Dialogue and Conflict on Religion. Studies of Classroom Interaction in European Countries Ina ter Avest,Dan-Paul Jozsa,Thorsten Knauth,Javier Rosón,Geir Skeie,2009 Regarding teaching about religions and worldviews there is a gap between the ambitions of educational policies and our knowledge about what really happens in the classroom Research on classroom interaction about religion is not very far developed either nationally or as international and as comparative research There is a growing awareness however that research on pupils perspectives on religion in education is needed in order to develop sustainable approaches for future education and this book is a contribution to this research The classroom can be seen as an arena both for learning and for micro politics This arena is shaped and sometimes challenged and restricted or even curtailed by the wider societal and political context In this book we present studies of classroom interaction that focus on the micro sociological level of research The studies presented open up a rather unexplored field of international comparative research on religion in education and the role of diversity for classroom interaction giving deeper insights into what happens in classrooms displaying varieties of interactive patterns and relating these to their specific contexts

A. R. Shadid,P. Sj. van Koningsveld,2002 The permanent presence of Islam and Muslims is a comparatively recent phenomenon in most countries of the European Union Over the last few decades many initiatives have been launched by Muslim communities in the European Union to create infrastructural provisions for their religious life within the existing legal and social frameworks In fact all countries of the European Union share the principles of religious freedom and non discrimination in their respective Constitutions However the precise way in which these principles are interpreted and applied to Islam depends largely on the historical traditions concerning the relation between State and Religion which differ from one country to another These differences are reflected in recent developments in the communication between the States and their Muslim communities both at national regional and municipal levels They are also reflected in recent developments in legislation and jurisprudence concerning the most essential Islamic core values such as dietary laws the precepts on modest dress Islamic burial practices and the possibilities to found Islamic cemeteries as well as the observance of Friday prayers and annual holidays Looking at the legal position of Islam in the countries of the European Union the authors of this volume discuss the challenges posed by the presence of Islam to the Western European system of relationships between law and religion They argue that these challenges necessitate reforms within the relevant European legislation but differ as to their precise nature They also discuss the difficulties of this task as these adjustments will alter a longstanding balance of rights and privileges recognised by different religious denominations Legal reforms however are not sufficient The creation of a truly multicultural Europe also necessitates fighting against the negative image of Islam and Muslims anti Muslimism or Islamophobia prevailing in most of its member states
