Universal Salvation in Late Antiquity Archbishop Michael Bland Simmons, 2015-05-26 This study offers an in depth examination of Porphyrian soteriology or the concept of the salvation of the soul in the thought of Porphyry of Tyre whose significance for late antique thought is immense Porphyry s concept of salvation is important for an understanding of those cataclysmic forces not always theological that helped convert the Roman Empire from paganism to Christianity Porphyry a disciple of Plotinus was the last and greatest anti Christian writer to vehemently attack the Church before the Constantinian revolution His contribution to the pagan Christian debate on universalism can thus shed light on the failure of paganism and the triumph of Christianity in late antiquity In a broader historical and cultural context this study will address some of the issues central to the debate on universalism in which Porphyry was passionately involved and which was becoming increasingly significant during the unprecedented series of economic cultural political and military crises of the third century As the author will argue Porphyry may have failed to find one way of salvation for all humanity he nonetheless arrived a hierarchical soteriology something natural for a Neoplatonist which resulted in an integrative religious and philosophical system His system is examined in the context of other developing ideologies of universalism during a period of unprecedented imperial crises which were used by the emperors as an agent of political and religious unification Christianity finally triumphed over its competitors owing to its being perceived to be the only universal salvation cult that was capable of bringing about this unification In short it won due to its unique universalist soteriology By examining a rival to Christianity s concept of universal salvation this book will be valuable to students and scholars of ancient philosophy patristics church history and late antiquity

The Cross Goes North Martin Carver, 2005 37 studies of the adoption of Christianity across northern Europe over 1000 years and the diverse reasons that drove the process In Europe the cross went north and east as the centuries unrolled from the Dingle Peninsula to Estonia and from the Alps to Lapland ranging in time from Roman Britain and Gaul in the third and fourth centuries to the conversion of peoples in the Baltic area a thousand years later These episodes of conversion form the basic narrative here History encourages the belief that the adoption of Christianity was somehow irresistible but specialists show the underside of the process by turning the spotlight from the missionaries who recorded their triumphs to the converted exploring their local situations and motives What were the reactions of the northern peoples to the Christian message Why would they wish to adopt it for the sake of its alliances In what way did they adapt the Christian ethos and infrastructure to suit their own community How did conversion affect the status of farmers of smiths of princes and of women Was society wholly changed or only in marginal matters of devotion and superstition These are the issues discussed here by thirty eight experts from across northern Europe some answers come from astute readings of the texts alone but most are owed to a combination of history art history and archaeology working together
