Rubin,2012-09-27 The field of autobiographical

memory has made dramatic advances since the first collection of papers in the area was published in 1986. Now over 25 years on, this book reviews and integrates the many theories, perspectives and approaches that have evolved over the last decades. A truly eminent collection of editors and contributors appraise the basic neural systems of autobiographical memory, its underlying cognitive structures and retrieval processes, how it develops in infancy and childhood, and then breaks down in aging, its social and cultural aspects, and its relation to personality and the self. Autobiographical memory has demonstrated a strong ability to establish clear empirical generalizations and has shown its practical relevance by deepening our understanding of several clinical disorders as well as the induction of false memories in the legal system. It has also become an important topic for brain studies and helped to enlarge our general understanding of the brain.

The Social Studies, 1928 Historical Outlook, 1928 Mapping Memory Kaitlin M. Murphy, 2018-10-02 In Mapping Memory Kaitlin M. Murphy investigates the use of memory as a means of contemporary sociopolitical intervention. Mapping Memory focuses specifically on visual case studies including documentary film, photography, performance, new media, and physical places of memory from sites ranging from the Southern Cone to Central America and the U.S.-Mexican borderlands. Murphy develops new frameworks for analyzing how visual culture performs as an embodied agent of memory and witnessing, arguing that visuality is inherently performative. By analyzing the performative elements or strategies of visual texts such as embodiment, reenactment, haunting, and the performance of material objects and places, Murphy elucidates how memory is both anchored in and extracted from specific bodies, objects, and places. Drawing together diverse theoretical strands, Murphy originates the theory of memory mapping, which tends to the ways in which memory is strategically deployed in order to challenge official narratives that often neglect or designate as transgressive certain memories or experiences. Ultimately, Murphy argues memory mapping is a visual strategy to ask and to challenge why certain lives are rendered visible and thus grievable, and others not.

The Evolution of the Sensitive Soul Simona Ginsburg, Eva Jablonka, 2019-03-12 A new theory about the origins of consciousness that finds learning to be the driving force in the evolutionary transition to basic consciousness. What marked the evolutionary transition from organisms that lacked consciousness to those with consciousness to minimal subjective experiencing, or as Aristotle described it, the sensitive soul? In this book, Simona Ginsburg and Eva Jablonka propose a new theory about the origin of consciousness that finds learning to be the driving force in the transition to basic consciousness. Using a methodology similar to that used by scientists when they identified the transition from non-life to life, Ginsburg and Jablonka suggest a set of criteria to identify a marker for the transition to minimal consciousness and explore the far-reaching biological, psychological, and philosophical implications. After presenting the historical neurobiological and philosophical foundations of their analysis, Ginsburg and Jablonka propose that the evolutionary marker of basic or minimal consciousness is a complex form of associative learning which they term unlimited associative learning (UAL). UAL enables an organism to ascribe motivational value to a novel compound, non-reflex inducing stimulus or action and use it as the basis for future learning Associative learning Ginsburg and Jablonka argue drove the Cambrian explosion and its massive diversification of organisms Finally Ginsburg and Jablonka propose symbolic language as a similar type of marker for the evolutionary transition to human rationality to Aristotle s rational soul
