Remaking The Chinese City Modernity And National Identity 1900 195:

Remaking the Chinese City Joseph W. Esherick, 2001-10-31 In China today skyscrapers tower over ancient temples freeways deliver lines of cars and tour buses to imperial palaces cinema houses compete with old theaters featuring Peking Opera The disparity evidenced in the contemporary Chinese cityscape can be traced to the early decades of the twentieth century when government elites sought to transform cities into a new world that would be at once modern and distinctly Chinese Remaking the Chinese City aims to capture the full diversity of recent Chinese urbanism by examining the modernist transformations of China's cities in the first half of the twentieth century Collecting in one place some of the most interesting and exciting new work on Chinese urban history this volume presents thirteen essays discussing ten Chinese cities the commercial and industrial center of Shanghai the old capital Beijing the southern coastal city of Canton the interior's Chengdu the tourist city of Hangzhou the utopian New Capital built in Manchuria during the Japanese occupation the treaty port of Tianjin the Nationalists' capital in Nanjing and temporary wartime capitals of Wuhan and Chongqing Unlike past treatments of early twentieth century China which characterize the period as one of failure and decay the contributors to this volume describe an exciting world in constant and fundamental change During this time the Chinese city was remade to accommodate parks and police paved roads and public spaces Rickshaws trolleys and buses allowed the growth of new downtowns Department stores theaters newspapers and modern advertising nourished a new urban identity Sanitary regulations and traffic laws were enforced and modern media and transport permitted unprecedented freedoms Yet despite their fondness for things Western and modern early urban planners envisioned cities that would lead the Chinese nation and preserve Chinese tradition The very desire for modernity led to the construction of a visible and accessible national past and the imagining of a distinctive national future In their investigation of the national capitals of the period the essays show how cities were reshaped to represent and serve the nation To promote tourism traditions were invented and recycled for the pleasure and edification of new middle class and foreign consumers of culture Abundantly illustrated with maps and photographs Remaking the Chinese City presents the best and most current scholarship on modern Chinese cities Its thoroughness and detailed scholarship will appeal to the specialist while its clarity and scope will engage the general reader Contributors Michael Tsin on Canton Ruth Rogaski and Brett Sheehan on Tianjin David Buck on Changchun Kristin Stapleton on Chengdu Liping Wang on Hangzhou Madeleine Dong on Beijing Charles Musgrove on Nanjing Stephen MacKinnon on Wuhan Lee MacIsaac on Chongqing and Jeffrey Wasserstrom and David Strand with concluding essays Remaking Chinese Urban Form Duanfang Lu, 2006-09-27 In this pioneering study of contemporary Chinese urban form Duanfang Lu provides an analysis of how Chinese society constructed itself through the making and remaking of its built environment She shows that as China's quest for modernity created a perpetual scarcity as both a social reality and a national imagination the realization of planning ideals was postponed The work unit the socialist enterprise or institute gradually developed from workplace to social institution which integrated work housing and social services The Chinese city achieved a unique geography made up in large part of self contained work units Remaking Chinese Urban Form provides an important reference for academics and students conducting research on China It will be a key source for courses on Asia in architecture urban planning geography sociology and anthropology at both the graduate and undergraduate level The insightful yet accessible introduction to urban China will also be of interest to architects urban designers and planners as well as general audience who wish to learn about contemporary Chinese society

Photography in China Oliver

Moore,2021-12-24 Emphasizing the medium s reception among several Chinese constituencies this book explores photography s impact within new discourses on science as well as its effects in social life visual modernity and the media during China s transition from imperial to republican government General knowledge and academic teaching of early modern Chinese visual culture stops short of fitting photography into the larger context of visual practices and theories This study redraws the boundaries by making photography the central concern within changing priorities of visual representation and its functions during a period of major cultural and political change No other study draws on such intimate familiarity with the early glamour of photography as science commerce and communication in the various local conditions of China s cities and towns Joining a body of critical writing that examines photography s histories outside the familiar confines of the West this book looks beyond the tourist and imperialist gazes of photographer adventurers from the Western powers and Japan It defines instead the Chinese priorities of photographic vision that are abundantly evident in surviving photographs as well as in records as various as technical manuals and personal inscriptions Local practices and local knowledge are the keys to explain the highly successful indigenization of a medium as globalizing as photography with reference to Chinese society s own terms and practices This book will be of particular interest to scholars in art and visual culture the history of photography and Asian art

Mediasphere Shanghai Alexander Des Forges,2007-07-31 For many in the west Shanghai is the quintessence of East Asian modernity whether imagined as glamorous and exciting corrupt and impoverishing or a complex synthesis of the good the bad and the ugly How did Shanghai acquire this power How did people across China and around the world decide that Shanghai was the place to be Mediasphere Shanghai shows that partial answers to these questions can be found in the products of Shanghai s media industry particularly the Shanghai novel a distinctive genre of installment fiction that flourished from the 1890s to the 1930s Shanghai fiction supplies not only the imagery that we now consider typical of the city but more significantly the very forms simultaneity interruption mediation and excess through which the city could be experienced as a business and entertainment center and envisioned as the focal point of a mediasphere with a national and transnational reach Existing paradigms of Shanghai culture tend to explain the city's distinctive literary and visual aesthetics as merely the predictable result of economic conditions and social processes but Alexander Des Forges maintains that literary texts and other cultural products themselves constitute a conceptual foundation for the city and construct the frame through which it is perceived Working from a wide range of sources including installment fiction photographs lithographic illustrations maps guidebooks newspapers and film Des Forges demonstrates the significant social effects of aesthetic forms and practices Mediasphere Shanghai offers a new perspective on the cultural history of the city and on the literature and culture of modern China in general
