Rescuing The Subject A Critical Introduction To:

Rescuing the Subject Susan Miller, 2004 When it was first published in 1989 Rescuing the Subject established a landmark pedagogical approach to composition based on the importance of the writer and the act of writing in the history of rhetoric Widely used as an introduction to rhetoric and composition theory for graduate students the volume was the first winner of the W Ross Winterrowd Award from JAC and is still one of the most frequently cited books in the field Radical Feminism, Writing, and Critical Agency Jacqueline Rhodes, 2012-02-01 This book traces the intersection of radical feminism composition and print culture in order to address a curious gap in feminist composition studies the manifesto writing collaborative action taking radical feminists of the 1960s and 1970s Long before contemporary debates over essentialism radical feminist groups questioned both what it was to be a woman and to perform womanhood and a key part of that questioning took the form of very public very contentious texts by such writers and groups as Shulamith Firestone the Redstockings and WITCH the Women s International Terrorist Conspiracy from Hell Rhodes explores how these radical women s texts have been silenced in contemporary rhetoric and composition and compares their work to that of contemporary online activists finding that both point to a network literacy that blends ever shifting identities with ever changing technologies in order to take action Ultimately Rhodes argues the articulation of radical feminist textuality can benefit both scholarship and classroom as it situates writers as rhetorical agents who can write resist and finally act within a network of discourses and identifications Contemporary Composition Studies Edith Babin, Kimberly Harrison, 1999-12-30 Composition studies is a rapidly growing and constantly changing field At present however graduate students new to the field and writing teachers who want to make new connections between theory and practice have little choice of current reference works that define key terms in composition studies and provide information about the scholars and researchers who have shaped and are shaping the discipline This book supplies this information in an easily accessible format and places both scholars and terms in the context of the field s development Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 108 individuals who have developed the field and 128 terms central to the discipline The first part of the book provides entries for leaders in composition studies Each entry identifies the areas in which the scholar has contributed most influentially to the field and provides both a chronological overview of the person s contributions and a bibliography of representative works The second part includes entries for terms that are problematic both for newcomers and for those already familiar with the discipline The entries for the terms show how the disciplinary context has shaped the ways in which they have been used The entries also indicate how established thinkers in composition studies and other disciplines have explained or defined the terms provide examples of the terms in context and list scholars often associated with them An appendix includes entries for scholars from other disciplines who have contributed to the field Anglo-American Feminist Challenges to the Rhetorical Traditions Krista Ratcliffe, 2016-06-01 Although women and men have different relationships to language and to each other traditional theories of rhetoric do not foreground such gender differences Krista Ratcliffe argues that because feminists generally have not conceptualized their language theories from the perspective of rhetoric and composition studies rhetoric and composition scholars must construct feminist theories of rhetoric by employing a variety of interwoven strategies recovering lost or marginalized texts rereading traditional rhetoric texts extrapolating rhetorical theories from such nonrhetoric texts as letters diaries essays cookbooks and other sources and constructing their own theories of rhetoric Focusing on the third option Ratcliffe explores ways in which the rhetorical theories of Virginia Woolf Mary Daly and Adrienne Rich may be extrapolated from their Anglo American feminist texts through examination of the interrelationship between what these authors write and how they write In other words she extrapolates feminist theories of rhetoric from interwoven claims and textual strategies By inviting Woolf Daly and Rich into the rhetorical traditions and by modeling the extrapolation strategy methodology on their writings Ratcliffe shows how feminist texts about women language and culture may be reread from the vantage point of rhetoric to construct feminist theories of rhetoric She also outlines the pedagogical implications of these three feminist theories of rhetoric thus contributing to ongoing discussions of feminist pedagogies Traditional rhetorical theories are gender blind ignoring the reality that women and men occupy different cultural spaces and that these spaces are further complicated by race and class Ratcliffe explains Arguing that issues such as who can talk where one can talk and how one can talk emerge in daily life but are often disregarded in rhetorical theories Ratcliffe rereads Roland Barthes The Old Rhetoric to show the limitations of classical rhetorical theories for women and feminists Discovering spaces for feminist theories of rhetoric in the rhetorical traditions Ratcliffe invites readers not only to question how women have been located as a part of and apart from these traditions but also to explore the implications for rhetorical history theory and pedagogy

Theorizing Composition Mary Kennedy,1998-06-25 The last 25 years have witnessed extraordinary growth in the academic specialization variously described as composition studies or rhetoric and composition What was noticeable about the field in its infancy was a preoccupation with practice a lack of emphasis on theory and an exclusive reliance on the writing process As its disciplinary status has grown the field has become far more theoretical Composition studies has expanded its focus reconceptualized the writing process and embraced a wide range of critical perspectives The result of this change is that terms such as poststructuralism social construction gender and genre which were largely unknown in 1965 now dominate discussion This reference book is a guide to the multiplicity of theories that have emerged to form the disciplinary foundation of composition studies The volume consists of 66 entries each of which is written by an expert contributor and focuses on a particular theory or group of theories While the entries show how various individuals have contributed to theoretical movements very few concentrate on the work of a single theorist Each entry first provides a critical summary of a particular theory or group of theories including key elements basic concepts and claims and information about seminal or particularly influential works It then reviews the theory s critical reception in composition studies and discusses its significance in the field The bibliography at the end of each entry lists primary texts and major scholarship related to the theory and provides additional suggestions for further reading The volume closes with a selected bibliography of important works

Postcomposition Sidney I Dobrin,2011-06-02 Leading a burgeoning self critical moment in composition studies and writing program administration Postcomposition is a fundamental reconsideration of the field that attempts to shift the focus away from pedagogy and writing subjects and toward writing itself In this forceful and reasoned critique of many of the primary tenets and widely accepted institutional structures of composition studies Sidney I Dobrin delivers a series of shocks to the system meant to disrupt the pedagogical imperative and move beyond the existing limits of the discipline Dobrin evaluates the current state of composition studies underscoring the difference between composition and writing and arguing that the field's focus on the administration of writing students and its historically imposed prohibition on theory greatly limit what can be understood about writing Instead he envisions a more significant approach to writing one that questions the field's conservative allegiance to subject and administration and reconsiders writing as spatial and ecological Using concepts from ecocomposition spatial theory network theory complexity theory and systems theory Postcomposition lays the groundwork for a networked theory of writing and advocates the abandonment of administration as a useful part of the field He also challenges the usefulness of rhetoric in writing studies showing how writing exceeds rhetoric Postcomposition is a detailed consideration of how posthumanism affects the field's understanding of subjectivity It also tears at the seams of the contingent labor problem As he articulates his own frustrations with the conservatism of composition studies and builds on previous critiques of the discipline Dobrin stages a courageous and inevitably polemical intellectual challenge to the entrenched ideas and assumptions that have defined composition studies

A Critical Introduction to the Old Testament George Buchanan Gray,1918 A Critical Introduction to the New Testament Arthur Samuel Peake,1920 A critical introduction to international law Olivier Corten,François Dubuisson,Vaios Koutroulis,2024-10-09 Is international law universal Can it be anything else than the will of the actors who are able to impose on others their values and interests Beyond the strategic objectives that can be pursued by a lawyer pleading before a court a state representative operating in an international organization or addressing the general public an author seeking recognition or a citizen interested in the law since international law cannot be interpreted objectively can it at least be interpreted in a convincing and well argued way These are the questions that underlie this book which following a critical approach emphasizes the profound ambivalence of international law International law appears to be torn between in the one hand the pursuit of a universalist ideal of justice and peace and on the other the need to deal with power relations in a political context From this perspective it would be futile to claim to establish and even less to discover one single correct interpretation of legal rules such as for example the right to self determination the principle of non intervention or the prohibition of genocide It is however possible to provide an overview of the main debates among states other international actors or among legal scholars relating to the interpretation of the main rules of international law In the book these debates are illustrated by references to popular culture in particular music and films The ambition of this book is to enable the reader on the basis of these elements firstly to position himself or herself by selecting and defending the arguments that seem most convincing and secondly and more fundamentally to understand the legal and political terms of the controversies in international law This revised second edition includes updates in case law and practice from the war in Ukraine to the war in Gaza as well as legal developments related to climate change Teaching Composition As A Social Process Bruce McComiskey,2000-02 Bruce McComiskey is a strong advocate of social approaches to teaching writing However he opposes composition teaching that relies on cultural theory for content because it too often prejudices the ethical character of institutions and reverts unnecessarily to product centered practices in the classroom He opposes what he calls the read this essay and do what the author did method of writing instruction read Roland Barthes s essay Toys and write a similar essay read John Fiske s essay on TV and critique a show McComiskey argues for teaching writing as situated in discourse itself in the constant flow of texts produced within social relationships and institutions He urges writing teachers not to neglect the linguistic and rhetorical levels of composing but rather to strengthen them with attention to the social contexts and ideological investments that pervade both the processes and products of writing A work with a sophisticated theory base and full of examples from McComiskey's own classrooms Teaching Composition as a Social Process will be valued by experienced and beginning composition teachers alike A critical introduction to sir Walter Scott's Lay of the last minstrel.
