Research And Productivity In Asian Agriculture:

Research and Productivity in Asian Agriculture Robert Eugene Evenson, Carl Pray, 1991 Productivity Growth in Agriculture K. O. Fugile, 2012 Increasing food prices have renewed concerns about long term agricultural demand and supply in the global economy This book looks at results methods and data on international agricultural productivity for a better understanding of long run trends and the policies that determine them By presenting an international assessment of total factor productivity growth in agriculture including up to date empirical analysis for developed and developing countries and regions it provides a response to the rising global scarcity of agricultural production It is essential reading for researchers

Agricultural R and D in the Developing World Philip G. Pardey, Julian M. Alston, Roley Piggott, 2006 The world's agricultural economy was transformed remarkably during the 20th century The agricultural productivity growth that fueled this change was generated primarily by agricultural R D financed and conducted by a small group of rich countries especially the United States but also Japan Germany and France In an increasingly interdependent world both rich and poor countries have depended on agricultural research conducted in the private and public laboratories of these few countries even if they have not contributed to financing the activity But now the rich country research agendas are shifting In particular they are no longer as interested in simple productivity enhancement Dietary patterns and other priorities change as incomes increase Food security concerns are still pervasive among poor people predominantly in poor countries In rich countries we see a declining emphasis on enhancing the production of staple foods and an increasing emphasis on enhancing certain attributes of food such as growing demand for processed and so called functional foods and on food production systems such as organic farming humane livestock production systems localized food sources and fair trade coffee In addition to growing differences between rich and poor countries in consumer demand for innovation research agendas may diverge because of differences in producer and processor demands Farmers in rich countries are demanding high technology inputs that often are not as relevant for subsistence agriculture such as precision farming technology or other capital intensive methods As well as differences in value adding processes to serve consumer demands differences in farm production technologies are emerging to serve the evolving agribusiness demands for farm products with specific attributes for particular food feed energy medical or industrial applications The purpose of this volume is to document the changing institutions and investments in agricultural R D in less developed countries in part to form a companion volume to Paying for Agricultural Productivity by providing a more complete global picture of the issues

Handbook of Agricultural Economics Robert E. Evenson, Prabhu Pingali, 2009-10-20 Advances in agriculture offer many countries the best and only chance of reducing poverty Yet economic growth and population increases are driving higher demand for food and rising real prices What solutions have successfully promoted agriculture This volume examines national and international food agriculture policies and how they enhance agricultural productivity growth It provides unique historical reviews on policies and their effects and it clearly articulates both positive and negative lessons for promoting agriculture lead growth With chapters written by international authorities this book recognizes that agriculture is not just about providing food for today but about growing it in an environmentally sustainable way that can help people work their ways out of poverty Chapters cover international macro economic policies and trade farm structure in developing countries regional experiences in agriculture and regional studies on agricultural productivity policies

Agricultural research in Southeast Asia: A cross-country analysis of resource allocation, performance, and impact on productivity Stads, Gert-Jan, Nin-Pratt, Alejandro, Omot, Norah, Thi Pham, Nguyen, 2020-10-26

Southeast Asia made considerable progress in building and strengthening its agricultural R D capacity during 2000 2017 All of the region s countries reported higher numbers of agricultural researchers improvements in their average qualification levels and higher shares of women participating in agricultural R D In contrast regional agricultural research spending remained stagnant despite considerable growth in agricultural output over time As a result Southeast Asia s agricultural research intensity that is agricultural research spending as a share of agricultural GDP steadily declined from 0 50 percent in 2000 to just 0 33 percent in 2017 Although the extent of underinvestment in agricultural research differs across countries all Southeast Asian countries invested below the levels deemed attainable based on the analysis summarized in this report The region will need to increase its agricultural research investment substantially in order to address future agricultural production challenges more effectively and ensure productivity growth Southeast Asia s least developed agricultural research systems Cambodia Laos and Myanmar are characterized by low scientific output and researcher productivity as a direct consequence of severe underfunding and lack of sufficient well qualified research staff While Malaysia and Thailand have significantly more developed agricultural research systems they still report key inefficiencies and resource constraints that require attention Indonesia the Philippines and Vietnam occupy intermediate positions between these two groups of high and low performing agricultural research systems Growing national economies higher disposable incomes and changing consumption patterns will prompt considerable shifts in levels of agricultural production consumption imports and exports across Southeast Asia over the next 20 to 30 years The resource allocation decisions that governments make today will affect agricultural productivity for decades to come Governments therefore need to ensure the research they undertake is responsive to future challenges and opportunities and aligned with strategic development and agricultural sector plans ASTI s projections reveal that prioritizing investment in staple crops will still trigger fastest agricultural productivity growth in Laos However Indonesia Malaysia and Vietnam could achieve faster growth over the next 30 years by prioritizing investment in research focused on fruit vegetables livestock and aquaculture In Cambodia Myanmar and Thailand the choice between focusing on staple crops versus high value commodities was less pronounced but projections did indicate that prioritizing investments in oil crop research would trigger significantly lower growth in agricultural productivity

Thai Agriculture
Lindsay Falvey, 2000 The history science and social aspects of today s Thai agriculture is traced from hunters and gatherers

through agro cities through State religious Empires and immigrating Tai to produce a sustainable agriculture The wet glutinous rice culture determined administrative structures in a pragmatic society which regularly produced a saleable surplus Continuing today these systems consolidated the importance of rice agriculture to national security and economic well being as Chinese and European influence benefited agribusiness and initiated the demand which would expand agriculture through population increase until accessible land was expended As agriculture declined in relative financial importance it continued to provide the benefits of employment crisis resilience self sufficiency rural social support and cultural custody Agricultural institutions evolved from a taxation and dispute resolution base to provide research education and technology transfer at levels below potential as they supported commercial agriculture funded by credit Agribusiness expanded from the 1960s and small holders were partly viewed as a past relic which agribusiness could modernise Unique elements of Thai agriculture include irrigation technologies administrative structures based on water control global leadership in many agricultural commodities multinational agribusiness negotiating approaches potential for further increases from known technologies and an open culture which has embraced new ideas One of the world s few major agricultural exporters Thailand leads the world in rice rubber canned pineapple and black tiger prawn production and export the region in chicken meat export and several other commodities and feeds more the four times its own population from less intensive agriculture than its neighbours Poised to benefit from expansion in livestock demand poverty reduction and improved education research and legal and social systems evident in the recent Asian financial crisis will be considered with popular concern for socially sensitive alternatives for small holder farmers to co exist with commercial agriculture Thailand will likely remain one of the world s major agricultural countries in social environmental and economic terms for the foreseeable future as it addresses the continuing rural issues of poverty and inequity

Farm Income in India A. Narayanamoorthy,2020-11-30 The Green Revolution resulted in spectacular advancements in Indian agriculture Having achieved food security for its citizens the country has now become a net exporter of different agricultural commodities But sadly this does not reflect the real state of the Indian agricultural sector In truth our farmers are plagued by crop failures poor income and indebtedness Such is their misery that they are of late driven to commit suicide In this book the author identifies poor returns from crop cultivation as the root cause of farmers problems

Using vast temporal and spatial data the author explores further and attempts to address some very pertinent questions facing Indian agriculture today What is the current trend in farm income Are the returns from irrigated crops better than un irrigated crops Does increased productivity guarantee increased income Has the agricultural price policy benefitted farmers To what extent does rural infrastructure development help in increasing farm income Has the rural employment guarantee scheme affected farm profitability The answers will help us determine if we can double farm income by 2022 3 a target set by the present union government Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology Wallace C. Olsen,1991 The first of an eight volume series The Literature of the Agricultural Sciences this book analyzes the trends in the published literature of agricultural economics and rural sociology during the past fifty years It uses citation analysis and other bibliometric techniques to identify the primary journals report series and monographs of current importance to the developed industrial countries as well as those in the Third World
