A History of Feminist and Gender Economics Giandomenica Becchio, 2019-10-30 This book offers a historical exploration of the genesis of feminist economics and gender economics as well as their theoretical and methodological differences Its narrative also serves to embed both within a broader cultural context Although both feminist economics and gender neoclassical economics belong to the cultural process related to the central role of the political economy in promoting women s emancipation and empowerment they differ in many aspects Feminist economics mainly influenced by women s studies and feminism rejected neoclassical economics while gender neoclassical economics mainly influenced by home economics and the new home economics adopted the neoclassical economics approach to gender issues The book includes diverse case studies which also highlight the continuity between the story of women s emancipation and the more recent developments of feminist and gender studies This volume will be of great interest to researchers and academia in the fields of feminist economics gender studies and the history of economic thought

Political Economy of Transition Jozef M. van Brabant,2012-11-12 This book addresses the policy questions surrounding the challenge of transforming eastern European economies from their planned administrative past to vibrant market based entities Jozef van Brabant considers in turn the wider set of challenges facing these economies stabilization privatization liberalization institution building and developing and maintaining the sociopolitical consensus before examining the evolving role of the state Using concrete examples from the eastern European countries throughout including the Czech Republic and Bulgaria this work systematically examines in a society wide context the initial conditions of transformation the policy tasks ahead and the manner in which policies have been pursued

The Political Economy of Manufacturing Protection Christopher Findlay,Ross Garnaut,2017-10-10 Protection is a persistent feature of economic policy in developed and developing countries alike However it is now widely accepted that high protection holds back economic growth Why is protection so pervasive when it is widely recognised to be against the national interest of the countries which impose it This contradiction is the focus of this important volume first published in 1986 Economists from the Philippines Thailand Malaysia Singapore and Australia have written about their countries and draw conclusions on the causes of protection from statistical analysis and from interindustry structure

From Political Economy to Economics Dimitris Milonakis,Ben Fine,2009-01-13 Economics has become a monolithic science variously described as formalistic and autistic with neoclassical orthodoxy reigning supreme So argue Dimitris Milonakis and Ben Fine in this new major work of critical recollection The authors show how economics was once rich diverse multidimensional and pluralistic and unravel the processes that lead to orthodoxy s current predicament The book details how political economy became economics through the desocialisation and the dehistoricisation of the dismal science accompanied by the separation of economics from the other social sciences especially economic history and sociology It is argued that recent attempts from within economics to address the social and the historical have failed to acknowledge long standing debates amongst economists historians and other social scientists This has resulted in an impoverished historical and social content within mainstream economics The book ranges over the shifting role of the historical and the social in economic theory the shifting boundaries between the economic and the non economic all within a methodological context Schools of thought and individuals that have been neglected or marginalised are treated in full including classical political economy and Marx the German and British historical schools American institutionalism Weber and Schumpeter and their programme of Social konomik and the Austrian school At the same time developments within the mainstream tradition from marginalism through Marshall and Keynes to general equilibrium theory are also scrutinised and the clashes between the various camps from the famous Methodenstreit to the fierce debates of the 1930s and beyond brought to the fore The prime rationale underpinning this account drawn from the past is to put the case for political economy back on the agenda This is done by treating economics as a social science once again rather than as a positive science as has been the inclination since the time of Jevons and Walras It involves transcending the boundaries of the social sciences but in a particular way that is in exactly the opposite direction now being taken by economics imperialism Drawing on the rich traditions of the past the reintroduction and full incorporation of the social and the historical into the main corpus of political economy will be possible in the future
