pinned down Introduces biomedicine from an anthropological perspective exploring the entanglement of material bodies with history environment culture and politics Develops and integrates an original theory that the human body in health and illness is not an ontological given but a moveable malleable entity Makes extensive use of historical and contemporary ethnographic materials around the globe to illustrate the importance of this methodological approach Integrates key new research data with more classical material covering the management of epidemics famines fertility and birth by military doctors from colonial times on Uses numerous case studies to illustrate concepts such as the global commodification of human bodies and body parts modern forms of population and the extension of biomedical technologies into domestic and intimate domains Winner of the 2010 Prose Award for Archaeology and Anthropology

Cloning Wild Life Carrie Friese,2013-09-02 In this brilliant study of cloned wild life

Carrie Friese adds a whole new dimension to the study of reproduction illustrating vividly and persuasively how social and biological reproduction are inextricably bound together and why this matters Sarah Franklin author of Dolly Mixtures the Remaking of Genealogy The natural world is marked by an ever increasing loss of varied habitats a growing number of species extinctions and a full range of new kinds of dilemmas posed by global warming At the same time humans are also working to actively shape this natural world through contemporary bioscience and biotechnology In Cloning Wild Life Carrie Friese posits that cloned endangered animals in zoos sit at the apex of these two trends as humans seek a scientific solution to environmental crisis Often fraught with controversy cloning technologies Friese argues significantly affect our conceptualizations of and engagements with wildlife and nature By studying animals at different locations Friese explores the human practices surrounding the cloning of endangered animals She visits zoos the San Diego Zoological Park the Audubon Center in New Orleans and the Zoological Society of London to see cloning and related practices in action as well as attending academic and medical conferences and interviewing scientists conservationists and zookeepers involved in cloning Ultimately she concludes that the act of recalibrating nature through science is what most disturbs us about cloning animals in captivity revealing that debates over cloning become in the end a site of political struggle between different human groups Moreover Friese explores the implications of the social role that animals at the zoo play in the first place how they are viewed consumed and used by humans for our own needs A unique study uniting sociology and the study of science and technology Cloning Wild Life demonstrates just how much bioscience reproduces and changes our ideas about the meaning of life itself Carrie Friese is Lecturer in Sociology at the London School of Economics and Political Science research Comprehensive and detailed this magisterial Handbook overviews the last 25 years of the social anthropological imagination It will speak to scholars in Social Anthropology and its many related disciplines Bioinsecurities Neel Ahuja,2016-03-31 In Bioinsecurities Neel Ahuja argues that U S imperial expansion has been shaped by the attempts of health and military officials to control the interactions of humans animals viruses and bacteria at the borders of U S influence a phenomenon called the government of species The book explores efforts to control the spread of Hansen s disease venereal disease polio smallpox and HIV through interventions linking the continental United States to Hawai i Panam Puerto Rico Cuba Congo Iraq and India in the twentieth and twenty first centuries Ahuja argues that racial fears of contagion helped to produce public optimism concerning state uses of pharmaceuticals medical experimentation military intervention and incarceration to regulate the immune capacities of the body In the process the security state made the biological structures of human and animal populations into sites of struggle in the politics of empire unleashing new patient activisms and forms of resistance to medical and military authority across the increasingly global sphere of U S influence Social Bodies Helen Lambert,Maryon McDonald,2009 A proliferation of press headlines social science texts and ethical concerns about the social implications of recent developments in human genetics and biomedicine have created a sense that at least in European and American contexts both the way we treat the human body and our attitudes towards it have changed This volume asks what really happens to social relations in the face of new types of transaction such as organ donation forensic identification and other new medical and reproductive technologies that involve the use of corporeal material Drawing on comparative insights into how human biological material is treated it aims to consider how far human bodies and their components are themselves inherently social The case studies ranging from animal human transformations in Amazonia to forensic reconstruction in post conflict Serbia and the treatment of Native American specimens in English museums all underline that without social relations there are no bodies but only human remains The volume gives us new and striking ethnographic insights into bodies as sociality as well as a potentially powerful analytical reconsideration of notions of embodiment It makes a novel contribution too to science and society debates Death in the Early Twenty-first Century Sébastien Penmellen Boret,Susan Orpett Long,Sergei Kan,2017-07-18 Focusing on tradition technology and authority this volume challenges classical understandings that mortuary rites are inherently conservative The contributors examine innovative and enduring ideas and practices of death which reflect and constitute changing patterns of social relationships memorialisation and the afterlife This cross cultural study examines the lived experiences of men and women from societies across the globe with diverse religious heritages and secular value systems The book demonstrates that mortuary practices are not fixed forms but rather dynamic processes negotiated by the dying the bereaved funeral experts and public institutions In addition to offering a new theoretical perspective on the anthropology of death this work provides a rich resource for readers interested in human responses to mortality the one certainty of human existence Transhumanism Jennifer Huberman,2020-12-17

Through a detailed exploration of the study of transhumanism this book introduces students to the discipline of cultural anthropology

Sounding the Limits of Life Stefan Helmreich, 2015-10-27 What is life What is water What is sound In Sounding the Limits of Life anthropologist Stefan Helmreich investigates how contemporary scientists biologists oceanographers and audio engineers are redefining these crucial concepts Life water and sound are phenomena at once empirical and abstract material and formal scientific and social In the age of synthetic biology rising sea levels and new technologies of listening these phenomena stretch toward their conceptual snapping points breaching the boundaries between the natural cultural and virtual Through examinations of the computational life sciences marine biology astrobiology acoustics and more Helmreich follows scientists to the limits of these categories Along the way he offers critical accounts of such other than human entities as digital life forms microbes coral reefs whales seawater extraterrestrials tsunamis seashells and bionic cochlea He develops a new notion of sounding as investigating fathoming listening to describe the form of inquiry appropriate for tracking meanings and practices of the biological aquatic and sonic in a time of global change and climate crisis Sounding the Limits of Life shows that life water and sound no longer mean what they once did and that what count as their essential natures are under dynamic revision

Life on Ice Joanna Radin, 2017-03-27 After the atomic bombing at the end of World War II anxieties about survival in the nuclear age led scientists to begin stockpiling and freezing hundreds of thousands of blood samples from indigenous communities around the world These samples were believed to embody potentially invaluable biological information about genetic ancestry evolution microbes and much more Today they persist in freezers as part of a global tissue based infrastructure In Life on Ice Joanna Radin examines how and why these frozen blood samples shaped the practice known as biobanking The Cold War projects Radin tracks were meant to form an enduring total archive of indigenous blood before it was altered by the polluting forces of modernity Freezing allowed that blood to act as a time traveling resource Radin explores the unique cultural and technical circumstances that created and gave momentum to the phenomenon of life on ice and shows how these preserved blood samples served as the building blocks for biomedicine at the dawn of the genomic age In an era of vigorous ethical legal and cultural debates about genetic privacy and identity Life on Ice reveals the larger picture how we got here and the promises and problems involved with finding new uses for cold human blood samples

Death Glitch Tamara Kneese, 2023-08-15 An accessible yet erudite deep dive into how platforms are remaking experiences of death Since the internet's earliest days people have died and mourned online In quiet corners of past iterations of the web the dead linger But attempts at preserving the data of the dead are often ill fated for websites and devices decay and die just as people do Death disrupts technologists plans for platforms It reveals how digital production is always collaborative undermining the entrepreneurial platform economy and highlighting the flaws of techno solutionism Big Tech has authority not only over people's lives but over their experiences of death as well Ordinary users and workers though advocate for changes to tech companies policies around death Drawing on internet histories along with interviews with founders of digital afterlife startups caretakers of illness blogs and transhumanist tinkerers the technology scholar Tamara Kneese takes readers on a vibrant tour of the ways that platforms and people work together to care for digital remains What happens when commercial platforms encounter the messiness of mortality Cross-Cultural Perspectives on Personhood and the Life Course Cathrine Degnen, 2018-04-24 Exploring notions of the person through a wide range of anthropological literature Cathrine Degnen analyses how personhood is built affirmed and maintained during various life stages and via multiple cultural forms and practices In discussing the life course she investigates personhood as a concept at the beginning of life throughout life as lived at the edges of being and ultimately at life's end Cross Cultural Perspectives on Personhood and the Life Course moves beyond the human person in isolation to consider how personhood is fashioned with regard to place and how non humans can also be recognised as persons Through multiple ethnographic accounts Degnen shows that personhood emerges as a relational and processual entity brought into being via reciprocal fields of social relations

Making Death Matter Tara Mehrabi, 2016-11-18 This thesis is a contribution to feminist laboratory studies and a critical engagement with the natural sciences or more precisely research on the biochemical workings and deadly relations of Alzheimer's disease emanating from a year of field work in a Drosophila fly lab The natural sciences have been a point of fascination within the field of gender studies for decades Such sciences produce knowledge on what gets to count as nature and natural healthy or sick normal or not and they have done it with great societal authority and impact throughout European modernity However feminist technoscience scholars argue that science and knowledge is socially produced and political too Concepts such as nature animal human body sex and life itself are not simply given natural realities but phenomena processed through the naturecultures of the laboratory Situated within such theoretical and methodological approaches this thesis wonders how scientific facts about Alzheimer's disease are made in the lab today What kinds of realities bodies and ethico political concerns are enacted Who gets to live and who gets to die in everyday laboratory practices Theoretically the thesis is grounded particularly within Karen Barad's agential realism and posthumanist performativity and as such it accounts for human and nonhuman entanglements through which AD is performed in the lab in relational ways In other words the thesis explores how AD is enacted in the bodies of transgenic fruit flies Drosophila melanogaster as these flies embody the disease live and die with it Last but not least the thesis explores the materialities of death dying embodiment and biological waste in a biochemistry lab as constitutive parts of the produced knowledge about AD Denna avhandling utgör ett bidrag till feministiska laboratoriestudier och är en kritisk analys av naturvetenskaperna När man bestämmer det är en feministisk studie av forskning om Alzheimers sjukdom dess biokemiska verkningar och olika relationer utifrån ett forskningsfältarbete som labbtekniker i ett flyglabb Naturvetenskaperna har under decennier fascinerat genusforskare Dessa discipliner formar kunskapen om vad som räknas som natur och naturligt hälsa och sjukdom normalt eller inte och de har gjort så med stor samhällslegitimerad auktoritet genom Europeisk modernitet Forskare inom feministiska

teknovetenskapliga studier har länge handlat om att vetenskap också är social praktik med politiska implikationer Begrepp som natur, djur, människligt eller kropp, kön och livet självt kan inte tas för givna utan formas också i laboratoriets naturkultur Med utgångspunkt i sådana feministiska teknovetenskapliga teoribildningar och metodologiska utgångspunkter bearbetar denna avhandling frågor om hur vetenskapliga fakta om Alzheimers sjukdom skapas i laboratoriet idag Vilka kroppar, verkligheter och etiska politiska förhållningssätt aktualiseras Vem får leva och vem får dö i vardagliga laboratoriepraktiker Teoretiskt bygger avhandlingen framför allt på Karen Barads agenciella realism när den diskuterar sammanvävningen mellan människligt och icke-människt samt det som kallas posthumanistisk performativitet i relation till Alzheimers sjukdom som den förkroppsligas i transgena fruktflugor Drosophila melanogaster i laboratoriet I särskilt fokus står relationerna som skapas inom den biokemiska forskningen kring döda biologiskt avfall och kroppslighet

The Origins of Sociable Life: Evolution After Science Studies M. Hird, 2009-05-29 This ambitious book considers social scientific topics such as identity, community, sexual difference, self and ecology from a microbial perspective Harnessing research and evidence from earth systems science and microbiology and particularly focusing on symbiosis and symbiogenesis the book argues for the development of a microontology of life

Technonatures Damian F. White, Chris Wilbert, 2010-04-05 Environmentalism and social sciences appear to be in a period of disorientation and perhaps transition In this innovative collection leading international thinkers explore the notion that one explanation for the current malaise of the politics of ecology is that we increasingly find ourselves negotiating technonatural space-times International contributors map the political ecologies of our technonatural present and indicate possible paths for technonatural futures The term technonatures is in debt to a long line of environmental cultural theory from Raymond Williams onwards problematizing the idea that a politics of the environment can be usefully grounded in terms of the rhetoric of defending the pure, the authentic or an idealized past solely in terms of the ecological or the natural In using the term technonatures as an organizing myth and metaphor for thinking about the politics of nature in contemporary times this collection seeks to explore one increasingly pronounced dimension of the social natures discussion Technonatures highlights a growing range of voices considering the claim that we are not only inhabiting diverse social natures but that within such natures our knowledge of our worlds is ever more technologically mediated, produced, enacted and contested
