminates the social and biographical contexts of geographers in postwar Britain who were influenced by and studied under the pioneering geomorphologist A.T. Grove. These contributors uncover the relationships and networks that shaped their research on diverse terrains from Africa to the Mediterranean, highlighting their shared concerns which have profound implications not only for the study of geography and geomorphology but also for questions of environmental history, ecological conservation, and human security.

Agroforestry in Europe Antonio Rigueiro-Rodríguez, Jim McAdam, María Rosa Mosquera-Losada, 2008-11-09 Agroforestry has come of age during the past three decades. The age-old practice of growing trees and crops, and sometimes animals, in interacting combinations that has been ignored in the single-commodity-oriented agricultural and forestry development paradigms has been brought into the realm of modern land use. Today agroforestry is well on its way to becoming a specialized science at a level similar to those of crop science and forestry science. To most land use experts, however, agroforestry has a tropical connotation. They consider agroforestry as something that can and can only be identified with the tropics. That is a wrong perception. While it is true that the tropics compared to the temperate regions have a wider array of agroforestry systems and hold greater promise for potential agroforestry interventions, it is also true that agroforestry has several opportunities in the temperate regions too. Indeed, the role of agroforestry is now recognized in Europe, as exemplified by this book. North America and elsewhere in the temperate zone. Current interest in ecosystem management in industrialized countries strongly suggests that there is a need to embrace and apply agroforestry principles to help mitigate the environmental problems caused or exacerbated by commercial agricultural and forestry production enterprises.

Plants and People in the African Past Anna Maria Mercuri, A.

Catherine D'Andrea, Rita Fornaciari, Alexa Höhn, 2018-07-31 There is an essential connection between humans and plants cultures and environments and this is especially evident looking at the long history of the African continent This book comprising current research in archaeobotany on Africa elucidates human adaptation and innovation with respect to the exploitation of plant resources In the long term perspective climatic changes of the environment as well as human impact have posed constant challenges to the interaction between peoples and the plants growing in different countries and latitudes This book provides an insight into overview of the manifold routes people have taken in various parts Africa in order to make a decent living from the provisions of their environment by bringing together the analyses of macroscopic and microscopic plant remains with ethnographic botanical geographical and linguistic research The numerous chapters cover almost all the continent countries and were prepared by most of the scholars who study African archaeobotany i e the complex and composite history of plant uses and environmental transformations during the Holocene Grasslands in Europe Peter Veen, Richard Jefferson, Jacques de Smidt, Jan van der Straaten, 2014-04-14 Grasslands are an important element of European nature About half of Europe s endemic species depend on grasslands whether in mountains lowlands river plains or coastal areas Many grasslands originate in traditional agricultural landscapes Modern intensification however brings many of these ecosystems under threat Grasslands in Europe is a tribute to these important ecosystems It was written by an international team of grassland experts who describe twenty four case studies from countries in all of Europe ranging from the grasslands of Gotland and land Sweden to the Spanish Dehesa and from the hay meadows of the British Pennine Dales to the steppes of Turkish Anatolia Together these case studies provide a fascinating glimpse into the various European grasslands their value for nature culture and agriculture and the threats they are facing today The accessible text as well as the rich illustrations will appeal to a wide audience Grasslands in Europe contains a large number of stunning full colour photographs of grassland landscapes species and cultural history It also contains many maps and infographics Thematic chapters provide essential background information on topics such as grassland fauna the history of agriculture grassland communities and the connection between grasslands and climate The book also analyses the opportunities and risks of EU policy to conserve these grasslands It offers a farmer centred outlook to manage and to maintain the European grasslands of high nature value Forests in Sustainable Mountain Development Martin F. Price, Nathalie Butt, 2000 Written by leading international authors this book presents a comprehensive review of forests in mountain regions and their sustainable development Based on a report prepared by the IUFRO Task Force in Sustainable Mountain Development for the IUFRO Congress to be held in August 2000 The book addresses current issues and initiatives and defines research needs Key global issues and addressed is in general articles while specific regional topics are described and highlighted within each chapter in shorter case studies Case studies are drawn from all continents examples including Mexico Central Europe Cameroon Tanzania Chile Korea New Zealand and many others Contributions have been included from nearly 100 world experts making
