Explorations in Neuroscience, Psychology and Religion Kevin S. Seybold, 2016-04-15 In the 1990s great strides were taken in clarifying how the brain is involved in behaviors that in the past had seldom been studied by neuroscientists or psychologists This book explores the progress begun during that momentous decade in understanding why we behave think and feel the way we do especially in those areas that interface with religion What is happening in the brain when we have a religious experience Is the soul a product of the mind which is in turn a product of the brain If so what are the implications for the Christian belief in an afterlife If God created humans for the purpose of having a relationship with him should we expect to find that our spirituality is a biologically evolved human trait What effect might a disease such as Alzheimer's have on a person's spirituality and relationship with God Neuroscience and psychology are providing information relevant to each of these questions and many Christians are worried that their religious beliefs are being threatened by this research Kevin Seybold attempts to put their concerns to rest by presenting some of the scientific findings coming from these disciplines in a way that is understandable yet non-threatening to Christian belief

Explorations in the anthropology of religion W. E. A. van Beek, J. H. Scherer, 2013-12-14 This Festschrift is dedicated to Prof Dr J van Baal on the occasion of his retirement from the chair of cultural anthropology at the University of Utrecht The essays presented here are written by fellow scholars in recognition of his outstanding contributions to the field of anthropology In order to arrange the papers around a theme that has never ceased to fascinate van Baal we have asked the contributors to concentrate on a religious subject Within this broad area no specific topics have been solicited and the authors mainly fellow anthropologists and students of religion have been able to pursue their own personal interests in the articles Nevertheless when the papers were collected we found it possible to group them under three headings each of which represents a facet of van Baal's enduring interests Of course some overlap is inevitable as it is in any categorisation of heterogeneous items The topics of the three sections by no means represent an exhaustive inventory of all fields van Baal has successfully explored The focus on religion necessarily leaves out many problems van Baal has actively occupied himself with during his many sided career Thus the academic stance of the Festschrift in no way pays tribute to his prolonged concern with Exploring Catholic Faith in Shakespearean Drama David Torevell, Brandon Schneeberger, Luke Taylor, 2025-03-31. This pioneering study investigates the connection between Shakespeare and Catholic education. Its authors contend that Shakespeare's plays explore Catholic understandings of human life in ways that remain relevant for Catholic educational institutions today. Through chapters focusing on ethical and existential themes—love, desire, the body, marriage, virginity, evil, finitude, jealousy, and lies—the authors demonstrate Shakespeare's wide-ranging engagement with early modern Catholic belief and practice. At the same time, they argue that Shakespeare's treatment of Catholic faith through imaginative literature, rather than magisterial discourse and dramatically rather than didactically, provides a pedagogical model for contemporary teachers. The first volume to trace the relationship between a philosophy of Catholic education and Shakespearean drama, it will appeal strongly to all those working in Catholic educational settings, particularly those tasked with strengthening the mission of their institution, as well as to scholars and researchers of literacy education, religious education, and to those interested in the dynamic between education and drama.

Social Work Practice With Older Adults Jill M. Chonody, Barbra Teater, 2017-11-08. Social Work Practice With Older Adults by Jill Chonody and Barbra Teater presents a contemporary framework based on the World Health Organization's active aging policy that allows forward thinking students to focus on client strengths and resources when working with the elderly. The Actively Aging framework takes into account health, social, behavioral, economic, and personal factors as they relate to aging, but also explores environmental issues which supports the new educational standards put forth by the Council on Social Work Education. Covering micro, mezzo, and macro practice domains, the text examines all aspects of working with aging populations from assessment through termination.
