How to Do Things with Fictions Joshua Landy, 2012-07-06 Why does Mark's Jesus speak in parables Why does Plato's Socrates make bad arguments Why are Beckett's novels so inscrutable And why don't stage magicians even pretend to summon spirits anymore In a series of captivating chapters on Mark Plato Beckett Mallarmé and Chaucer Joshua Landy not only answers these questions but explains why they are worth asking in the first place Witty and approachable How to Do Things with Fictions challenges the widespread assumption that literary texts must be informative or morally improving in order to be of any real benefit It reveals that authors are sometimes best thought of not as entertainers or as educators but as personal trainers of the brain putting their willing readers through exercises designed to fortify specific mental capacities from form giving to equanimity from reason to faith Delivering plenty of surprises along the way that moral readings of literature can be positively dangerous that the parables were deliberately designed to be misunderstood that Plato knowingly sets his main character up for a fall that metaphor is powerfully connected to religious faith that we can sustain our beliefs even when we suspect them to be illusions How to Do Things with Fictions convincingly shows that our best allies in the struggle for more rigorous thinking deeper faith richer experience and greater peace of mind may well be the imaginative writings sitting on our shelves

Time Travel David Wittenberg, 2016-01-01 This stimulating contribution to literary theory reveals the deeply philosophical concerns and developments behind popular time travel sci fi London Review of Books In Time Travel literary theorist David Wittenberg argues that time travel fiction is not mere escapism but a narrative laboratory where theoretical questions about storytelling and by extension about the philosophy of temporality history and subjectivity are presented in story form Drawing on physics philosophy narrative theory psychoanalysis and film theory Wittenberg links innovations in time travel fiction to specific shifts in the popularization of science from nineteenth century evolutionary biology to twentieth century quantum physics and more recent multiverse cosmologies Wittenberg shows how popular awareness of new science led to surprising innovations in the literary time machine which evolved from a vehicle used for sociopolitical commentary into a psychological device capable of exploring the temporal structure and significance of subjects viewpoints and historical events Time Travel draws on classic works of science fiction by H G Wells Edward Bellamy Robert Heinlein Samuel Delany and Harlan Ellison television shows such as The Twilight Zone and Star Trek and other popular entertainments These are read alongside theoretical work ranging from Einstein Schrödinger Stephen Hawking to Gerard Genette David Lewis and Gilles Deleuze Wittenberg argues that even the most mainstream audiences of popular time travel fiction and cinema are vigorously engaged with many of the same questions about temporality identity and history that concern literary theorists media and film scholars and philosophers
