Empires of Vision brings together pieces by some of the most influential scholars working at the intersection of visual culture studies and the history of European imperialism The essays and excerpts focus on the paintings maps geographical surveys postcards photographs and other media that comprise the visual milieu of colonization struggles for decolonization and the lingering effects of empire Taken together they demonstrate that an appreciation of the role of visual experience is necessary for understanding the functioning of hegemonic imperial power and the ways that the colonized subjects spoke and looked back at their imperial rulers Empires of Vision also makes a vital point about the complexity of image culture in the modern world We must comprehend how regimes of visibility emerged globally not only in the metropole but also in relation to the putative margins of a world that increasingly came to question the very distinction between center and periphery

Who Ran the Cities? Ralf Roth, 2017-03-02

The question of who actually ran cities in the eighteenth nineteenth and twentieth centuries has been increasingly debated in recent years As well as trying to understand the distribution of political power and the rise of broad political participation urban historians have questioned how and whether elites retained influence in municipal government The essays in this collection provide a detailed examination of the relationship between urban elites and the exercise of power bringing together economic social and cultural history with the political history of power resources and decision making The volume challenges common perceptions of a monolithic urban elite by looking at specific case studies Collectively these essays provide a more sophisticated view of the exercise of urban power as the negotiation of various elite groups defined by their economic social political or cultural privilege To contribute to this complex account of the history of cities elites and their influence the collection applies a range of methodological approaches to studying European and American cities as well as the wider world
